PREFACE.

THE fine series of Episcopal Registers belonging to the diocese of Winchester begins with the Register of John de Pontissara,[1] who was appointed to the Bishoprick by Pope Martin IV, at Orvieto, on Tuesday, the 9th of June, 1282, and was consecrated on the Sunday following. He died at Wolveseye, on Saturday, the 5th of December, 1304, in the twenty-third year of his episcopate. It is a finely written and well preserved volume of 226 folios, measuring 12½ by 9 inches. Although in some respects imperfect, it contains an interesting collection of documents, scarcely excelled in variety, value, and importance by any of the succeeding Registers. The next in order is that of his successor, Brother Henry Wodeloke, who from the dignified position of Prior of the Cathedral Monastery was elected to the Episcopal chair in January, 1304-5, and occupied the See till the day of his death, which occurred at Farnham Castle on Monday, the 28th of June, 1316, in the twelfth year of his Consecration. His Register is a stout volume of 395 folios, the parchment leaves being a little larger than those of the previous volume. It is a fine specimen of an Episcopal Register, written in a larger and freer hand than the other; and it contains an almost unrivalled collection of documents, many of them of considerable interest historically, including a valuable series of his Visitation decrees, sent to the Religious Houses of the Diocese.

These important Registers are followed by two thin books of corresponding size, containing the Acts of the short Episcopates of John de Sandale and Rigaud de Asserio.

From a chronological point of view Bishop Pontissara's volume claimed the first attention, and considerable preparations were made for its publication. Its contents were thoroughly investigated and analysed, and many contemporary documents, valuable by way of illustration and properly coming within its scope, had been collected. But, on further consideration, it was thought advisable to give precedence to these slender volumes, as they could be printed in extenso, and serve as a sort of text-book in the hands of historical and ecclesiastical students, displaying, once for all, the appearance and arrangement, and the exact character, of the great variety of documents and formulas to be met with in the Episcopal Registers of the period. And, in order to illustrate further this particular class of records, it was thought desirable to enhance their value and utility by collecting as many contemporary entries as could be traced relating to these Bishops, thus including various other documents and formulas in use at that time, and making the volume a complete storehouse, to which students could refer as to a text-book. With this aim in view the MSS. are represented faithfully, exactly as they stand, the wording and spelling of the originals having been closely followed; while attention has been directed to all obvious clerical errors by foot-notes, and to accidental omissions by placing the omitted words within brackets. In like manner words which have been destroyed by damp, or other injury, have been restored, when it could be done with certainty from a comparison with other contemporaneous entries. And here it may be added that the reprehensible practice of modernising these ancient writings, giving them the appearance of writings of the 16th and later centuries, has been wholly eschewed. Not a diphthong, for instance, is to be found anywhere in these Registers; the simple "e" was always used, and there can be no warrant for systematically substituting the former for the latter in what professes to be a faithful reproduction, not a reformed version, of the originals.[1]

[1] It is impossible to deprecate too strongly the absurd custom of many editors and authors, who affect to translate the "de" prefixed to surnames derived from place-names, or insert it where it does not occur. This particular word is indicative of a usage which was limited to a certain period; and it is not unfrequently of much service to the pains-taking student, both in the elucidation of the dates of mediæval documents, and as a test of the authenticity of documents and dates, when other indications are wanting. By way of illustration I may mention that, as long ago as 1846, in which year the late Professor Willis published his able and almost exhaustive Architectural History of Winchester Cathedral, in which he refers continuously to a manuscript preserved at All Souls College, Oxford, of which "the title sets forth that John of Exeter wrote it with his own hands in the year of our Lord 1531," I was puzzled by his inference that, as the list of Kings "concludes with the coronation of Henry VI, and with a prayer for his prosperity," while "the list of Bishops terminates with the succession of Cardinal Beaufort," "the date at the beginning must be read 1431 instead of 1531." But the title is as follows:—"Liber historialis et antiquitatum Domus Sancti Swithuni Wintonie Johannis Exceter, ejusdem

The Register of Bishop Sandale consists of 61 leaves of parchment, formerly made up in two parts or bundles, which remained unbound, or protected only by limp covers of leather which in course of time became defective, and about the year 1764 it received its present binding of rough calf, strongly sewn with bands at the back, and an inscription on red leather,—JOHANNES DE SANDALE. PARS, I, II. The volume consists of two divisions, each prefaced by two paper leaves, the first containing a neatly written title and the second a short account of the contents, the work of the eminent Lambeth Librarian, Dr. Andrew Coltee Ducarel, and inserted when the volume was bound,—(1) "Registrum Dñi Johannis de Sandale, Wyntoñ Eṗi, A.D. 1316, 1317, 1318, & 1319, pars prima." (2) "Synopsis of the Register Book of John de Sandale, Bishop of Winchester, pars prima. It consists of 35 Folios,—is torn at Fol. 1 and 2, and from Fol. 32 to 35. It begins, Kal. Dec.[1] A.D. 1316, and ends 4 Id. Julii, A.D. 1319, and contains various Commissions, Mandates, Licences, Sequestrations and Relaxations, Absolutions, Letters Testimonial, Acquittances, Taxations of divers Benefices and Account of such as were then vacant.

At Folio 25*b and Fol.* 31*a are two Compositions or Endowments of the Vicarage of Eastmean.*"

The title-page to the second Part corresponds with that of the first Part, except that it gives the words—pars secunda in lieu of pars prima; and on the next leaf is written,—

"Synopsis of the Register Book of John de Sandale, Bishop of Winchester. Pars secunda. From Folio 36 to Folio 47, Institutions and Collations from 9 Kal. Oct., 1316, to 6 Id. Sept., 1318.

loci commonachi, propriis manibus descriptus, anno Dominice Incarnacionis millesimo quingentesimo tricesimo primo"; and the MS. concludes with the words, "Hec Exceter propria scripsit manu. Finis." The introduction (thirty times or more) of the preposition "of" before the surname was unwarranted, for even at the earliest assigned date (1431) it had long ceased to be used; and, moreover, the title only says that it was copied by the hand of John Exceter, a monk of the said place. Among the records of the 15th century I could trace no monk of St. Swithun's bearing this name; but a sight of the original MS. soon solved the difficulty, for both the paper on which it was written and the handwriting are of the time of Henry VIII, and it did not take long to discover that the writer was a monk then living in the Monastery, and that the treatise itself was evidently one of the compilations of Dom Thomas Rudborne.

[1] This date is taken apparently from the first perfect folio (3), "Kal. Decembris" are the first words on it; but it is only a portion of the date commencing on the preceding folio.

Folio 43*a*, to Folio 44*b*. An Inquisition of the value and right of Patronage to a Chantery in the Church of Mapledurwell, founded by Lady Ela de Longespe, Countess of Warwick, Dat. apud Basingstoke, 6 Id. August, A.D. 1317.[1]

Folio 48 to Folio 61, Letters Dimissory, Ordinations, and Names of the Persons ordained from 3 Non. November, 1316, to 11 Kal. Oct., 1318."

The folios were left unnumbered until the beginning of the seventeenth century, when they were marked with figures, 1 to 50; the remaining folios, containing the Ordination records, were numbered 51 to 61 when the volume received its present binding.[2] There are nine quaterni or separate bundles; the first contains folios 1–8, the second 9–11, followed by a cut out folio of which the back strip remains. Folio 11 has at the upper left hand corner the letter 𝔄 in a contemporary hand, indicating that it was intended to be the first quaternus, and it is so in point of date. The third quaternus consists of folios 12–19, and folio 12 has, in the corresponding corner, the letter 𝔅. The front side of this folio was evidently left blank and afterwards utilized. The fourth quaternus includes folios 20–27, and has the catch letter ℭ in the upper corner; the fifth, folios 28–31; three leaves, left apparently blank, having been cut out between folios 30 and 31. The next quaternus has only four folios, 32–35, these are damaged at the edges, nibbled by rodents, and the dorse of 35, the concluding folio of Part one, is left blank, and is much rubbed and discoloured by dirt, showing that for many years it was unprotected by any kind of covering, and the same must be said of the front of this Part, which accounts for the crumpled, dirty, and torn condition of folios 1–3.

[1] This date should be 1314, see page 146; the anno predicto refers to the commission (p. 143). It shows how mistakes arise from inattention and hasty examination of records of this character. Moreover, there is not a word in this document as to the value of the Chantry, nor did it come within the scope of the directed inquiry.

[2] The Ordination folios of our Episcopal Registers were generally left unnumbered: those in the Registers of Edyndone, Wykeham, Beaufort, and Wayneflete, of the Winchester series, were all unmarked until about sixty years ago. They were then initialled with the capital letters of the Alphabet by Mr. William Turner Alchin, who afterwards became Librarian at the Guildhall, London, and died on the 3rd of February, 1865, aged 76. Many of the Registers of other dioceses have the folios of their Ordination records unmarked to this day.

The seventh quaternus consists of twelve leaves,—folios 36 to 47 inclusive. This commences the Second Part of the Register (the pars secunda of the modern title page),[1] the Collations and Institutions. Folio 47 was followed by another quaternus, now lost; and the Institutions end abruptly on the 8th of September, 1318. The next quaternus contains eight leaves, —folios 48–55; and the first leaf has the letter a at the top left hand corner, to shew that it was the commencement of the division containing Letters Dimissory and Ordinations. The ninth and last quaternus was made up of eight folios; but the two last leaves, being left blank, have been cut out. The existing folios are marked 56–61, but only one column of the dorse of the last folio has been used; the vacant space was, probably, left for entries of Letters Dimissory, as in the case of the dorse of folio 51, which is still partly unused. There was, evidently, another quaternus, now lost, as noted on page 212.

These quires or quaterni were kept separately for convenience of use and reference; several of them were in progress at the same time, and they were not put together till after the Bishop's death, or at some later period. This accounts for the blank leaves, which, as we have said, were cut out by the binder; the existence of stumps, therefore, must not be taken for evidence of mutilation.

The frontispiece shows the condition of the first, second, and third folios of this Register; and the folding plate exhibits a perfect page, including one of the large headings. Above each of the entries space was left for the insertion of a rubricated title, and many of these spaces remain unfilled. It will be observed that the rubricator in several instances has, apparently, made a special point of varying from the text in the spelling of names of places and surnames, as if to show his phonetic skill! These rubricated titles extend from folio 1 to folio 19 inclusive; and thence to the end of the first part (folio 35) no headings are given, though an occasional marginal reference occurs. In the Second Part of the Register the rubricated titles extend from folio 36 to folio 43 inclusive, and in the Ordination records they end on folio 53*b*.

[1] It is evident that this portion originally formed a separate bundle or book; an old index or list of contents, written at the commencement of the 17th century, introduces it as,—"Secunda pars Johannis de Sandale Registri sui."

The earliest date in this Register is the 23rd of September, 1316 (fol. 36); the latest the 6th of October, 1319 (fol. 34 b). Of the divisions of the Register, the first extends from the 8th to the 14th of October, 1316 (fol. 11)[1] and from the 2nd of November, 1316, to the 6th of October, 1319; the second—Institutions and Collations—from the 23rd of September, 1316, to the 8th of September, 1318; and the third from the 3rd of November, 1316, to the 13th of September, 1319.[2]

After the 19th of January, 1317-18 (fol. 42 b), till the 17th of July, 1318 (fol. 47 b), the Registrar has neglected in the Institution entries to insert the cause of vacancy, contenting himself with recording simply the fact that the church was vacant.[3]

The table of contents gives, in chronological order, a brief statement of the purport of each entry of the Register; and it is not necessary, therefore, to do more in this place than direct attention to some of the more important. On page 85 will be found the names of the Franciscan Friars of Winchester and Southampton, who were licensed to preach and hear confessions within the diocese. Of Conventual Elections the particulars are given as to Hyde Abbey and Christchurch and Mottisfont Priories.[4] Certain Charters were confirmed by the Bishop which had been granted by his predecessors, securing the yearly payment of 30 marks to the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun out of the issues of St. Giles' Fair.[5] A year after the institution of Robert de Sandale to Micheldever Vicarage,[6] the Bishop went there on a visit, and had an unpleasant experience, as we gather from a record of the allowance of 4*l.* 12*s.* made to the Reeve of the Episcopal Manor of Bishop's Sutton towards the cost of rebuilding the houses of the Vicarage of Micheldever, which were burnt while the Bishop was there. There are many entries relating to convicted clerks, imprisoned at Wolveseye:[7] the maintenance of each of these clerks, it appears, cost the Bishop a farthing a day; and the following account belongs to the first year of Bishop Sandale's episcopate, ending on the 29th of September, 1317:—For the sustenance of Thomas

The total cost was 11*s.* 7½*d.* Mandate to publish sentence of Excommunication against those who had forcibly taken a certain robber out of Sanctuary at Holy Trinity, Guildford, and had thrown him into Guildford Gaol.[1] Letter to Pope John XXII, certifying the carrying out of his New Constitution against pluralists within the diocese, and lists of the churches whose incumbents had been removed.[2] A Letter to the Pope, from the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of the Province, relative to the effect of the carrying out of his new Constitution.[3] Compositions or agreements as to the services in Northwood Chapel, Hayling Island,[4] and between the Rector and parishioners of Esher.[5] Ordinances as to the augmentation of the Vicarage of East Meon.[6] Inquisition as to the chantry founded by Lady Ela de Longspee, Countess of Warwick, in the chapel of Mapledurwell, near Basingstoke.[7] Licence to consecrate the site on which the Church of the Augustinian Friars, beyond the South Gate of the City of Winchester, was about to be built;[8] interdiction of burials therein, and relaxation of the interdict.[9] Appointment of Commissaries by the Bishop to act during his absence, while attending the Parliament held at York.[10] Bull of Pope John XXII for the reception of the Brothers of the late Order of Knights Templars into different Monasteries.[11]

The entries of Institutions and Collations cease on the 8th of September, 1318,[12] the record of those which took place during the remaining period, nearly fourteen months of Bishop Sandale's episcopate, having been lost. These must have included the collation of Nicholas de Aka to Brightestone rectory, in the room of Adam de Eglesfelde; the collation or provision of Ricaudin Justini to the vicarage of East Meon; the institution of John de Kermardyn to Hinton Amner rectory, before the 28th of October, 1318, by virtue of a papal reservation (dated on the 19th of March, 1316-17, in compliance with the request of Aymer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke), of a benefice in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester;[1] the institution of Richard de Bynteworthe (afterwards Bishop of London), before the 23rd of July, 1319,[2] to Sherfield-on-Loddon rectory; of John de Erdeshope to Bishop's Waltham rectory, by papal provision (dated on the 11th of May, 1317), that a living in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester should be assigned to him, to the value of 30 marks with cure of souls, or 20 marks without;[3] of Henry de Wigornia to Ashstead rectory, after the 25th of September, 1319;[4] of John de Wyndesore to Beddington rectory, by exchange from Newington with William de Alyngio; of Robert de la Lane to Chelsham vicarage, vacant by the resignation, on the 8th of September, 1318, of William atte Broke;[5] of Robert de Trumpesflet, collated to Crondal rectory in May or June, 1319; of Andrew ——— to Hascombe rectory; of Edmund de St. Clement to Mickleham rectory; and of Peter de Coudray to Streatham rectory. There were also among the lost entries Bishop Sandale's two presentations to Downton rectory, Wilts, in October and November, 1318,[6] and his presenation to Buttermere rectory, Wilts, in February, 1318-19.[7]

Many other episcopal acts of Bishop Sandale's time were not recorded in his Register, but simply filed in the Registry, the more important acts being from time to time entered on the quaterni; a circumstance which accounts for the occasional chronological irregularity of the entries. There can be no doubt that there were formerly in existence other separate quaterni of the Bishop's Acts, all of which have perished, with the solitary exception of a stray quire containing copies of the

[6] In the first instance, Robert de Sandale was presented; and, although no institution followed in his case, there are some curious particulars of the expenses connected with the vacancy,—"Paid to five men guarding the church of Downton, vacant from the 1st of November until the 8th of December (1318), viz. for 38 days, one at 3*d.* a day, and four at 2½*d.* a day,—41*s.* 2*d.*; and for the costs incurred at Wilton in taking the Inquisition on behalf of Sir Robert de Sandale, the presentee, 75*s.*"

Royal Writs, etc., received by the Bishop, which has been bound up at the end of Bishop Wodeloke's Register. The contents of this quire are printed as a continuation of the Register (pp. 213–264). It commences with what was, evidently, the second quaternus of the transcripts of these Writs, which were sent to the Bishop because those to whom they referred were clerks, beneficed (or supposed to be beneficed), within his diocese. The returns made thereto are generally given.[1] These Writs extend from the 4th of September, 1318, to the 24th of June, 1319.

This quaternus is followed by an account of the stock on the episcopal manors, and also of the dilapidations found thereon, at the time of the Bishop's death. The particulars were given upon oath, and set forth the numbers and kinds of the live stock on the different manors, and the extent of the sown lands; also, what had been carried away, and the timber which had been cut down or sold.[2] This is followed by a particular account and valuation of the live stock delivered to Rigaud de Asserio, the Elect-Confirmed of Winchester, in June and July, 1320.[3]

John de Sandale derived his name from the township of Sandale,[4] a suburb of Doncaster, in Yorkshire, although Doncaster may be said to have included in his day the two districts or townships known as Long Sandale and Little Sandale. Long Sandale is sometimes called Near Sandale, from its position with respect to Doncaster, and it lies within that parish. Little Sandale, which adjoins it, is within the honor of Coningsborough; and, having a parish church of its own, it is occasionally called Kirk-Sandale.[5] To Long Sandale belongs a liberty or soke called Wheatley; but at the time of the Domesday Survey Wheatley was the principal place, forming two manors, and Doncaster, Bentley, Longthwaite, Adwick, and Sandale were liberties or members of Wheatley.[6]

[1] pp. 213–232. [2] pp. 234–253. [3] pp. 254–264.

[4] The name of this place has, of late years, been clipped, and is, now, given sometimes as "Sandal," sometimes as "Sandall," this last a survival of the 17th century custom of duplicating the final consonant at the end of words; but this peculiarity has been to a great extent abandoned of late years. [5] An instance of this occurs on p. 379.

[6] "In Watelage habent Ulsi et Rainald ij maneria . . . . . Hec soca pertinent ad Watelaghe, Doncastre, Bendeleia, Langetouet, Adeuuic, Sandalia."—And in the recapitulation of the Wapentake of Strafford,—"In Watelag, Doncastre, Adeuuic, Scinestorp (hodie Skinthorpe), Langetouet, Benelei, et Sandalia."

Though Wheatley was, probably, the birth place of John de Sandale, the designation of "de Sandale" seems to have been preferred. "The places which formed Wheatley and its members," says Dr. Hunter,[1] "were after the Conquest united only in the chief Lord. A subsidiary manor was created at Wheatley by Nigel Fossard or his descendants, of which the earliest notice that has presented itself is in 7 Edward I (1279), when one William, who is called de Wateley, or de Wheatley, held it of the Mauleys at the rent of twenty-four shillings." It is not unlikely that this William de Wheatley was the father of John de Sandale. The Bishop's eldest brother had two sons, as will be seen hereafter; the eldest son was named William (after his father and grandfather presumably), and the second son John, after his uncle, Bishop Sandale. The manor of Wheatley certainly belonged to John de Sandale, for in the year 1301 he obtained a grant from King Edward I, to himself and his heirs for ever, to enjoy the right of free warren in all their demesne lands at Wheatley, in the County of York;[2] and on the 2nd of April, 1311, he obtained from King Edward II licence to crenellate, and enclose with a stone wall, his dwelling house of Wheatley; himself and his heirs to hold it, thus strengthened and embattled, for ever.[3] Under date 1 November, 1315, there is an entry relating to the carrying of corn to his manor of Wheatley.[4] His Register contains several documents dated at Wheatley; and after his decease, on an Inquisition held at Doncaster,[5] it was certified that he possessed no lands in demesne, as of the fee, at the time of his death, in the Wappentake of Strafford, in the County of York, but that he formerly held the manor of Wheatley, near Doncaster, in the said County, of Peter de Mauley, by the service of 27*s.* yearly, and that, four years and more before his death, he gave the said manor to Margery de Wilughby and to John, her son, to be held by the said Margery for life, and after her death to remain to the said John, her son,[6] and to his heirs and assigns for ever. This Margery appears to have been the Bishop's niece; and, as his two nephews above mentioned, the sons of his eldest brother, were ecclesiastics, it is easy to understand his settling the property upon their sister and her son, his great nephew and namesake. John de Wilughby was one of the Bishop's esquires or gentleman-attendants, and he arrived at Southwark a few days after the Bishop's death, to attend his funeral.[1]

[6] John de Wyleghby was one of the suite of John de Sandale on his going to Scotland in October, 1305—See p. 297. Under Fareham, in the accounts for the year 1319, is a payment of 7*s.* 10½*d.* for the expenses of John de Wyleby, Alan de Scures, and Walter Wodeloke, chasing there in the summer.

John de Sandale also owned the manor of Great Coates, south of the Humber, near Great Grimsby, in the County of Lincoln; and for this manor also he obtained, in 1313, a grant of free warren for himself and his heirs for ever, as well as the wreckage of the sea and all animals called waifs, found within the said manor.[2] His brother Robert seems to have resided on this property, which accounts for his sons being described as of the diocese of Lincoln;[3] and Richard de Shenefelde, Rector of Great Coates, who was promoted to the Subdiaconate by the Bishop, came up to London to attend his funeral.[4] This manor was also settled upon Margery[5] and John de Wilughby, and afterwards passed, together with Wheatley, to Thomas de Bernardestone, who married the heiress of Wilughby who procured, in 1347, a renewal of the grants of free warren for the manors of Wheatley and Great Coates.[6]

At the disastrous battle of Bannockburn, fought on the 24th of June, 1314, when King Edward II fled to Dunbar, and escaped thence by sea to Berwick, having lost his privy seal and his treasure, which, together with a vast array of military engines and provisions, fell into the hands of the victors, among the captives was Roger de Northburgh, Keeper of the King's privy seal, who, with two nephews of John de Sandale and twenty-two barons and bannerets, with sixty knights, fell into the hands of the Scots, their lives being spared for the sake of ransom. On the 12th of January, 1314-15, the King granted to John de Sandale a Scot who had been detained as a prisoner of war in the Tower of London, to enable him to effect an exchange for two of his nephews; but, unfortunately, the grant does not give their names.[1] In the concluding division of the appendix such particulars as we have been able to discover respecting his kinsfolk are given,[2] and a tentative tabular pedigree will be found at the end of this Preface.

It seems not unlikely that John de Sandale began his official career as a clerk in the King's Great Wardrobe, for we have failed to find his name in any document earlier than the royal letter of safe-conduct, issued to him on the 17th of October, 1294, when he was sent by King Edward I into Shropshire and elsewhere, with certain necessaries for the same.[3] In September, 1295, he was sent, and with him Richard de Staunford, to the sea ports of the southern and western coasts, to take all necessary measures touching ships carrying 40 tuns of wine and upwards, in order that, with their crews and gear, they might be ready for the King's service when wanted.[4] On the 28th of September in the same year, the office of Keeper of the Great Wardrobe was committed to John de Hustwayte, during the King's pleasure, on condition that he performed the duties faithfully, by the testimony of John de Sandale, the King's clerk.[5] In May, 1297, he was sent by the King to Gascony and Bayonne, in company of Edmund the King's brother, as controller of receipts and payments;[6] and on the 20th of August following, the King issued an order for the Treasurer and Chamberlains of the Exchequer to pay to his beloved clerk, John de Sandale, then in Gascony, the sum of 16121*l.* 15*s.* 1½*d.* to meet the expenses of the King's army there.[7] On the 10th of April, 1298, a similar order was issued to pay to him, for the same purpose, 10186*l.* 16*s.* 0½*d.*[8] After this, returning to England, he was appointed keeper of the Royal Mints, on the 15th of October, 1298.[1] In the accounts of the Great Wardrobe for the year 1300 there are two entries of payments made to him for service in Scotland: (1)—Paid to Sir John de Sandale, Keeper of the King's Exchange in England, for the expenses of his clerks, esquires, and sergeants-at-arms, going from London to Carlaverock, with 2000*l.*, out of the issues of the said Exchange, for the expenses of the King and his army in the Scotch war, between the 30th of June and the 24th of July, viz., for 25 days, occupied in going, staying at Carlaverock, and returning thence to London, etc., as appears by the particulars delivered into the Wardrobe by John de Wycombe, clerk of the said Sir John, at Carlaverock, on the 13th of July,—17*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* (2)—To the said Sir John, for money paid by him to Lapin Rogers and Robert de Sandale, taking from London to Carlisle 1000 marks for the King, received from the issues of the Exchange in London, for their expenses on the way,—10*l.* 3*s.* 7½*d.*; and for money paid to John de Wycombe, clerk, for a similar service with respect to 1000*l.* sent there by the said Sir John in the month of July,—6*l.* 15*s.* Being about to go again into Gascony on the King's service, he obtained letters of protection on the 29th of September, 1299;[2] and the particulars of this journey also occur in the Wardrobe accounts,—Paid to Sir John de Sandale, clerk, sent by the King into Gascony, together with Guy Ferre, junior, and Thomas de Cambridge, clerk, to audit and receive the accounts of divers stipendiaries and others, dwelling in the parts of Gascony in the King's service, for their expenses from the 27th of September, 1299, to the 17th of January following, viz., for 114 days, together with the passage of themselves and their servants, their baggage and horses, between Dover and Wissant, in going and returning, and the customs levied at those places, as appears by the particulars delivered by the said Sir John into the Wardrobe,—95*l.* 7*s.* 1½*d.*, and in replacing two horses lost on the journey, 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, as by account rendered on the 29th of May, 1301.—£112. 0*s.* 5½*d.* There is also an order, dated 24 March, 1299-1300, for the Treasurer and Chamberlains of the Exchequer to pay to John de Sandale, clerk, staying in Gascony, 4867*l.* 3*s.*, to meet the expenses of the King's army in Gascony.[3]

The Royal Mints were still in Sandale's charge; but some of them had been transferred to the keeping of the Friscobaldi of Florence, who were, however, to be answerable to him as Keeper of the Mints. His official salary was at the rate of two shillings a day, and he retained the office till the 29th of September, 1303.[1] In February, 1304-5, he was appointed one of the commissioners to receive and answer all petitions presented to Parliament by the people of Gascony, which could be answered without reference to the King.[2] In 1305 he was promoted to the onerous and responsible office of Chamberlain of Scotland, and Receiver of the profits of the King's lands there, at a salary of 100*l.* a year.[3] The letters of protection and of attorney for himself and his suite proceeding to Scotland are dated 3 April, 1305;[4] and in the following October the Castle of Berwick-on-Tweed was added to his charge.[5] He returned to England in the autumn of 1305, the King having, on the 13th of July, summoned him to appear in person at the Parliament to be held at Westminster in the Octaves of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin;[6] and in this Parliament he was appointed and sworn to treat with the elected representatives of Scotland concerning the government of the land. For his return to Scotland he was granted letters of protection and of attorney, for himself and certain members of his suite, on the 28th of October.[7] At Winchester, on the 8th of April, 1306, the King directed him to issue such moneys as should be required for the payment of the troops under the command of Adomar de Valence and Henry de Percy;[8] and he was present in the Council held at Lanercost Priory, on the 23rd of October, touching the doing of homage to King Edward I by James, Steward of Scotland, for his lands in that country.[9]

The value of John de Sandale's services, and his ability, and capacity in dealing with fiscal matters was now evident, and his advancement to yet higher and more responsible offices quickly followed; and, as he was not only Chamberlain of Scotland, but also Keeper of the King's caravan, or movable wardrobe, at the time of the death of Edward, he was doubtless at Burgh-upon-the-Sand when that event took place on the 7th of July, 1307.

Edward II reached Carlisle on the 24th of July; and then, after a short delay, began the usual change of officials. Sandale was appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer on the 20th of August.[1] On the 10th of September Eustace de Cotesbache received the office of Chamberlain of Scotland, and Sandale was directed to hand over to him, without delay, the rolls, memoranda, and all other things appertaining thereto.[2] As Chancellor of the Exchequer he received a yearly fee of 40 marks (26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*), the first order for payment being dated 1 December, 1308, viz., 20 marks for Easter term and the same amount for Michaelmas term then last past; the last order was dated 4 July, 1310,[3] for the preceding Easter term, which looks as if the Crown was not very punctual in the matter of payments.

On the 18th of January, 1307-8, he was summoned, among the other magnates of the realm, to attend the King's Coronation, to be celebrated at Westminster on the Sunday after the feast of St. Valentine,[4] but subsequently postponed to the following Sunday, the 25th of February, when the King was crowned by Henry Wodeloke, Bishop of Winchester;[5] and on the next day (and on several subsequent occasions), he was summoned to attend Parliament. On the 15th of March he was present at the Court of Exchequer, and witnessed the delivery of the King's smaller seal into the hands of the Remembrancer;[6] and on the 11th of May, 1310, he witnessed the delivery of the Great Seal by John de Langetone, Bishop of Chichester, the Chancellor, to the King at Woodstock.[7] On the 6th of July following, the King, having appointed his Treasurer, Walter Reynolds, Keeper of the Great Seal, promoted Sandale to the former office,[1] at a salary of 100 marks (66l. 13*s.* 4*d.*) a year, to be paid at Michaelmas and Easter. To this period belongs a letter written on his behalf to the Pope by the King;[2] and as it refers with appreciation to his services to the Crown, the following translation may be acceptable:—

To the Most Holy Father in Christ, the Lord Clement, by Divine providence Supreme Pontiff of the most Holy Roman and Universal Church, Edward, by the grace of God King of England, Lord of Ireland, and Duke of Aquitaine, recommending himself at your holy feet with devout kisses. We have recourse, with the greater confidence, to the assistance of your paternal goodness for the increase of honours and the removal of disabilities in the case of those engaged in our service, whom we have found most profitable therein, and also well commended for the great excellency of their merits; seeing that, already, we have abundant cause for gratitude, and, confident in the uprightness of our intention, have reason to hope that, now also, you will, of your clemency, accord to us a gracious hearing. Therefore, desiring that our beloved clerk, of our own household, John de Sandale, our Treasurer (who for a long period was engaged in the service of the Lord Edward, of illustrious memory, our father, and ever conducted himself therein to his own credit and the King's advantage; and at the present time, holding a chief place amongst our ministers, incurs unceasing labour and charges on our behalf), may now, in the business on which he is engaged, obtain increase of honour with your Holiness, by whom the virtuous are loved and they who shew good will are accounted worthy of good will, and may find you benevolent in bestowing favours and liberal in grace; we supplicate your Blessedness, with all earnestness, that you will deign, for our sake, to receive, as specially commended to you, our said clerk, whose many conspicuous virtues, his becoming manners and conversation, and his vast store of merits make him worthy of all favour and grace; and that you will allow his business to be carefully explained to you on his behalf, and grant him a favourable hearing, in the plenitude of your Apostolic Sanctity, in accordance with our earnest desire. For we, seeking above all things the happy termination of this business, for the special affection which we entertain towards our said clerk, on account of his great merits, desire, in accordance with your good pleasure, to bestow even greater favours on him, when opportunity shall arise.

Dated at Berwick-on-Tweed in Scotland, the 16th day of December, in the fourth year of our reign (A.D. 1310).

On the 28th of February, 1310-11, the King, by a Writ dated at Berwick-on-Tweed, requested of John de Sandale, as one of the Executors of Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln,[1] a loan of 4000 marks out of the assets of the testator, that he might pay therewith the troops engaged in the defence of the town of Perth. For this and other sums thus borrowed an acknowledgment was given by the King on the 28th of October, 1312; and on the following day the customs of the port of Kingston-upon-Hull were assigned to Sandale and his co-executors in discharge of the said loans, which amounted to nearly 3360*l.*[2]

On the 14th of March, 1311-12, the King granted the office of Treasurer to the Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, and on the 4th of October following Sandale was appointed his deputy.[3] While he was thus engaged his salary remained unpaid until the 20th of October, 1313, when he obtained an order for the payment of 250 marks, and other payments on account are recorded down to the 12th of June, 1314.[4]

On the 3rd of June, 1312, Sandale was summoned, as Clerk of the Council, to the Parliament to be held at Lincoln on the 23rd of July.[5] On the 29th of October certain citizens of London appeared before him and others of the Council, and gave security for their good behaviour;[6] and in the following month various persons proffered fines before him, that they might be excused from receiving knighthood.[7] On the 16th of April, 1313, he purchased from the King a certain messuage, with its appurtenances, in the suburbs of Lincoln, in Thornbridgegate, which had formerly belonged to the Penitential Friars of Jesus Christ, and which, the Friars being all dead, had come into the King's hands as an escheat.[1] In August, 1313, he was appointed one of the Commissioners to devise measures for the defence of the Marches of Northumberland and Cumberland, in concert with the magnates of those Counties.[2]

On the 9th of October, 1313, the King granted to him, in consideration of a yearly rent of 30*l.*, the manor of Roydon, in Essex, which had formerly appertained to the Knights Templars, together with the fruits of the rectory;[3] but on the 28th of November he was directed to deliver up the church and its ornaments to the Hospitallers.[4] On the 29th of July, 1314, he was summoned to attend the Parliament to be held at York on the 9th of September;[5] and there, on the 26th of the same month, he resigned the keepership of the office of Treasurer of the Exchequer,[6] and was elevated on the same day to the highest secular dignity under the Crown. An entry on the Close Roll records that, on the Thursday nearest before the feast of St. Michael, at York, Sir Adam de Osgodeby, Sir Robert de Bardelby, and Sir William de Ayremynne, Keepers of the King's Great Seal, at the hour of Vespers, in the King's chamber within the Palace of the Archbishop of York, delivered the said Great Seal to the King, under the seals of the said Adam and Robert; and the King, having received it at their hands, delivered it immediately to Sir John de Sandale, appointing him his Chancellor; and he was thereupon sworn to perform well and faithfully all things which appertained to the said office. And on the following day, as Chancellor, in the Hospice of Sir Stephen de Mauley,[7] near the Church of St. Peter's, York, he opened the said Seal and sealed certain Writs therewith.[8] In May, 1315, Sandale was empowered, with others, to treat with the Earl of Lancaster concerning the custody of the Marches of Scotland,[9] and for this purpose he left London, on the 2nd of June, for Kenilworth, where the Earl was staying; leaving the Great Seal at his house near Aldgate, in the custody of certain officials.[1] On the 21st of September, Edward de Balliol, who, although a prisoner of war, had obtained permission to leave the country, presented himself before the Chancellor in the aforesaid house in accordance with the terms of his parole: he had pledged himself to return to England before Michaelmas.[2] In the Parliament which assembled at Lincoln on the 27th of January, 1315-16, he was appointed, with others, to receive the procurations and excuses of the absent prelates, etc.[3]

Thus far, we have followed the career of John de Sandale in secular matters, till within a few months of his election to the Bishoprick of Winchester. Retracing our steps, we proceed to give a brief notice of his early ecclesiastical career. At this period, as, indeed, for centuries before, it was a great advantage for clerics to be in the service of the Crown, and their services were in great demand, as the Crown was thereby enabled to economise, saving the cost of maintaining a large staff of officials. By ancient prescription, clerks in the King's service could not only hold a large number of benefices and other ecclesiastical preferments in plurality, but were exempt from the obligation of residing even upon those benefices to which the cure of souls was attached, being permitted to appoint Vicars to perform the duties. The official payments of the Crown (always a bad paymaster) were at this period, generally, in arrear, of which some evidence has been given above; and the enormous expense involved in carrying on for several years, with but few intermissions, the war with Scotland, so reduced its finances that, so far from paying his officials their due, the King was frequently glad to borrow of them,[4] never hesitating to allow them to embarrass themselves with pecuniary obligations. Compensation was, of course, necessary, and it was provided without scruple out of the revenues of the Church, the necessity of the hour being met by conferring upon them one ecclesiastical benefice after another, especially prebends and other non-residentiary preferments; and with the same object in view constant applications were made to the Roman Court for privileges and indults. Attempts were made, from time to time, to put down these fearful abuses; but such reforms were steadily, and for the most part successfully, resisted, as the pages of this Register testify.

[4] For instance, there is an Order, dated 24 April, 1316, for the Treasurer and Chamberlains of the Exchequer to pay out of the King's money, to his beloved clerk, Sir John de Sandale, the 130 marks (86*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*) which the said John had lent to Master Walter de Islepe, the King's Treasurer in Ireland, for the King's affairs in those parts,—viz., 100 marks out of the receipts of the said Sir John's prebend of Finglas, and 30 marks from Nicholas de Balcoste, clerk of the said Sir John, paid to Alexander le Convers, one of the King's clerks, for the same purpose.—Liberate Roll, 9 Edw. II, m. 2. There is also a similar entry, dated 21 May, on the Close Roll, 9 Edw. II, m. 7.

The earliest of Sandale's ecclesiastical preferments were the rectories of Castle Rising, Norfolk, on the presentation of Roger de Montalt,[1] and of Wimbish, in Essex, on the presentation of Robert, Baron Fitz Walter;[2] they were not, however, of great value, as the former was taxed at 7*l.* and the latter at 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* On the 4th of April, 1299, King Edward I presented him to the treasurership of St. Patrick's, Dublin,[3] which was taxed at 40 marks (26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*). Not long after this he was presented by the Prior and Convent of Lewes to the rectory of Feltwell-St. Mary, Norfolk; but the right of presentation was disputed by Nicholas de Contessale, who claimed it by grant of the Bishop of Norwich; the matter was referred to the Archbishop,[4] who gave his award on the 8th of April, 1304, in favour of Contessale. In or before 1305, being in Subdeacon's Orders, he resigned the above benefices, accepting in lieu of them the chancellorship of St. Patrick's, Dublin, taxed at 40*l.*, and the churches of Lockington, Yorkshire, Aston, in Warwickshire, and Stoke-on-Trent, of the respective values of 16*l.*, 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, and 40*l.*, representing a total of £122. 13*s.* 4*d.* (a large sum in those days). As he had not only become a pluralist, but had obtained these livings without dispensation or taking higher Orders, application was made to the Pope to sanction what had been done, and to allow him to continue in the Subdiaconate for some time to come, the decrees of the last General Council of Lyons notwithstanding. This request was earnestly supported in letters from the King

[1] His institution to this rectory occurred before the year 1299, when the Norwich Registers begin; and he held it till 1302, when John de Cokermuthe succeeded him. The latter was presented by Sir Robert de Montalt, and held it till 1309.

[2] As these presentations took place anterior to the date of the earliest existing Registers, either at Norwich or London, we are unable to give the dates of institution.

and the Earl of Lincoln, and the necessary indult was issued on the 15th of January, 1305-6, permitting him to retain the above benefices and to remain a Subdeacon for the next seven years.[1] Not long before the accession of Edward II to the throne another similar application was made to the Pope, which resulted in another indult, granted on the 3rd of August, 1307, in which his merits are extolled, as well as his services to the late King and to the Prince of Wales, whose clerk and familiar he was. It allowed him to accept preferments to the value of 200*l.* a year, and to exchange two of the churches he already held for others.[2] On the 25th of April, 1309, the King granted him the Archdeaconry of Richmond;[3] but this fell to the ground, for the Archdeaconry was not vacant. Two days later, the King presented him to the rectory of Misterton,[4] in Nottinghamshire, and in the ensuing month granted him the prebend of Compton Dundon, in the Cathedral church of Wells.[4] On the 13th of June, 1310, the King presented him to the valuable rectory of Simonburn, in Northumberland,[4] taxed at 136*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*; and in this year, if not earlier, he was Master of St. Katherine's Hospital, near the Tower of London, which was in the gift of the Queen, and he held it till his promotion to the Bishoprick of Winchester.[5] His next preferment was in the diocese of Winchester, the rectory of Arreton, in the Isle of Wight, to which he was presented by the Abbat and Convent of Lyra in Normandy, and a commission was issued to the Prior of Winchester Cathedral for his institution.[6] We find him soon afterwards complaining of the dilapidated condition of the buildings, books, and ornaments belonging to the church;[6] but he did not retain it long. Other important preferments, however, came rapidly into his hands. He resigned the rectory of Lockington and received by the gift of Edward II, in 1307, the richest rectory in Scotland, the church of Dunbar, in the Bishoprick of St. Andrews, which was of the taxed value of 240*l.* On the 28th of May, 1308, he

On the 1st of September, 1315, at Lincoln, the King granted a licence in mortmain, to enable John de Crumbwell and Idonea his wife to give and assign, in pure and perpetual alms, the advowson of the church of Winterslow (Wilts), which was of the inheritance of the said Idonea, to John de Sandale, the King's clerk, Warden of the Hospital of St. Katherine near the Tower of London, and to the brothers and sisters of the said Hospital.—*Rot. was instituted to the church of North Mimms, in Hertfordshire, on the presentation of Sir Ralph de Monte Caniso;[1] and on the 19th of August, 1310, he was collated by Archbishop Winchelesey to the church of Wimbledon, in Surrey,[2] taxed at 40*l.* In the following month he obtained a grant from the King of the provostship of the Cathedral church of Wells and of the prebend of Wiveliscombe:[3] but, as Robert de Haselshawe happened to be in possession of both, no advantage accrued to him on this occasion, except, perhaps, some sort of shadowy claim to other preferment in compensation for his disappointment. On the 12th of January, 1310-11, the Archbishop of Canterbury bestowed upon him the treasurership of Lichfield Cathedral.[4] This is, indeed, an astonishing and most sad record! The revenues of the Church were diverted to meet the needs of the impoverished exchequer. And the Crown was insatiable. We soon find the King again appealing to the Pope for further like favours on Sandale's behalf, describing him as a man of the highest merit, and obtaining for him additional privileges, such as the power to retain or exchange certain of his benefices as he might desire, and permission to postpone for yet another year the obligation of taking higher Orders.[5]

About this time a singular occurrence happened, which cannot now be explained. On the 14th of March, 1311-12, a mandate was issued at York, directing Sandale to surrender the keys and all other things appertaining to the office of Treasurer.[6] But within a fortnight a false report reached the Court, at York, that he was dead; and, forthwith, not only was a Writ for the sequestration of his goods issued, but on the same day the King conferred upon John de Pelham the rectory of Simonburn, and the Bishop of Durham thereupon issued a mandate for the Archdeacon of Northumberland to hold Inquisition as to the vacancy.[7] However, whether or not he was lost for the time, in Scotland or elsewhere, Sandale was still in the land of the living; and on the 17th of July the King granted to him the prebend of Fenton, in the Metropolitan church of York, and on the 25th of the same month the church of Boughton, in Kent.[8] Shortly afterwards, on the 28th of October, another commendatory letter from the King was dispatched to the Pope, urging that further favours might be granted to his beloved clerk, and that a favourable consideration should be shown to his proctors for the expediting of his affairs; and this was followed up by two additional urgent letters, and a supplementary letter addressed to Cardinal Arnald de Pelagrua to the same effect.[1] The Pope yielded, and on the 4th of December, 1313, issued another indult to his "beloved son, John de Sandale, priest, Treasurer of the Cathedral church of Lichfield, and clerk of his most dear son, Edward, the illustrious King of England," confirming him in all his preferments, sanctioning his resignations and exchanges, and supplying all defects and omissions in former indults.[2]

John de Sandale also held, in addition to the chancellorship, the prebend of Finglas, in the church of St. Patrick, Dublin, and on the 24th of September, 1313, we find him, with his co-canon, John de Hothum, announcing to the King the death of the Archbishop of Dublin, John de Leeke, and obtaining the royal licence for the election of a successor.[3] Among his other preferments was the prebend of Newington, in the Cathedral church of St. Paul's, London, and on the deanery being reported vacant by the death of Cardinal Arnald de Cantilupe, the Canons unanimously elected him as their Dean, the King writing forthwith (7 February, 1313-14) to the Pope for the confirmation of his election, and to several of the Cardinals for their support.[4] But a mistake had again been made; the deanery was not vacant; and we are inclined to suspect that the whole business was a diplomatic move, with the object of bringing the King's favourite once more to the front, as deserving further promotion!

On the 26th of September, 1314, as already mentioned, Sandale was appointed Chancellor; and on the 22nd of February following, Walter de Stapeldone, Bishop of Exeter, collated him to a canonry and prebend in the Collegiate church of St. Crantock, in Cornwall,[5] which in the ensuing month he exchanged with Edward de St. John for a canonry and the prebend of Cropredy, in the Cathedral church of Lincoln. The Deanery of Lincoln fell vacant on the 28th of September, 1315, on the Consecration of Roger de Mortivallis, the late Dean, as Bishop of Salisbury, and on the 14th of November Sandale left London for Lincoln to take part in the election of a successor, on his way to join the King at York. Before starting he gave the Great Seal into the charge of certain officials who were to deliver it to him, subsequently, at Newark; and on Sunday, the 23rd of November, they brought it to that town and handed it over to him.[1] On the 18th of December following, he had letters of protection with respect to some of his benefices.[2] It is sad to think how numerous they were. The exigencies of the state, at this time, may have been great, and the services of the individual in the highest degree meritorious; but it is impossible to regard so serious a misappropriation of ecclesiastical revenues as anything short of deplorable. He held no fewer than two dignities, eight prebendal stalls, and ten rectories;[3] the taxed value of which amounted in the aggregate to close upon 850*l.* There were outgoings, of course; for the parishes, at any rate, had to be served, alms distributed and hospitality maintained. But the net value must have been very large, and his salary as Chancellor was 500*l.* a year.

Brother Henry Wodeloke, Bishop of Winchester, died at Farnham Castle on the 28th of June, 1316, and, as soon as the funeral rites were concluded, two of the monks of the Cathedral Priory, Ralph de Calne and Philip de Lusteshull, were sent to the King with letters patent under the capitular seal, announcing his death and soliciting licence to elect a successor. They reached Windsor on the 8th of July and obtained from the King the requisite congé d'élire.[4] The King wrote forthwith to the Chapter, entreating them to elect John de Sandale, his Chancellor; and the Queen and several other magnates of the realm wrote also to the same effect.[5] The King, moreover, wrote twice to his cousin, Aymer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, urging him to proceed instantly to Winchester, and to do his utmost to promote Sandale's cause.[1] The election was fixed for Tuesday, the 27th of July, on which day, the Mass of the Holy Ghost having been solemnly celebrated at the High Altar of the Cathedral church, the monks assembled in Chapter and elected John de Sandale. Two of them were deputed to act as the proctors of the Chapter and to carry to the King their letter announcing the result of the election, and, presenting their Elect in person to solicit the royal assent.[2] This they did at Lincoln; and on the 5th of August the King wrote to Archbishop Reynolds, announcing his assent and requesting him to carry out the duties which appertained to his office. On the day following the Archbishop wrote to Master Peter Poleyn, his Official of Winchester, directing him to make the usual proclamation in the Cathedral church, and to summon all who might wish to oppose the confirmation of the said election, to appear before him on the first Court-day after the Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross (14 September), wherever he might be at the time within the Province of Canterbury.[2] On the same day on which the Royal assent was given, Sandale obtained a licence, on behalf of the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun's, Winchester, for the alienation by them, in mortmain, of lands and rents to the value of 50*l.* a year; and, a few days later, a similar licence to allow them to acquire and appropriate to their own use, the advowsons of certain churches of the aggregate taxed value of 100*l.* a year.[3] He also obtained for the citizens of Winchester the grant of a murage tax for seven years, to enable them to strengthen and repair the walls of the city.[4] On the 19th of August he assented, as Chancellor, to the appointment of William de Ayremynne to be Keeper of the Rolls;[5] and about a week later he proceeded to London, to be present at the proceedings touching the confirmation of his election. He left York on the 26th of August, having committed the Great Seal to the custody of William de Ayremynne.[6] The proceedings connected with the confirmation of his election were brought to a close in Lambeth Chapel, on the 22nd of September; and the Archbishop, declaring that all things necessary thereto had been duly performed, and confirming the said election by his Metropolitan authority, committed to him the care and government of the Bishoprick.[1] On the same day, the Archbishop sent a letter to the King for the restitution of the temporalities to the Elect-Confirmed, as well as the customary formal letters to the Prior and Chapter of the Cathedral church, and the clergy and people of the diocese. He, also, wrote to his Official of Winchester, commanding him to deliver to the Elect-Confirmed the seal of the Officiality of the Bishoprick, the registers, rolls, and all other things in his custody.[2] On the next day, September the 23rd, the Royal Writs of restitution were issued to the King's Escheator, and to John de la Beche and Ralph de Bereforde, to deliver to the Elect-Confirmed the temporalities of the See; also, the usual mandate to the knights, freeholders, and tenants of the Bishoprick. On the same day, at the New Temple, London, he began to exercise his Episcopal office, instituting John Person to the rectory of Sherfield-English, John Penbroke to St. Michael's rectory, Southampton, and Henry atte Wyle to the rectory of Ashe.[3] The issues and profits of the temporalities were granted to him as from the day of Bishop Wodeloke's death; and he sent his clerk, Edmund de St. Clement,[4] to receive in his name the fealty of the tenants on all the manors of the Bishoprick, directing the Bailiffs to collect forthwith "the Recognition money."[5] At the same time, his clerk, Sir Henry de Schaldewelle,[6] with Geoffrey Hogheles, Philip de Denemede, and Thomas de Saunforde, was directed to go from manor to manor, to value the corn and other things and to receive all the stock. He wisely retained the services of all the officials of his predecessor, with two or three exceptions, appointing his brother, Thomas, to be Constable of Farnham Castle and Bailiff of Bentley and of the bailiwick of Wargrave, and Giles Peche to be Constable of Taunton Castle. On the 1st of October the King requested him to assent to the grant of a subsidy in the Convocation to be held in London on the Sunday next after the octaves of St. Michael (10 October), and to induce the clergy of his diocese to consent thereto.[1]

The first preferment that came into his hands, the rectory of Calborne, in the Isle of Wight,[2] was bestowed on the 7th of October, 1316, on Thomas de Folquardeby, Rector of Roydon, Essex,[3] and Steward of his household; and on the next day he issued a commission for an inquiry as to the dilapidations of the chancel and rectory buildings at the time of the late Rector's death.[4] On the 10th of October he issued a commission to Master Adam de Caple, the Commissary-General of his Official, and Master John de Malmesbury, Rector of Mottisfont, to receive in his name the manual obedience due from his subjects (i.e., the clergy) of the diocese;[5] and on the 12th he appointed Sir John de la Beche, of Beams Manor, in Berkshire, to be Keeper of the parks and chases of the Bishoprick, with permission to Walter Wodeloke to act as deputy. On the same day he granted to Geoffrey de Wynhale letters dimissory for all Holy Orders, and on the 14th, to Roger de Toucestre, Rector of Alfold, Surrey, licence of non-residence for a year.[5]

During this interval he was preparing for his Consecration; and towards the end of October he left Southwark for Canterbury, resting on his way thither for a few days at Sturry, a manor-house belonging to St. Augustine's Abbey, and reaching Canterbury on the morning of Sunday, the 31st of October; on which day he received the solemn rite of Consecration before the High Altar of the Cathedral church, at the hands of Archbishop Reynolds.[6] He remained at Canterbury for the festival of All Saints[7] and the Commemoration of All Souls, and then returned to Sturry, where he held his first Ordination on the 3rd of November, and another on the 5th at Milton.[8] Returning to

There seems to have been some question as to his right of presentation for this turn, for Teffunte had a subsequent presentation to it by the King (p. 266). The following entry belongs to the last year of Bishop Wodeloke's Episcopate;—"Wytteneyē,—Allowed to the Reeve for the expenses of the Official on taking the Inquisition upon the vacancy of the church of Wytteneye, together with the expenses of the Vicar, and the procurations of the clergy of the deanery in attendance and dining there.—7l. 10*s.* 10¾*d.*

Southwark on the 6th or 7th of November, he remained there till the 22nd, on which day he appointed Master Gilbert de Middeltone to act as Vicar-General during his absence from the Diocese,[1] which extended to the 4th of December, when he again returned to Southwark, and there received on the 6th of December from William de Ayremynne the Great Seal,[2] which had been out of his custody since the 26th of August.

In the meantime the Bishop had nominated Master Andrew de Bruges to be his Official Principal,[3] and Master Henry de Cliffe his Chancellor;[4] he also appointed proctors to act for him in all judicial proceedings, and in the Roman Court;[5] exercised his right to nominate a Nun to Romsey Abbey,[6] and appointed Penitentiaries for the diocese,[7] besides many other official acts. On the 18th of December, in the Conventual church of St. Mary's, Southwark, he held his first general Ordination, ordaining 24 Acolytes, 44 Subdeacons, 42 Deacons, and 46 Priests.[8] He employed no Suffragan, but himself held all the Ordinations throughout his time. The entries are incomplete; those that are extant shew a total of 275 Acolytes, 200 Subdeacons, 239 Deacons, and 252 Priests, during two years of his Episcopate.[9]

On the 10th of January, 1316-17, the King addressed to the Pope the following commendatory letter on the Bishop's behalf,—

To the Most Holy Father in Christ, the Lord John, by Divine providence Supreme Pontiff of the most Holy Roman and Universal Church, Edward, by the same grace King of England, Lord of Ireland, and Duke

[9] The lists of the Tonsurati are not preserved, with the exception of five short lists containing, altogether, 95 names.

These Ordination Entries, being of considerable interest and value both for genealogical and topographical purposes, have been carefully classified in the Indices; those who were ordained upon their own patrimony being specially noted: an annual income of 5 marks, 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, was a sufficient title. The Religious Houses frequently bestowed titles on the scholars attending their own or neighbouring schools, and also on promising sons of their tenants. By letters dimissory many subjects of other dioceses were admitted to Orders, including not a few who were already beneficed; and thus the names of many incumbents, not otherwise recorded, have been preserved. Of the neighbouring dioceses, with the exception of Canterbury, Exeter alone possesses Ordination Entries of a corresponding date: those of London begin in 1361, Salisbury in 1396, Chichester in 1398, Bath and Wells in 1408. The Ordination Entries in the Register of Archbishop Reynolds (1314-1327) are defective for several years; and after his time there are none till 1349.

of Aquitaine, devoutly kissing your blessed feet. The overflowing fulness of your fatherly clemency in the government of the Universal Church shows itself so kind to all, and so generous in the sweetness of charity, that as many as it deems most worthy and approved for their conspicuous merit, it rewards with the abounding munificence of its favour and embraces with the more heartfelt love. Calling to mind, therefore, how prudently and how profitably the Venerable Father, John, Bishop of Winchester, our Chancellor, when he was engaged in the service of our father of illustrious memory, and subsequently in our own service, holding divers great offices in various parts, bore himself always towards all men with such modesty and gentleness as to win the love of both his superiors and inferiors, and earn for his praiseworthy administration the approbation of one and all; and further, having regard to the acceptable and laudable service which at the present time he ceases not, by his continuous labours, to render to us and to all our realm; desiring that he should be more intimately admitted to your paternal affection and enjoy the more richly the protection of your Apostolic favour, the more his character and merits prove him to be worthy, and we ourselves earnestly long for the increase of his honour; we petition your Blessedness, with sincere affection, to vouchsafe to the said Bishop,—a man of the highest character, of great reputation, distinguished for honesty of life and conversation, zealous in the cause of justice, and endowed with manifold virtues, and ever labouring strenuously to maintain the liberties of the Church; having, if it please you, both himself and the church committed to his government in your favourable regard,—so abundant a measure of your grace and favour for the work he has in hand, that he may be able the more profitably to exercise, in the fear of the Lord, the office committed to his trust, and to render opportune assistance, counsel, and aid in affairs concerning ourself and our Kingdom, for that he himself is conscious that, on all fitting occasions, he is fortified by your benevolence and paternal affection towards him. And as to those matters which our beloved clerk, Master James de Florencia, Archdeacon of Winchester, and familiar of the said Bishop, deems it right to expound to your Clemency, touching any business affecting the said Bishop and his church, may it please you, Venerable Father, to hear him kindly and to bring them to a successful issue, according to his expectation and trust. May the Most High long preserve you in prosperity, for the governance of His Holy Church. Dated at Clipstone, on the 10th day of January (1316-17), [in the tenth year of our reign].[1]

The King also wrote in similar terms to each of the Cardinals then in attendance at the Roman Court.

Soon after this, preparations were made for Sandale's enthronement in his Cathedral church; and on the 16th of February we have a mandate for the King's officials to assist Adam de Wy in providing fish for the Bishop's household and for his enthronization feast.[1] He was enthroned on the 13th of March, Lætare Jerusalem Sunday (the fourth Sunday in Lent). The King, who had been staying at Clarendon since the 1st of February, reached Winchester on Saturday the 12th of March, the Bishop arriving on the same day. The usual ceremonies were duly carried out, and the Bishop sang his first Pontifical Mass in the Cathedral church, the Lord Prior and the Abbats of Hyde and Chertsey assisting, according to custom. The enthronization feast was afterwards held in the Great Hall at Wolveseye.[2] The King remained at Winchester until the 16th, and then returned to Clarendon by way of Broughton and Mottisfont.

On the 23rd of November, soon after his Consecration, the Bishop left his diocese, and he did not return till the 4th of December. It is probable that he spent the interval in seclusion, in some Religious House, reviewing his past life, and endeavouring, under the direction of his Confessor, to deal with those scruples of conscience which could not fail to trouble one who had been responsible for the cure of souls in so many benefices that it was impossible for him to fulfil his bounden duty toward them. To this end he petitioned the Holy See for a special

He, however, wrongly assigns it to the year 1304, and names John de Pontissara as the Bishop on whose behalf it was written. But Pontissara was never Chancellor, nor did he ever hold any office under the Crown, apart from his acting occasionally as an ambassador to the Roman Court.—Regist. Pal. Dunelm. IV, xlviii.

Indult, which was granted on the 17th of March, 1316-17, as follows :—

"JOHN, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to his Venerable brother, John, Bishop of Winchester, health and Apostolic benediction. We are bound to concede to you with loving favour the means of enjoying, according to your desire, a peaceful conscience and a mind free from commotion. Therefore, being moved by your prayers, we grant you, by these presents, power to choose for your Confessor some discreet priest, to hear your confession on this occasion, and to enjoin on you a salutary penance for your offences, even if they be such as under ordinary circumstances would demand the intervention of the Apostolic See. Wherefore let no man presume to infringe or rashly contravene the terms of this our concession. And if any man shall so presume, let him know that he will incur the indignation of Almighty God and of His Blessed Apostles Peter and Paul.

Given at Avignon, on the 16th of the kalends of April, in the first year of our Pontificate."[1]

On the 4th of February, 1316-17, Bishop Sandale granted a special licence to John de Drokenesforde, Bishop of Bath and Wells, to consecrate the High Altar and other Altars removed and re-erected in the parish church of Droxford (Drokenesforde), for which he had special regard, having been baptized therein.[2] And on the 24th of April following he granted him letters dimissory to all Minor and Sacred Orders, on behalf of his nephews, Philip de Drokenesforde and Andrew his brother, and Nicholas, Richard, and Thomas de Drokenesforde, subjects of the diocese of Winchester.[3] Moreover, at the end of March, 1318, he had license to hold a general Ordination on Sitientes

[2] p. 25. The High Altar was dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul, and the Altars of the north and south Chancels were both dedicated to the Blessed Virgin. This may seem singular, and it is certainly unusual; but I find in the Will of Roger Bryclesworthe, Rector of Droxford, who died on 11 May, 1390,—"Item, lego operi duorum Cancellorum Beate Marie, junctorum principali Cancello ecclesie mee ex utraque parte, x quarteria frumenti." The Bishop's Mother was buried in the south Chancel, where her tomb remained till it was destroyed, about the end of the 17th century. All that has been spared is her monumental effigy of grey marble, which was lying on the floor of the church when I sketched it in 1849. The figure is tall, measuring 6 feet 5 inches. Her head rests upon an oblong cushion, and she wears a coverchief, falling over her shoulders. The drapery is long and flowing, and consists of a tunic with tight sleeves, and over it a mantle hanging in graceful folds, and covering the shoulders and sides of the figure. In her right hand, which is extended downwards, she holds her mantle, while the left grasps its narrow band or fastening; the pose of the figure being not unlike that of the well-known effigy of Queen Eleanor in Westminster Abbey.

Saturday (8 April), and to consecrate the Oils and make the Holy Chrism on Maundy Thursday (20 April), in any church or chapel within the diocese of Winchester.[1]

On the 8th of May, 1317, the Bishop, being about to leave Southwark for Canterbury, to attend the Consecration of Master Richard de Neuport, the Elect-Confirmed of London, he obtained a Writ of Privy Seal, authorising him to intrust the chancery and the Great Seal to certain officials. He started on the 11th of May; the Consecration took place at Canterbury on Sunday the 15th; and on the following Wednesday he returned to London.[2] On the 20th of May the Bishop was summoned to send his service against the Scots, to the muster at Newcastle-on-Tyne on the 8th of July,[3] which was postponed, however, to the 11th of August,[4] and again until the 15th of September.[5] On the 1st of July he was summoned to attend the Council to be held at Nottingham on the 18th,[6] and he accompanied the King to Northampton, and thence to Nottingham and York. On the 24th of September, he held an Ordination in York Cathedral, ordaining 14 Acolytes, 13 Subdeacons, 12 Deacons, and 18 Priests.[7] On the 26th of October he obtained another Writ of Privy Seal, to enable him to leave the chancery and go to his diocese for a short time; and accordingly, on the 9th of November, he placed the Great Seal in commission.[8] Having visited Merton Priory, he proceeded thence to Farnham, East Meon, Hambledon, Fareham, Hursley, St. Cross, and Marwell, returning to Southwark on the 27th December, to attend a special Council to be held at Westminster on the 30th of December, preparatory to the meeting of Parliament.[9]

On the 6th of February, 1317-18, being about to go on pilgrimage to the Shrine of St. Thomas of Canterbury, he obtained the necessary powers to place the Great Seal in commission, giving it in charge to Henry de Clife, his Chancellor, at Southwark. It was delivered to him again, at Southwark, on the 19th.[10] The Convocation of the Province had been ordered to meet in St. Paul's Cathedral on Thursday the 23rd of February; but on the previous day, the Bishop, who was seriously ill and unable to attend in person, appointed James de Florencia, Archdeacon of Winchester, and Henry de Clife, Dean of the Collegiate church of Tamworth, his proctors, to appear there in his stead.[1] On the 3rd of March following he was summoned to the Parliament at Lincoln, which was prorogued, however, to the 19th of June.[2] We find him at Southwark on the 29th of March, preparing to proceed, by the King's command, to Leicester,[3] where he arrived early in April; he was there on the 7th, and on the 14th we find him at Bowden on his way home.

About this time Pope John XXII, apparently weary of the grievous abuses and consequent scandals occasioned by pluralists, suddenly withdrew, by a new and stringent Constitution, the numerous dispensations of plurality granted by his predecessor, Pope Clement V; commanding the immediate surrender of all benefices with cure of souls held in plurality, one benefice only to be retained. Each diocesan was required to make a return of the names and values of these livings, together with the names of the incumbents and of the churches they had resigned, or from which they had been dismissed. In obedience to this Mandate, Bishop Sandale wrote to the Pope on the 29th of May, 1318, enclosing a list of such churches in the diocese of Winchester, and including the names of certain clerks, subject to his jurisdiction but beneficed in other dioceses, who had surrendered their benefices into his hands, as required by the new Constitution, as well as a list of the churches in his own diocese which had become vacant after the collection of the autumnal fruits of the previous year.[4] A letter was addressed to the Pope, on the 30th of May, by the Bishops of the Province, giving some account of the effects of carrying out his new Constitution; and the Bishop inserted it in his Register. Some introductory particulars have already been given in a note (p. 90), and there is no occasion to repeat them here; but the letter itself, as an expression of the view taken by the entire Episcopate of the Province, is too interesting to be passed over.[5]

"The whole English church," they say, "applauded, when lately it had learnt assuredly that the Creator and Redeemer of the whole world, who maketh the rough ways plain and by His just judgement exalts the just, had been pleased by His Divine Providence to promote your Holiness to the summit of the Apostolic dignity. And we, though unworthy, being included in your pastoral charge, and ourselves derived, as rivers from their fountain-head, from the exalted throne of the Holy Apostolic See, are moved to action by keener incitements, and that unweariedly, from the fact that you are known to have entertained, always, an intense desire and a noble zeal for the salvation of souls and the reform of the Universal Church, as, indeed, is clearly evidenced by the gracious fruits of your works manifest to all; and we have determined, therefore, to have recourse to your Holiness, our matchless refuge, on behalf of ourselves and our churches, and the clergy and people committed to our charge, touching all that appertains to the stability of the English church and the salvation of the people. Be it known, then, to your Blessedness that in our common country, in which we are passing the days of our pilgrimage, dignities, parsonages, parish churches, and other benefices, having the most extensive cure of souls, as cities full of people, remain, very many of them, forsaken; whereas others, already void, as an effect of the stringency of your Constitution, directed against pluralists, with salutary forethought, for the edification and salvation of the souls of the faithful, are suffered to remain without curates, and in the case of others the parsons are men of foreign nationality, instituted in the times of your predecessors, who bear, indeed, the name of pastor, but know nothing of the sheep of their flock and pay no heed to their bleating, being themselves unknown to all, since rarely, if ever, have they visited, neither have they any desire to visit, the places committed to their rule;[1] so that the threefold food, the food of the word and of a good example, and the bodily food of the poor, wherewith parsons who dwell among their flocks are wont to refresh them, is taken away; the service of God is everywhere diminished, the cure of souls is neglected, and no hospitality of any kind is kept up; and the benefices themselves, bereft of the succour of those who should defend them, are in countless ways stripped of their rights and liberties, while the noble buildings raised by the munificence of those now dead, are falling into ruin; and, bitterest thought of all, in these our days, the devotion of the lay people to the Church is, in consequence of these evils, growing utterly lukewarm,

[1] In 1324, there were only nine Aliens beneficed in the diocese of Winchester, as certified in a return made by Bishop John de Stratforde, viz.,—Giles Anglicus, R. of Bramdean, Bertrand de Asserio, R. of Freshwater, Stephen de Claro Monte, R. of Bentworth, Nicholas Fighino, R. of Havant, Ricardin Justini, V. of East Meon, Reymund Pelegrini, R. of Arreton, Robert Sweof, R. of Monxton, Stephen Lupart, R. of Buckland, and Peter de Columbariis, R. of Chipstead.—Register of John de Stratforde, fol. 193.

or rather vanishing altogether; for as soon as we begin to exercise our office against them, in defence of those rights of the Church which have been lost through their own lack of devotion, they upbraid us as the cause of the aforesaid evils. Forasmuch, then, as from the sweet odour of your fame, both preceding and following your elevation to the Apostolic dignity, you are publicly proclaimed as directly intending chiefly this,—that in the Lord's vineyard throughout the world the service of your tender care, bestowed alike on the blossoms and the fruit, may produce the sweetest odours and fertilize it abundantly; we, on our part and on the part of the other prelates, both secular and regular, and the clergy of the Province of Canterbury, lately assembled with us, to treat, in so far as we lawfully may, concerning the condition of the church and kingdom of England, surrounded as we are, on all sides, by the snares of our enemies, but with full trust in the clemency of your Blessedness, cast ourselves at your feet who hold the highest Apostolic office, and humbly beg that you will deign, in your two-fold office of affection, to make salutary provision for these English churches, now widowed, as it were, through the loss of the personal presence of their Rectors; vouchsafing to grant both to us and to other clerical patrons, if it please you, in the case of all the churches of our patronage, and those of all other patrons within the Province of Canterbury, now void by reason of the removal of pluralists through the operation of the said Constitution promulgated thereunto, authority to provide, collate, and even present, with the acknowledged right of patrons, approved men, able to build and to plant, through whose means the aforesaid perils may be happily counteracted, having becoming regard to the standing of the men; or otherwise, that you will, yourself be pleased graciously to confer such benefices on the approved clerks whose names, contained in separate schedules, will be presented to your Blessedness, whenever it shall please you to receive them, by the bearer of this letter. We also humbly ask, most loving Holy Father, that, in accordance with your most holy intention, the powers of your high office may be employed in making provision against the aforesaid difficulties, in such manner that to the English church (wherein, indeed, the harvest is great but, now, the labourers few) a worthy restoration may hereafter result and continue. We, also, earnestly and again and again beseech your Holy Eminence of dignity Apostolic to regard with your wonted kindness Master Andrew de Bruges, clerk, the bearer of this letter and in this business our special messenger, to whose worth, assuredly, his merits rather than any exalted dignities and honours bear witness; and ourselves also, your servants, and the servants of your Church of the Province of Canterbury, who are ever ready to obey your Apostolic behests. And forasmuch as, till now, we have not reported to your Apostolic dignity the names of the benefices of pluralists who have been ejected in accordance with the requirements of your said Constitution, as, indeed, it was not in our power to do, seeing that up to this time we have been continually hindered by our constant endeavours to secure internal peace, and by our own journeyings hither and thither, not without great fatigue, through divers countries, may it please you of your kindness, in the bowels of your paternal affection, to have us excused and to admit our said clerk to a gracious hearing, touching these and other matters concerning the state of the English church, when, according to the instructions which we, in our humility, have given him, he shall deem it right, with becoming reverence, to communicate them to the Apostolic ear, giving unquestioning credence, if it please you, to what he shall say. Again, we pray that what we have written may not exasperate the kindly mind of our most loving Father against us, or cause it to turn away from us; for, as the Most High God knoweth, we have undertaken to bring these things to the knowledge of your Holiness with, as we have said before, no other intention than this,—our sincere desire for the succour of the Church, which we know is ever present to your mind. Farewell in Jesus Christ, and long may the Papal dignity, reverenced above all others, flourish under your governance of the Universal Church, in peace and joyfulness. Given in London, under our Archiepiscopal Seal and the seals of all our fellow Bishops, your Ministers aforesaid, on the third of the kalends of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand three hundred and eighteen."

On the 8th of June Bishop Sandale was certified that the Parliament intended to be held at Lincoln on the 19th had been postponed, in consequence of the Scottish invasion.[1] On the next day, in the Green Chamber of the Palace of Westminster, he surrendered the Great Seal to the King, who forthwith delivered it to the custody of William de Ayremynne, the Keeper of the Rolls; and on Sunday, the 11th of June, in the White Chamber of the said Palace, he nominated John de Hothum, Bishop of Ely, to the office of Chancellor and delivered the Great Seal into his hands.[2] Sandale had held the office for rather more than a year and seven months from the time of his Consecration; and during this interval he had found it necessary on several occasions to place the Great Seal in commission. He saw, no doubt, that the duties of this high office would of necessity claim too much of his time, almost to the suspension of his Episcopal duties, and that the pending war with Scotland would remove him far from his diocese. But the King, though he acquiesced in the justice of the Bishop's scruples, was evidently unwilling to part with the services of so able and popular a minister. His household expenses from the very beginning of his reign had exceeded greatly those of his father's time, with the result that he was continually involved in grave financial difficulties which the Treasury could not meet. And, knowing well the value of Sandale's experience and zeal in this department of the State, he conferred upon him once more the office of Treasurer. The appointment was made at York on the 16th of November, 1318;[1] and the Bishop held the office up to the time of his death, which occurred about a year later.[2]

On the 20th of July, 1318, Bishop Sandale was commanded to send his service against the Scots to the muster to be held at York on the 25th of August; and on the 9th of August, with the King's assent, he joined in guaranteeing the treaty imposing restrictions upon the royal authority.[3] On the 25th he was summoned to attend the Parliament which was to meet at York on the 20th of October.[4] On the 11th of that month, being at Highclere, he appointed Sir Simon de Farham, Treasurer of Wolveseye, and Master Robert de Wamberge, his Official, to act as Vicars-General during his absence;[5] and he remained at York till the prorogation of Parliament, which occurred on the 9th of December. He returned to Southwark about the middle of the month, never again to see the King. In the following March, indeed, he was once more summoned to attend the Parliament which was to meet on the 6th of May;[6] but he was unable to do so. After his return to Southwark, in December, 1318, he remained continuously in his diocese, devoting his time, at last, chiefly to diocesan work. On the 11th of July, 1319, Writs were sent to him as Treasurer, from York, touching the payment of the wages of the troops from North and South Wales;[7] and on the 20th of July, the King requested him to advance, by way of loan, all, or at least some part of, his contingent of the Tenth, and to induce the clergy of his diocese to do the same.[1] He appears to have remained at Southwark till after the 14th of August. On the 23rd we find him at Betchworth, and on the following day at Farnham, from whence he proceeded to Winchester, remaining at Wolveseye till about the middle of September, when he returned to Southwark. He was at Esher on the 6th of October; but, his health breaking down, he retired again to Southwark; and there, in his manor-house, surrendered his soul to God on Friday, the 2nd of November, the day of the Commemoration of All Souls, 1319. The King was at York at the time, where the news of the Bishop's death reached him, apparently, on the 5th of November, for on the following day he appointed Walter de Norwich to the vacant office of Treasurer, and issued Writs for the custody of the temporalities of the Bishoprick and the seizure of the Bishop's effects, on account of his indebtedness to the Crown.[2] Only three years had elapsed since the confirmation of his Election; and he had, probably, found it impossible to discharge the heavy expenses incidental to his taking possession of the Bishoprick, as well as the other pecuniary obligations which he had incurred during his prolonged service on behalf of the Crown. His financial affairs, consequently, were left in a state of confusion; and the Crown, ever remorseless in such matters, seized all his effects,[3] only allowing the necessary expenses of his funeral to his Executors,[4] who

[4] John de Heydene and John de Cokermuthe were the acting Executors. His nephew, John de Sandale, was also nominated; but he did not serve, having, no doubt, been advised not to accept the responsibility. John de Heydene was Rector of Alresford, and other references to him may be found in the Index. He died in July, 1339, and the Crown immediately seized his effects at Alresford, on account of his unpaid debts as Executor. John de Cokermuthe was in 1302 appointed Rector of Castle Rising, Norfolk (vacant by Sandale's resignation). He resigned it in 1309 for the rectory of Horsington, Somerset; and on the 12th of Sept., 1311, he obtained from Bishop John de Drokenesforde letters dimissory for the priesthood. He was also Rector of Tingham in the diocese of St. Andrew's. On the 8th of April, 1305, he had letters of protection on going to Scotland with John de Sandale. He was Remembrancer of the Exchequer from the 2nd of August, 1310, to the 8th of October, 1311, and was then appointed Keeper of the Royal Mints of London and Canterbury. In 1321 the office of Constable of Bordeaux was conferred on him, and he retained it for three or four years. On the 12th of September, 1330, he had licence from King Edward III to assign in mortmain 203 acres of land and 70*s.* of rent, in Dagenham, Barking, and Ilford, in Essex, to the Abbess and Convent of Barking; and found themselves under the necessity of bringing all their accounts into the Exchequer. Had these been entirely preserved, they would have formed a valuable and interesting series of documents, including, in all probability, a copy of the Bishop's Will, and many additional facts as to his friends and relatives. As it is, only a few soiled membranes of these accounts have escaped destruction. Two of these faded and discoloured fragments were found, on examination, to contain some interesting particulars. The first, a roll of three skins, gives an account of the expenses incurred at Southwark from the day of the Bishop's death until the dispersal of his household. It distinctly states that he died on Friday, the 2nd of November,[1] and gives the

on the 5th of April, 1337, John de Cokermuthe being dead, the Nuns obtained an indemnity from the King, in order that the said land, etc., should not be liable with respect to a security given at the Exchequer of the late King by the said John and John de Heydene, as Executors of the Bishop's Will. The Convent undertook to keep the anniversary of John de Cokermuthe, yearly, with the same solemnities as in the case of a deceased Abbess of their House.

[1] Other references to this date, as the day of the Bishop's death, will be found on page 587, in the accounts of the Executors of Bishop Rigaud de Asserio. In Le Neve's Fasti (Hardy's edition), it is stated that "he died at Winchester House in Southwark, at the latter end of Oct., 1319." Cassan, who in his Lives of the Bishops of Winchester (Vol. I, 178), has devoted about half a page to Bishop Sandale, also states that "he died at the end of October, 1319, at his palace of Southwark." Dr. Stubbs, in his Registrum Sacrum Anglicanum, simply informs us that the Bishop died in 1319; and the Chronicle of Adam Murimuth (edited by Sir E. Maunde Thompson), records, under the year 1319,—"Hoc anno vacavit ecclesia Wyntoniensis, per mortem domini Johannis de Sendale in autumpno, mense Septembris." Walsingham, in his Historia Anglicana (edit. by H. W. Riley, I, 148, 157), says, under the year 1316,—"Johannes de Kendale (sic), regni Thesaurarius, fit Episcopus Wyntoniensis," and under the year 1319, "Hoc anno Johannes de Kendale, Wyntoniensis Episcopus, obiit in viam patrum." The cacography as regards personal names is a remarkable feature in Walsingham's History, and a discredit to the work. The notice of Bishop Sandale in Godwin's De Præsulibus Angliæ is very short,—"Joannes quidam Sandallus successit, quem Walsingamus Kendallum nominat. Fuit Angliæ primum Thesaurarius, ac deinde Cancellarius, consecratus anno 1316; et cum annos vix quatuor sedisset, fato functus est 1320." The ancient scribes were more careful and accurate than our modern copyists,—witness the following extracts: the first from the Cartulary of Southwark Priory,—"Memorandum quod, anno Domini M°. CCC^mo^. decimo nono, in crastino Omnium Sanctorum, obiit dominus Johannes de Sandale, Episcopus Wyntoniensis, et Thesaurarius domini Regis Anglie; et jacet in Ecclesia Sancte Marie de Suthwerk. Die Sancti Andree proximo sequenti electus fuit Adam de Wyntonia, Monac[h]us Sancti Swithuni; set, per reservacionem domini Pape, collatus fuit Episcopatus Wyntonie predictus Magistro Ricaldo (sic), Nuncio domini Pape; qui consecratus fuit apud Sanctum Albanum."—Cottonian MS., Faustina A. VIII, fol. 157 b. The second is from the Cartulary of Hyde Abbey, in a list of the Bishops of Winchester, drawn up soon after the translation of Adam de Orletone to the Bishoprick,—"Johannes de Sandale, clericus Regis Anglie, consecratus est, apud Cantuariam, per dominum Walterum, Cantuariensem Archiepiscopum, anno Domini Millesimo CCC^mo^. xvj°; et in festo Commemoracionis Animarum, apud Suthwerke, anno Domini M°. household expenses for the twelve days, ending on Tuesday the 13th. The particulars are given among the addenda to the Appendix (pp. 620—624), and it is unnecessary to add more than a few words in this place. The number of horses in the stable increased with the arrivals, from day to day, till Saturday the 10th; and on the afternoon of that day, all the mourners and attendants having come, the Bishop's body was conveyed on a hearse or funeral car, drawn by four of the best horses, sumpters of the chamber, and followed by the best of the four palfreys that had belonged to the deceased, with all its trappings, along the littered streets, to the Conventual church of St. Mary, Southwark. The floor of the church was covered with rushes for the occasion; and the body having been taken into the choir, and reverently placed upon a raised bier, surmounted by a suitable canopy bearing many lights and other decorations, which had been erected before the High Altar, the singing of the solemn dirige used for the vigils of the dead began. On the day following, a Sunday, the office of the dead and the usual Masses were sung, and, later on, the solemn Mass of Requiem. Then began the great dole or distribution of alms among the poor, whilst the mourners and attendants returned to the Bishop's house to refresh themselves with the customary dinner. The household expenses of that day were nearly ten times as much as the average of the other preceding days,[1]—the fol. 76. There is a similar list of the Bishops of Winchester, and of the same date, on page 23 of a small quarto MS. belonging to Winchester College. It is singular with what pertinacity writers and editors, who follow one another as mere copyists, have continued to repeat, although it is forty years since I drew attention to the mistake, that this MS. was given to the College by William of Wykeham. And it is still more remarkable that anyone having, first, given the particulars of the contents of this volume (which did not come into the possession of the College till the 17th century), should then proceed, on the very next page, to give a quotation from one of the Bursars' Rolls, relating to another book; treating these two entirely distinct books as one and the same. This last named volume is thus described in the 15th century catalogue of the Books belonging to the College,—"Item, unus liber datus Collegio per dominum Fundatorem, in quo continentur taxaciones omnium ecclesiarum in singulis diocesibus per totam Angliam; qui fuerat in custodia domini Johannis Exham, Executoris domini Thome Aylward; modo in manibus Custodis." This manuscript is still in the possession of the College. It is a large folio volume containing a copy of the Ecclesiastical Taxation of Pope Nicholas IV. Bishop Lowth, in his Life of William of Wykeham, was the first to start the notion that the above entry referred to the small quarto MS., in his endeavour to connect the short life of William of Wykeham which is annexed to it with Thomas Aylward as the author; and subsequent writers have been content to copy this groundless statement, even as recently as last year (see Wykeham's Register, Vol. I, pp. xi, xii, H. R. S.).

kitchen expenses included the cost of 14 carcasses of beef, 78 sheep, 24 pigs, and 22 calves, besides fish—jack, congers, eels, and herrings, 8 swans, 140 geese, 240 fowls, 19 partridges, 206 pigeons, 1300 eggs, etc.; the fuel consumed amounting to 600 bundles of firewood and 20 quarters of charcoal. These particulars are the result of a renewed examination of the faded parchment. They included, also, 320 gallons of wine, 695 gallons of ale at 1½*d.*, and 448 gallons at 1*d.*, 400 wooden cups, 250 earthenware jugs, and 1000 garnished dishes. Moreover, there were 10 quarters and 4 bushels of wheat used in making bread, and on the next day 7 quarters were used, 3 quarters of this quantity being given to the poor.[1]

From the entries relating to the Bishop's stables given on the roll some interesting particulars are to be gleaned, affording as they do an insight into the economy of his household in the matter of horses, and some idea of the number of friends who came to attend his funeral. But it must be borne in mind that the items recorded relate only to those who put up their horses in the Bishop's stables; many, we cannot doubt, put up at some of the hostelries in London and Southwark. Of conspicuous arrivals we may mention Richard de Schenefelde, Rector of Great Coates, Sandale's Lincolnshire manor, who arrived the day after his death. The Bishop's chief clerk and the clerk of Wolveseye arrived on the Tuesday. On the Thursday the Rector of Alresford, who was one of the Executors, and Thomas de Sandale, the Bishop's brother, Constable of Farnham Castle; on the next day, Thomas de Saunforde, Constable of Porchester Castle; Sir Ralph de Bereforde, the Steward of the Bishoprick, with four horses; Sir James de Nortone, Sheriff of the County of Southampton. On the Saturday, the day on which the funeral obsequies commenced, Sir Gilbert Peche

[1] These details relate only to the household expenses. The funeral disbursements would be set out in a separate account, and included the cost of the great dole given at the Priory gate after the funeral. Some idea of the extent of the dole may be gathered from the Executors' Accounts of two Bishops almost contemporary with Bishop Sandale. Bishop Stephen de Gravesende, of London, died at Fulham, 9 Dec., 1303, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral. His funeral dole of a penny to each poor person amounted to 133*l.* 4*s.*, the number of recipients being 31,968. Thomas Bytton, Bishop of Exeter, died at his manor of Clyst, near Exeter, 21 Sept., 1307, and was buried in his Cathedral church. There was a dole of bread given on this occasion to 10,212 poor people, costing 42*l.* 11*s.*, and on the day of his "Month's mind" more than 6000 persons received a similar dole. Bishop Sandale's dole, at Southwark, could not have fallen much below that of Bishop Gravesende.

arrived with four horses, the Archdeacon of Winchester with eight, and a lady—Juliana de Champaigne—with seven;[1] she was, probably, the wife of John de Champaigne, the Knight of the Shire for the County of Southampton, and had travelled from Westbury, in the parish of East Meon. The Bishop had four palfreys, or riding horses, of which the best was led in the funeral cortege to the Conventual church of Southwark, and was claimed, with all its trappings, by the Prior and Convent as their mortuary. The next best, valued at 40 marks (26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*), was claimed by the King, according to the custom of the realm; the two others, valued at 10*l.* each, were for the service of the Bishop's chaplains when travelling in his company. The Bishop had also fifteen sumpter-horses, of which one[2] was employed to carry his chapel; one the kitchen utensils; five for the chamber, to carry the bedding, furniture, and personal effects; three for the implements and appurtenances of the bakery; two for the articles belonging to the pantry and buttery; one for the napery, and seven for the three carts. As the Bishops, at that time, took all their belongings with them, except on Visitation tours, when they carried only their chapel, apparel, bedding, and kitchen utensils, the above items speak for themselves and need no explanation, except in the case of the chapel, which term includes all that was necessary to enable the Bishop to execute with due solemnity the duties of his office. It was usually packed in two chests, and consisted of a chalice and paten, a chrismatory, cruets, a thurible with a boat for the incense, a vessel and sprinkler for the Holy Water, altar-cloths, towels, frontals, corporals, basons, ewer, and candlesticks, an entire vestment for a Bishop, Deacon, and Subdeacon, surplices for the clerks, two copes for the Rulers of the choir and one for the Bishop, the books of the Gospels and Epistles, a missal, a gradual, an antiphonary, a legend, and a pontifical, a crucifix, three mitres, the pastoral staff, gloves, buskins, sandals, etc.

The second of these documents contains the sums of money paid, for their salaries and to enable them to return home, to the

[1] The horses of the Prior of Winchester Cathedral and of the Abbat of Hyde, and of other Religious Houses of the diocese, do not appear in the list. They had hostelries of their own either in London or Southwark.

[2] The Bishops of Exeter, owing to the very hilly country throughout their diocese, required two horses to carry their chapel.

officials, chaplains, gentlemen, and the servants of the Bishop's household, who were all paid off on the day after the funeral.[1]

With respect to the income of the Bishoprick in Bishop Sandale's time we have given some statements in tabular form,—1. The sums of money paid by the tenants, known as "Recognition money." 2. The expenditure, receipts, and payments of the different manors in the first year of his Episcopate. 3. An account of the sales of wool, and the money received, which was usually paid direct into the Bishop's hands. 4. An account of the poultry supplied from the several manors for the use of the Bishop's household. 5. A summary of the assessment of the dilapidations. 6. An account of the live stock delivered to his successor, Rigaud de Asserio, with an abstract of the cereal crops on the demesne lands of the Bishoprick in Hampshire and Surrey (pp. 627–633).

We have added, also, from other sources, external to the Register, a series of ecclesiastical documents supplementary thereto. Several, if not all, of these were, probably, entered on the missing folios. They include a confirmation, in accordance with the request of the Bishop, of certain grants made to the See of Winchester; documents relating to the Charnel chapel within the cemetery of St. Mary's Abbey, Winchester, and other entries relating to the diocese; and, lastly, copies of the letters sent by the King to the Pope and Cardinals after the death of Bishop Sandale, soliciting the appointment of Master Henry de Burghershe to the vacant See; the Archbishop's appointment of Officials during the vacancy; the royal licence to elect, and the notification of the royal assent to the election of Brother Adam de Wyntone. These documents are followed by several entries of presentations to churches[2] and other benefices, the institutions to which are not recorded in the Archbishop's

[2] It is singular how many presentations were claimed by the Crown and many of them only tentatively. No sooner was a Bishop dead than the Crown stepped in, and made presentations to the livings held in plurality by his Chaplains and other Officials; which (as those about the Court well knew) they would have to vacate except one in each case. There was similar haste shewn whenever Abbeys or Priories of royal foundation fell vacant; and even years afterwards the Crown would present to livings, on the pretext of some past vacancy of a Religious House, or of a Bishoprick, even attempting to oust the incumbents in possession (see pp. 114, 467-470). The entries contained in this volume extend from the day of Bishop Wodeloke's death, till the commencement of the Register of Bishop John de Stratforde.

Register; and by a number of documents of a secular character relating to John de Sandale, before his appointment to the Bishoprick of Winchester. The next division contains a collection of Ecclesiastical documents relating to Sandale before his Election to the See of Winchester; and this is followed by a series relating to his Election and its Confirmation; the commissions issued by the Archbishop during the vacancy; the institutions during that time[1] as recorded in the Archbishop's Register, and the entries of an Ordination held in the Conventual church of St. Mary's, Southwark. The next division of the Appendix contains a number of additional documents relating to Sandale's Episcopacy; the concluding portion of which shows how pertinaciously the Crown pursued his Executors, even after an interval of more than twenty years after the Bishop's death: seizing the goods of the surviving Executor at Alresford Rectory, at one time to the value of 60*s.*; and, when he was dead, all his household effects, valued at 105*s.* 5*d.*, in part payment of 491*l.* 9*s.* 10¾*d.*, the unpaid amount of the Bishop's debt to the Exchequer. The last and concluding division of the Appendix contains the particulars relating to the kinsfolk of John de Sandale mentioned in the earlier part of this Preface.

The only known existing impression of the seal of John de Sandale is that appended to an inspeximus (dated at Manydown, near Basingstoke, on the 27th of August, 1318), of the endowment of the Vicarage of Basingstoke, by Bishop William de Raleghe, in the year 1244, preserved in the Muniment-Room of Magdalen College, Oxford.[2] It is unfortunately much broken,

[1] The See was vacant from the 28th of June till the 22nd of September, 1316, and the receipts from the spirituality during that time amounted to 38*l.* 1*s.* 1*d.*; the expenses were 5*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*, and the balance paid to the Archbishop was 32*l.* 14*s.* 3*d.* (p. 346).

[2] This document was brought to Winchester in June, 1534, and was exhibited in the Consistory Court, for the purpose of being transcribed and registered. The record of this transaction is interesting, as certifying that the document had an oblong seal impressed on red wax; and one cannot but regret, that the Official did not record the words of the inscription on the seal, as was not unfrequently done,—"Sexto die mensis Junii, anno Domini millesimo quingentesimo tricesimo quarto, in Ecclesia Cathedrali Wintonie, loco Consistorii ibidem, coram Venerabili viro, Magistro Edmundo Steward, Legum Doctore, Reverendi in Christo patris et domini, domini Stephani, permissione divina Wintoniensis Episcopi, Vicario in spiritualibus Generali, ac Consistorii Episcopalis Wintoniensis Officiali Principali, ibidem ad jura reddenda, hora causarum consueta, pro tribunali sedente, comparuit personaliter discretus vir, Nicholaus Langrisch, Artium Magister, Socius perpetuus Collegii Beate Marie Magdalene in Oxonia; ac, nomine Presidentis et Sociorum dicti Collegii, realiter produxit et exhibuit litteras testimoniales bone memorie domini Johannis owing to the thinness of the red wax upon which it was impressed, and it is apparently only that of his counter-seal, which would be kept in his own possession or by one of his personal attendants; and it was, probably, the only seal that he had with him at Manydown, when asked to inspect and grant this exemplification: for the obverse of the episcopal seal at this period invariably gave a representation of a standing figure of the Bishop in pontificals, in the act of giving his benediction. This interesting fragment is a vesica-shaped seal, with pinnacled canopy work, divided into three compartments. The upper part has a central niche with a seated figure of the Blessed Virgin holding her Divine Son; and below this are two larger niches, that on the left having a full length figure of St. Peter bearing the keys in his left hand, while in the corresponding niche is a figure of St. Paul holding a sword in his right hand, the point upward. Below, under a depressed arch, is a kneeling figure of the Bishop, with head upraised, holding his pastoral staff between both hands, thereby indicating that he is singing the "Magnificat" in honour of the Mother and her Son. The few letters of the inscription which remain are not sufficient to give a clue to its purport. In the centre of the space intervening on either side, between the legend and the sides of the canopy work, is a small shield of arms,—ermine, on a chief a lion passant guardant: these were, of course, the Bishop's armorial bearings. We have given two representations of this seal. The first is a copy of the actual impression as it now exists; and, as it seems to have been further injured since a cast was taken twenty-six years ago, a copy of the cast is also given.

By way of filling up the page, examples are given of two other interesting and unpublished seals, of earlier date, which are preserved among the treasures of the same Muniment-Room. The seal of Ademar de Lezignan, the Elect-Confirmed of Winchester. It is of the usual pointed oval shape, and is probably unique as regards England, as we have no other example of the seal of a Bishop-Elect; and of this seal only the two impressions represented on the plate are known to be extant. Both are of red wax, and both show an obverse and a reverse or counter-seal. The impression of the first is rather damaged[1]; but it gives some details which are defective in the other impression. It represents the Elect standing on a pedestal in front of a canopy, the sides or shafts ending behind the figure, and there is a star on either side at the lower part. The figure is tonsured and vested as a Subdeacon, in an apparelled amice and tunic, the maniple hanging from the left wrist. The tunic has apparels on the edges of the sleeves and at the feet, ornamented with a lozenge-pattern, which unfortunately is not shown as distinctly in the plate as on the original seals. The side openings of the tunic extend nearly to the waist. The Elect holds a book of the Epistles in the usual (or ritual) manner, resting upon the breast, the left hand supporting it below, and the right placed on the back of the volume. The lettering along the margin of the seal reads as follows,—SIGILLV[M] ADEMARI DEI GRA[CIA] ELECTI WI[N]THONIEN[SIS]. The counter-seal is smaller, but of the same shape, and represents a similar figure about half the size, without the canopy; it is inscribed,—C[ON]TRAS[IGILLVM] A. ELECTI WINTONIENSIS. The first impression is appended to a bond, dated at Merton, 2 February, 1252-3, given by the Elect for the repayment of 200 marks which he had borrowed of the Prior and Convent of Selborne; and the second to the deed of the endowment of the vicarage of Selborne, dated at Witney, 29 July, 1254.[2] Ademar de Lezignan, half-brother to King Henry III, was elected Bishop of Winchester on the 4th of November, 1250; his election was confirmed by Pope Innocent IV on the 23rd of January, 1250-1, and he obtained the temporalities of the See on the 28th of March following. As he was not of canonical age at the time, his Consecration was postponed till the 30th of May, 1260, and he only received the priesthood on the previous day. He did not long survive the event, for he died at St. Géneviève's Abbey, Paris, on the 4th of December in the same year. His body was buried there; but his heart was brought to Winchester

SEALS.

ELECT OF WINCHESTER,
A.D. 1251.

JOHN GERVASE,
A.D. 1262.

on the 20th of March, 1260-1, and buried near the High Altar of his Cathedral church.[1]

The third seal represents the only known impression of the seal of John Gervase, of Exeter, successor to Bishop Ademar, who was consecrated Bishop of Winchester, at Viterbo, on the 2nd of July, 1262, and died on the 20th of January, 1267-8. It is a finely executed oval seal, with a diapered background; but, unfortunately, the head of the figure has been broken off. The Bishop is represented in pontificals, giving the benediction with his right hand and holding the pastoral staff in his left; there is a recessed trefoil-headed niche on either side of the figure; that on the left of the spectator contains a demi-figure of St. Peter, holding a key, while the other has a corresponding figure of St. Paul, holding a sword with the point turned upward. The legend, though imperfect, was evidently,—JOHA[NNES DEI] GRA[CIA] WINTONIEN[SIS] EPISCOPV[S]; and there was a canopy above the figure. The counter-seal is of similar shape, but somewhat smaller, and bears, after the manner of a bulla, the heads of St. Paul and St. Peter, with a sword, hilt upward; the keys, wards upward, being placed perpendicularly between the heads. Below, under a canopy, is a mitred figure of the Bishop in profile with raised and joined hands, and in the space below the arms are introduced the first letters of the Bishop's name,[2]—JOH., intended, apparently, to serve as the first word of the marginal inscription, which is preceded by a crescent surmounted by a cross,—[JOHANNES] SVM VESTER NATVS PROVECTVS PONTIFICAT[VS],—I, John, am your son, promoted, raised to the pontificate. This seal is of dark green wax, and is appended to the confirmation by the Bishop (dated at Farnham, 1 April, 1266), of a grant of land by John Saunzterre to the Prior and Convent of Selborne.[3]

The only personal records of Bishop Sandale's life and character that have come down to us are contained in the letters addressed by King Edward II to the Pope, in which he is described as charming in manners and conversation, and conspicuous for his many good qualities and virtues. He was, evidently, an able man, and he was a trusted servant of the Crown for many years, rising from a humble clerkship to the high office of Lord Chancellor.[1] As an ecclesiastic, too, he bore a good reputation ; and although he was a pluralist, holding numerous benefices, we have shown that it was more of necessity than of his own free choice. As a Bishop he certainly worked hard, and faithfully discharged the duties of his office. His character and reputation were blameless, although he lived in contentious and troublesome times. As Bishop of Winchester he was a poor man, and it almost seems as if he knew better how to manage the financial affairs of the State than his own. But he was charitable, nevertheless, after his power. We find him, in the second year of his Episcopate, sending a present of wheat, in their need, to the Prioress and Convent of Ivinghoe ; and in the following year he bestowed 66s. 8d. upon the Friars Preachers of Salisbury and 26s. 4d. upon the Franciscan Friars there. He seems to have maintained his nephews, as scholars, at Oxford ; as appears by the records of numerous payments made by him on their behalf, at West Wycombe, Adderbury, Harwell, Brightwell, and elsewhere.[2] There can be little doubt

[2] Apparently as supplying an accidental omission in the inscription, consequently we have placed the word in brackets as a part of it.

[1] In Harleian MS. No. 247 is a collection of miscellaneous papers, written by divers hands, and including (folios 163–172) a fragment of the Lives of the Lord Chancellors and Keepers of the Great Seal of England. It is supposed to be a part of the collections of John Stow, the Chronicler,—beginning with John de Sandale and ending with Chancellor Robert de Parning, who died 26 August, 1348,—"Johne Sandall, clerk, succedinge Walter Reynoldes in the office of the chancellershyppe, a manne for his vertues worthelye commended and for his desartes greatlye advanced, for besides many other prefermentes, he was tresurer and chanceler of the Exchequier, chanceler of the Realme, and Byshoppe of Winchester. To whiche chancellershippe of the Kinge, or, as we nowe terme yt, of Englande, he was commended and receved the same by receving the great Seale the third daye before the feaste of St. Michaell in the 8 yere of the reigne of the deposed Kinge Edwarde the seconde in the yere of our Redemptione, 1314, beinge shortly after made Bishoppe of Winchester. Who beinge now both bishoppe and chancheler, having two swordes, the spirituall and temporall, possessed that office of chanceler almoste three yeres, deliveringe uppe the great seale one the 9 of June in the xj of Kinge Edwarde the seconde, who kepinge the seale but one whole daye delivered the same to John Hothame, Bishoppe of Elye, one the twelfe of Julye followinge, as after shall appere ; the recorde of whiche makinge this Sandall chanceler and of his redeliverye of the seale, together with the rest of his lyfe and other preferments, are fullye sett in my discourse of the lyves and suggestes of the tresurers of Englande in the first and seconde tyme of his tresureshippe, whereunto I referre my selfe."

[2] Sir John de Sandale, his nephew and heir, took his degree as Master before the 30th of July, 1318. The Jurors of the Inquisition taken at Doncaster after Bishop Sandale's death (p. 372), state that they did not know who was his nearest heir ; but there is an entry on the Close Roll, dated 14 April, 1323, in which it is stated that the Bishop held the

that the constant anxieties and unrest of Sandale's earlier years told upon his constitution and aged him prematurely. We find indications of failing health soon after his Consecration, such as his pleading illness for non-attendance in Convocation, and the fact that he remained quietly within his diocese, ceasing from his wonted activities, as if he needed rest. We know nothing as to his age at the time of his death; but taking into consideration the years occupied by his official career, and other similar indications, we may safely conclude that he was but little over fifty. There is no record of any monument having been erected to his memory, or even of the keeping of his anniversary.

In conclusion, I may as well admit that I have taken an unusually long time in passing this volume through the press. But I am not without excuse; and I may be permitted to remind the Members of our Society that good work takes time, and that slovenly and hurried work, in producing a book of this character, is far more detrimental than serviceable to the cause of historical research. I have not rested on my oars; but have devoted myself unceasingly to securing that degree of accuracy and completeness which is of the highest importance to the student, and to all who desire to obtain a real knowledge of these unrivalled Ecclesiastical and historical records of mediæval England. This said, it only remains for me to express, in few words, how greatly I am indebted to the constant help of my good and dear friend, Prebendary Hingeston-Randolph, the able and painstaking Editor of those grand volumes of the Episcopal Registers of his own Diocese, the Diocese of Exeter, upon which he has bestowed so much labour and patient care, worthy of an accomplished scholar, and destined ever to remain a standing memorial of his accuracy, industry, and marvellous perseverance. I must also gratefuly acknowledge the kindness and courtesy of the Rev. H. A. Wilson, Fellow and Librarian of Magdalen College, Oxford, who enabled me not only to obtain access to the documents bearing the seals represented on the plate, but, also, permission to copy them for the enrichment of this manor of Mardeley, in Hertfordshire, and that after his death it went to John de Sandale, his kinsman and heir, who had seizin of it, and forthwith enfeoffed Bartholomew de Badelesmere thereof, by whose forfeiture, on account of his joining the banner of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, and other discontented nobles of that time, it came into the King's hands in 1322.

book. Nor must I fail, reverting to the past, to put on record my gratitude to that distinguished and beloved prelate, Charles Richard Sumner, formerly Bishop of this Diocese, who was always most kind and indulgent to me, affording me free access to the Registers and other records of his See, and generously encouraging, in every way in his power, my investigations and researches. To the Bishops who have succeeded him, also, I am under similar obligations. In like manner it is a pleasing duty to acknowledge the unvarying attentions and courtesy which I have enjoyed for many years at the hands of the officials of the Diocesan Registry, past and present, especially from the late Mr. Charles Wooldridge and his son, the present Registrar; whose son, following in his father's steps, will sustain, I am sure, the hereditary reputation of their Firm. Lastly, I must express my sincere obligations to the printers, Messrs. Warren and Son, to whom I must often, I fear, have seemed too exacting in the matter of revisions and corrections; nor must I forget that my thanks are due to Mr. Elliott, and to the compositors and pressmen for their care and attention, to which the excellent printing and satisfactory appearance of the volume bear ample testimony.

LIST OF OFFICIALS.

Ecclesiastical,—

Master Philip de Bartone, Archdeacon of Surrey; he was collated to the Archdeaconry on the 12th of March, 1300-1, and he held it at the time of his death in April, 1320. In 1327 two perpetual chantries were erected for him in the Conventual church of Chertsey Abbey; and for the maintenance of two chaplains to celebrate daily therein, and to cover incidental expenses, his Executors paid 250*l.* to the Abbat and Convent.

Master Andrew de Bruges, the Bishop's Official-Principal. He continued in office during Bishop Rigaud de Asserio's time, and was one of his Vicars-General. He was often employed in Commissions by Bishop Wodeloke (see the letter of the Episcopate of the Province, p. 92, where he is described as a man distinguished rather for his worth and merits than for exalted dignities or honours). He was Rector of Christian-Malford, Wilts, by collation (13 February, 1311-12), of Archbishop Wincheleseye. He, also, held canonries and prebends in the Cathedral churches of Chichester and St. Paul's, London, in the Conventual church of Wherwell, and in the Collegiate churches of St. Crantock, Cornwall, and St. John's, Beverley. He had a retaining fee as counsel of the Convent of Christchurch, Canterbury, and died in December, 1324. He is not named in Le Neve's Fasti.

Master Adam de Caple, Provost of St. Elizabeth's Chapel, near Wolveseye; Commissary-General of the Bishop's Official. He died about the end of November, 1320.

Brother Ralph de Caune, Precentor, and Brother John de Coumbe, Monks of the Cathedral Priory; Penitentiaries for the Archdeaconry of Winchester.

Master Henry de Clife, the Bishop's Chancellor, from September, 1316, till June or July, 1319, and his Proctor in Convocation in February, 1317-18. He was Chancery clerk in 1313; Rector of Chiselborough, Somerset, from May, 1315, till January, 1317-18; Dean of the Collegiate church of Tamworth from the 16th of January, 1316-17, till 1319 or 1320; Canon of York, 1319—1324, and of Salisbury, 1320-1 to 1334; and Master of the Rolls from the 4th of July, 1325, until his death in January, 1333-4.

Simon de Farham, Treasurer of Wolveseye, 1304—1319; Special Commissary during the Bishop's absence from the diocese in 1318. A.D. 1318. 17 Dec.—Bull of Pope John XXII, for the reception of the Brothers of the late Knights Templars into different Monasteries, addressed to the Patriarchs, Archbishops, and Bishops. The Pope had heard that certain Brethren of the said Order, after its suppression, had gone back to the world, dressing and behaving like laymen, and had even contracted marriage, their vow of perpetual chastity notwithstanding, from which they had never been released. To curb such insolence and presumption, the Bishops of each diocese were to call them together, that they might select, and be sent to, certain approved Religious Houses; not more than two to be placed in the same House, except in the Houses of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem; clerics to be received as clerics, and laymen as lay brothers; the said Houses to receive the stipend assigned to them, as long as they lived. If any of them refused to comply, their said stipends were to be withdrawn, and if necessary they were to be compelled to obey and the aid of the secular arm was to be invoked; those who had contracted marriage were to dismiss their wives 115

Also, as to similar letters having been sent to the Abbat of Westminster, the Abbat of St. John's, Colchester, the Prior of the Holy Trinity, London, the Abbat of Waltham Holy Cross, and the Prior of St. Bartholomew's, London, for certain other Brothers of the said Order... 116

2 Mar.—Collation of the chantry of the chapel of Mapledurwell to Ralph Fraunkeleyn, of Reading, vacant by the death of Peter de Dupehale. Mandate for his induction 142

13 Aug., 1314.—Copy of an Inquisition respecting the chantry founded in the chapel of Mapledurwell, under the seal of Bishop Wodeloke; who, by a mandate issued on 1 Aug., 1314, ordered the Official of the Archdeacon of Winchester to hold an Inquisition as to the right of patronage, and the character of the presented clerk, Peter de Dupehale. It was taken at Basingstoke on the 8th of August. Thomas Baldoke, Rector of Weston Corbet, sworn and examined, said that the collation of the chantry belonged to the Bishop, and that it was founded and endowed by the Lady Ela de Longespe, Countess of Warwick, in the time of Bishop John de Pontissara, who, in virtue of the deed of endowment and with the consent of the said lady, collated the deponent, by which collation he held it till he accepted the rectory of Weston Corbet; when Sir Alan Plukenet, knight, who held for life the manor of Mapledurwell, gave it to Robert de Norhamptone, priest; but he had no canonical institution, nor did he hold it by any other title; that the aforesaid presented clerk is in priest's Orders, of good life and honest conversation. The next witness, Roger, Vicar

A.D. 1317-18. of Odiham, gave similar evidence, viz., that, by the said deed of endowment, the presentation belonged to the Bishop and his successors. Andrew, Vicar of Newenham, John, Vicar of Crondal, Ralph, Rector of Hatch, and Master John Walet, Proctor for Richard, Rector of Nately Scures, gave corroborative evidence. Peter le Wodeward, a layman, said that he had seen the charter itself, and heard it read and explained in English in the presence of the said Lady Ela and the parishioners of Mapledurwell; and that Bishop John de Pontissara, thereupon, conferred the said chantry on Hugh de Crundal, and after his resignation on Gilbert de Elmesdone; on whose resignation the Bishop bestowed it on the first witness, Thomas Baldoke; on whose promotion to Weston Corbet, the chapel remained unserved for some time, and then the said Sir Alan Plukenet appointed Robert de Norhamptone, the last chaplain, who was not instituted but simply held it by the gift and will of the said Sir Alan Plukenet. The other lay witnesses were Robert Iwe and Richard le Fozelere, both of Mapledurwell, Bartholomew Vincent, William atte Churche, and Philip Loceron of Upnately, whose evidence agreed with Peter le Wodeward's, except that three of them did not either see or read the charter of feoffment or hear it explained 143

THE CONSTITUTION SUPER CATHEDRAM OF POPE BONIFACE VIII.

(Referred to on pp. 84, 406, 509).

[18 Feb., 1299–1300.]—BONIFACIUS Episcopus, Servus servorum Dei, ad perpetuam rei memoriam. Super cathedram preeminencie pastoralis divina disponente clemencia constituti, etsi multis et arduis, que in amplum Romane Curie alveum undique confluunt quasi torrens, pregravemur negociis, curis excitemur innumeris, cogitacionibus plurimis distrahamur; circa id, tamen, ferventibus votis intendimus, vacamus instancius, ac operose studium sollicitudinis impertimur, ut ad divini nominis gloriam, exaltacionem Catholice fidei, et profectum fidelium animarum (precisis radicitus dissidiorum vepribus, et litigiorum anfractibus omnino subductis), inter ecclesiarum Antistites ad curam et regimen gregis dominici deputatos, ceterasque personas quas ordo clericalis includit, pacis tranquillitas vigeat, fervor caritatis exestuet, invalescat concordie unitas, animorum indempnitas perseveret. Scimus, enim, et ex evidencia facti colligimus, quod non nisi in pacis tempore bene colitur pacis Auctor; nec ignoramus quod dissensiones et scandala pravis actibus aditum preparant, rancores et odia suscitant, et illicitis moribus ausum prebent. Ab olim siquidem inter prelatos et rectores, seu sacerdotes ac clericos parochialium ecclesiarum per diversas mundi provincias constitutos ex una parte, et Predicatorum et Minorum Ordinum fratres ex altera (pacis emulo, satore zizanie procurante), gravis et periculosa discordia exstitit suscitata super predicacionibus fidelium populis faciendis, eorum confessionibus audiendis, penitenciis injungendis eisdem, et tumulandis defunctorum corporibus qui apud fratrum ipsorum ecclesias sive loca noscuntur eligere sepulturam. Nos, autem, pii patris more laudabili moleste ferentes incommoda filiorum, reducentes ad exacte consideracionis examen, ac infra pectoris claustra sollicite revolventes, quam sit plena periculis, quam onusta dispendiis, quamque in divine majestatis conspectu reddatur exosa discordia supradicta, et propterea intendentes paterne sollicitudinis studio illam prorsus evellere ac omnimode submovere, nullis unquam futuris temporibus, favente Domino, suscitandam; grandi, quoque, desiderio cupientes ut hujusmodi negocium, quod potissime insidet cordi nostro, finem salubrem et celerem per Apostolicè solercie studium consequatur; diligenti cum fratribus nostris deliberacione prehabita super eo; ad honorem Dei et exaltacionem Catholice fidei,quietum statum parcium predictarum, ac salutis animarum fidelium incrementum, de ipsorum fratrum consilio auctoritate Apostolica statuimus et ordinamus ut dictorum Ordinum fratres, in ecclesiis et locis eorum, ac in plateis communibus, libere valeant clero et populo predicare ac proponere verbum Dei, hora illa dumtaxat excepta in qua locorum Prelati predicare voluerint, vel coram se facere solempniter predicari; in qua predicare cessabunt, preterquam si aliud de Prelatorum ipsorum voluntate processerit ac licencia specialis. In studiis, autem, generalibus, ubi sermones ad clerum ex more fieri solent diebus illis quibus predicari solempniter consuevit, ad funera eciam mortuorum, et in festis specialibus sive peculiaribus eorundem fratrum, possunt iidem fratres et liceat eis libere predicare, nisi forte illa hora qua solet ad clerum in predictis locis Dei verbum proponi Episcopus vel Prelatus superior clerum ad se generaliter convocaret, aut ex aliqua racione vel causa urgente clerum ipsum duceret congregandum. In ecclesiis, autem, parochialibus fratres illi nullatenus audeant vel debeant predicare vel proponere verbum Dei, nisi fratres predicti a parochialibus sacerdotibus invitati fuerint vel vocati, et de ipsorum beneplacito et assensu, seu petita licencia fuerit et obtenta, nisi Episcopus vel Prelatus superior per eosdem fratres predicari mandaret. Statuimus, eciam, et ordinamus, auctoritate predicta, ut in singulis civitatibus et diocesibus in quibus loca fratrum ipsorum consistere dignoscuntur, vel in civitatibus et diocesibus locis ipsis vicinis in quibus loca hujusmodi non habentur, Magistri, Priores, Provinciales Prædicatorum, aut eorum Vicarii, et Generales et Provinciales Ministri et Custodes Minorum Ordinum predictorum, ad presenciam Prelatorum eorundem locorum se conferant, per se vel per fratres quos ad hoc idoneos fore putaverint, humiliter petituri ut fratres qui ad hoc electi fuerint in eorum civitatibus et diocesibus confessiones subditorum suorum confiteri sibi volencium audire libere valeant, et hujusmodi confitentibus (prout secundum Deum expedire cognoverint), penitencias imponere salutares, atque eisdem absolucionis beneficium impendere de licencia, gracia, et beneplacito eorundem. Ac deinde prefati Magistri, Priores, Provinciales, et Ministri Ordinum Predicatorum eligere studeant personas sufficientes, idoneas, vita probatas, discretas, modestas, atque peritas ad tam salubre ministerium et officium exsequendum, quas sic ab ipsis electas representent vel faciant presentari Prelatis, ut, de eorum licencia, gracia, et beneplacito, in civitatibus et diocesibus eorundem hujusmodi persone sic electe confessiones confiteri sibi volencium audiant, imponant penitencias salutares, et beneficium absolucionis imposterum impendant, prout superius est expressum; extra civitates et dioceses in quibus fuerint deputate, per eas volumus et non per provincias deputari, confessiones nullatenus auditure. Numerus, autem, personarum assumendarum ad hujusmodi officium exercendum esse debet prout universitas cleri et populi ac multitudo vel paucitas exigit eorundem. Et si iidem Prelati petitam licenciam confessionum hujusmodi audiendarum concesserint, illam prefati Magistri, Ministri, et alii cum graciarum recipiant accione, dicteque persone sic electe commissum sibi officium exsequantur. Quodsi forte jam dicti Prelati quemquam ex dictis fratribus presentatis eisdem ad hujusmodi officium nolent habere, vel non ducerent admittendum; eo amoto vel subtracto, loco ipsius similiter eisdem presentandus Prelatis possit et debeat alius subrogari. Si, vero, iidem Prelati prefatis fratribus, ad confessiones, ut premittitur, audiendas electis, hujusmodi exhibere licenciam recusarint; nos exnunc ipsis, ut confessiones sibi confiteri volencium libere liciteque audire valeant, et eisdem penitencias imponere salutares, atque eisdem beneficium absolucionis impertiri, graciose concedimus de plenitudine Apostolice potestatis. Per hujusmodi, autem, concessionem nequaquam intendimus personis seu fratribus ipsis, ad id taliter deputatis, potestatem in hoc impendere ampliorem quam in eo curatis vel parochialibus sacerdotibus est a jure concessa, nisi forsan eis ecclesiarum Prelati uberiorem in hac parte graciam specialiter ducerent faciendam. Hujusmodi, quoque, statuto et ordinacionibus nostris adiicimus ut fratres dictorum Ordinum in ecclesiis vel locis suis ubilibet constitutis liberam, ut sequitur, habeant sepulturam; videlicet, quod omnes ad eam recipere valeant, qui sepeliri elegerint in locis et ecclesiis memoratis. Verum, ne parochiales ecclesie et ipsarum curati sive rectores, qui ministrare habent ecclesiastica sacramenta, quibus noscitur de jure competere predicare seu proponere verbum Dei et confessiones audire fidelium, debitis et necessariis beneficiis defraudentur; quum operariis mercedis exhibicio debeatur, auctoritate Apostolica constituimus, et ordinamus eadem, ut dictorum Ordinum fratres de obvencionibus omnibus, tam funeralibus quam quibuscunque et quomodocunque relictis, distincte vel indistincte, ad quoscunque certos vel determinatos usus, de quibus eciam quarta sive canonica porcio dari sive exigi non consuevit vel non debet de jure; necnon de datis vel qualitercunque donatis in morte seu mortis articulo, in infirmitate donantis vel dantis, de qua decesserit, quomodocunque directe vel indirecte fratribus ipsis vel aliis pro eisdem, quartam partem (quam auctoritate Apostolica taxamus et eciam limitamus), parochialibus sacerdotibus et ecclesiarum rectoribus seu curatis largiri integre teneantur; facturi et curaturi quod nec alii, nec aliis, a quibus quarta pars hujusmodi minime deberetur, ad ipsorum fratrum utilitatem vel commodum hujusmodi fiat relicta, aut in eos taliter data vel donata procedant, seu quod in morte vel ab infirmis hujusmodi dandum vel donandum fratribus ipsis existeret, in eorundem dancium vel donancium sanitate sibi dari vel donari procurent. In quibus per ipsos vitandis eorum intendimus consciencias onerare, ut, si (quod absit) per fratres ipsos dolo vel fraude quicquam in hac parte agi fortasse contigerit (preter id quod eos propterea dictis sacerdotibus, rectoribus, et curatis teneri volumus), eciam districta racio in extremi judicii examine requiratur ab eis. Ultra porcionem, autem, hujusmodi nichil valeant parochiales rectores, curati, et prelati exigere supradicti, neque illis dicti fratres amplius impendere sint adstricti, neque ad id a quoquam possint aliqualiter coherceri. Nos, etenim, (ut in cunctis equaliter et pacifice, favente Domino, procedatur), universa privilegia, gracias, indulgencias, verbo seu scripto sub quacunque forma vel expressione seu concepcione verborum a nobis vel predecessoribus nostris, Romanis Pontificibus, cuicunque ordinum predictorum concessa, necnon consuetudines, convenciones, statuta, et pacta, in quantum sunt premissis vel alicui premissorum contraria, ea penitus revocamus, vacuamus, cassamus, et irritamus, quin immo cassa, vacua, et irrita nunciamus, et decernimus nullius prorsus existere firmitatis. Ceterum universos ecclesiarum Prelatos, cujuscunque preeminencie, status, vel dignitatis existant, ac sacerdotes parochiales et curatos sive rectores predictos, presencium tenore rogamus et hortamur attente, nichilominusque eis districte precipiendo mandamus, quatinus, pro divina et Apostolice Sedis reverencia, predictos Ordines et professores eorum habentes affectu benevolo commendatos, fratribus ipsis non se difficiles, graves, duros, aut asperos, sed pocius favorabiles, propicios, ac benignos, piaque munificencia liberales se studeant exhibere, set eos in predicacionis officio et proposicionibus verbi Dei, ac in omnibus aliis supradictis, tanquam cooperatores eorum idoneos et laborum suorum participes prompta benignitate recipiant, ac affectuose admittere non omittant; ut proinde illis eterne beatitudinis premium augeatur et animarum salutis incrementa felicia procurentur. Nec ipsos lateat quod, si secus ab eis agi fortasse contigerit in hac parte, Apostolice Sedis benignitas, que Ordines et professores eosdem ubere favore prosequitur et gerit in visceribus caritatis, contra eos non immerito turbaretur, nec eadem equanimiter pati posset quin super hoc provisionis opportune remedium adhiberet; ipsosque, nichilominus, celestis indignacio Principis, digna pro meritis rependentis, cujus obsequia fratrum ipsorum sedulitas curiosa prosequitur, minime preteriret. Nulli, ergo, omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostri Mandati et Constitucionis infringere, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Si quis, autem, hoc attemptare presumpserit, indignacionem Omnipotentis Dei et Beatorum Petri et Pauli, Apostolorum Ejus, se noverit incursurum.—Datum Laterane, xij° Kalendas Marcii, Pontificatus nostri Anno Sexto.—Vide Potthast's Regesta Pontificum Romanorum, No. 24913.

[1] The first and second folios of this Register are imperfect, more than half of each leaf having been torn away vertically, so that half, and occasionally more than half, of every line is wanting, and the front of the first folio is much rubbed and soiled, and the writing faded. A restoration of the lost portion of each line has been attempted, and is indicated by being inserted between heavy brackets. These restorations are based on a careful examination and collation of similar documents in the present Register and in the Registers of other dioceses, and consequently they may be relied on as being substantially identical with the words which have perished. There are other defective folios, and these heavy brackets denote, throughout, similar restorations. Letters, figures, and words, enclosed within ordinary brackets, indicate explanatory additions to the text and corrections of obvious clerical errors.

[Littera missa domino Johanni Pape XXII, per dominum .. Cantuariensem Archiepiscopum et ipsius Suffraganeos[1]],— de pluralitate.

[30 May, 1318.] [Sanctissimo in Christo Patri et domino suo reverentissimo, domino Johanni, divina providencia Sacrosancte Romane

[1] We have been fortunate enough to recover the commencement and concluding portion of this letter; otherwise it would have appeared without any apparent connection with the See of Winchester. This circumstance led to an examination of our notes and extracts from the Registers of other dioceses. In those relating to Bishop Drokenesforde's Register we met with a reference to a document which appeared to be this particular letter,—"Supplicacio facta domino Pape per Dominum .. Cantuariensem et ipsius Suffraganeos." On going to Wells, we found it was a copy of the letter, but it only gave us a few additional words,—"Sanctissimo in Christo Patri, etc. Puplice leticie," etc., down to "Sanctitatis," followed by "Ad Universalis Ecclesie regimen, etc." On consulting Archbishop Reynolds' Register at Lambeth, we found that the folios which contained the letters, commissions, etc., from 1316 to 1320, had disappeared. We then had recourse to the London Registers,—but as only four leaves are extant of the Register of Richard de Neuport, who held the See from 26 March, 1317, till 24 August, 1318, it was not encouraging. On referring, however, to our notes of the contents of these four leaves, we found that the second document was entered as "Littera Prelatorum de pluralitate." So, once more, we obtained access to this Register, and, on turning to the folio indicated, found just what was wanted,—a copy of the letter in its entirety; and therefrom we are enabled to place before our readers this important document in a complete and intelligible form. The names of the Bishops, with the exception of the Bishop of London, who comes first, as Dean of the Episcopal College, are given according to seniority of consecration, or nearly so, except that the two Welsh Bishops are named last. It names all the Bishops of the Province of Canterbury, except three,—the See of Rochester was vacant, and the Bishops of St. Asaph and Llandaff were abroad.

[1] As this is the only entry relating to this election that has been preserved in Bishop Sandale's Register, the following supplementary documents are of importance. Abbat William de Odyham, the particulars of whose election occur in pp. 34–5, being in ill-health, the community, anxious to secure the custody of the temporalities during the ensuing vacancy, sent their Steward on 21st May, 1319, to the King with the accompanying letter. The Abbat, however, died on the 5th June, before the matter was arranged, so that it was not until the 10th June that the monks were able to obtain the formal grant of their request, which had been arranged on condition of the Convent paying 200 marks to the Crown, provided the vacancy did not exceed two months, and an additional sum pro rata, if it exceeded that period.

NOTE.—The above document, being an Executory Bull of Justice and Administration, had affixed to it the lead Seal of the Pope, depending, as was usual, by hempen cords (see p. 116, note). In the course of the excavation of the ruins of Buckfast Abbey, Devon, accomplished in 1883 by the Benedictine Fathers, now happily established in that ancient Home of their Order, a Bulla of this very Pope, John XXII, was discovered; an exact representation of which we are enabled to insert here, by the kind courtesy of the Abbat of Buckfast. Pope John XXII was elected on the 7th of August, 1316, and crowned on the 5th of September following. He died on the 4th of December, 1334.

[1] With this Entry ends what was, originally, the first quire (quaternus) containing the Collations and Institutions. The second quire, which contained the entries from the 8th of September, 1318, to the time of Bishop Sandale's death on the 2nd of November, 1319, has, unfortunately, been lost ; but not recently, for the numbering of the folios, which is consecutive as far as folio 50, inclusive, belongs to the beginning of the seventeenth century.

The scribe added seven more entries to this list, and then appears to have discovered that he was copying a part of another Ordination. He has effectively effaced the first entry, and partly erased the first word of each line of the other entries ; and two lines are drawn, saltirewise, across the entries, with va at the top of the first diagonal line, and cat at the end of the last line. We insert them here, however, as a portion of the Register. It is, apparently, a fragment of the record of an Ordination during Bishop Sandale's Episcopate, held subsequently to 23rd of December, 1318, and it gives the names of those who were promoted to the diaconate or priesthood.

The Register ends here. But there can be no doubt that there was, once, another "quaternus," which has been lost. It would contain the record of several Ordinations, held on the 23rd of December, the 3rd and 24th of March, the 7th of April, the 2nd of June, and the 22nd of September, 1319; on most, if not all, of those days. We have lost, also, the record of the Letters Dimissory granted in the interval, down to the time of Bishop Sandale's death, which occurred on the 2nd of November, 1319. It is certain that this portion of the MS. had disappeared before the commencement of the seventeenth century; for an index of the contents of the Register, compiled at about that time, states that folio 47 was followed by—"Littere dimissorie. Licencia ordinandi clericos ad primam tonsuram. Sequitur, postea, in xij^{cim} foliis Registrum ordinatorum in sacris ordinibus. Et sic finis."

[1] The folios of this portion of Bishop Sandale's Register are preserved in the Register of Bishop Wodeloke, bound up at the end of the volume, and numbered independently of that Register, as folios 1 to 7, distinguished by a dagger. As these Writs only cover the period from the 12th May, 1318, to the 1st August, 1319, it is evident that there was originally a "quaternus primus," extending back to the commencement of Bishop Sandale's episcopate.

[1] This return of the account of the stock, etc., includes all the Surrey and Hampshire Manors belonging to the Bishoprick. The entries relating to the three Manors lying outside the Diocese contain particulars as to sown lands only; and there were fifteen other external Manors of which no stock account is extant.

Folios 8†—15† formed a second quaternus, originally of six sheets. Four of its leaves have been cut out between folios 13† and 14†; but they were, probably, blank leaves left for the continuation of the Stock account. Of these two quarterni, placed at the end of Bishop Wodeloke's Register, folios 1—8 are marked in a fourteenth century hand; but the remainder, 9—15, and the † placed after each number, were written in the present century.

Indults granted to John de Sandale by Pope Clement V.

Privilegia domini Johannis de Sandale,—[15 Jan., 1305–6.] CLEMENS Episcopus, Servus servorum Dei, dilecto filio, Johanni de Sandale, subdiacono, Cancellario ecclesie Sancti Patricii Dublinensis, salutem et Apostolicam benediccionem. Sedis Apostolice graciosa benignitas nonnunquam personis bene meritis per dispensacionem concedere consuevit que juris observancia interdicit. Oblata, siquidem, nobis ex parte tua peticio continebat, quod tu olim, post Lugdunense Concilium novissime celebratum, absque dispensacione Sedis ejusdem, de Castro Rysingge et de Wymbyssche ecclesias, curam animarum habentes annexam, Norwicensis et Londoniensis diocesium, ac thesaurariam ecclesie Sancti Patrici Dublinensis, fuisti alias canonice assecutus, easque aliquamdiu retinens, percepisti fructus et redditus ex eisdem. Postmodum, vero, ecclesiis et thesauraria predictis dimissis, cancellariam ejusdem ecclesie Sancti Patricii, necnon ecclesias de Lokyntone, de Astone, et de Stoke, cum nonnullis capellis eidem annexis, similem curam habentes annexam, Eboracensis ac Coventrensis et Lychfeldensis [diocesium], absque dispensacione hujusmodi; alias, tamen, tibi collatas canonice; recepisti: quas usque nunc retinuisti et retines, percipiendo ex eis redditus et proventus; nec, eciam, te fecisti infra annum, prout ex Constitucione dicti Concilii tenebaris, in presbiterum promoveri, licet postmodum fueris in subdiaconum ordinatus. Quare, cupiens consciencie tue ac statui consuli salubriter in hac parte, nobis humiliter supplicasti ut providere tibi graciose super hoc, de benignitate Apostolica, dignaremur. Nos, itaque, consideracione karissimi in Christo filii nostri, E[dwardi], Regis Anglie illustris, cujus existis clericus, ac ad tuorum exigenciam meritorum, super quibus fidedignorum testimonio multipliciter commendaris; dilecti, quoque, filii, nobilis viri, Henrici, Comitis Lyncolnie, cujus similiter existis clericus, pro te nostram super hoc graciam implorantis; ac tuis supplicacionibus inclinati; volentes personam tuam prerogativa favoris et gracie prosequi specialis, tecum ut predicta, necnon, Generalis Concilii et quibuslibet aliis Constitucionibus contrariis nequaquam obstantibus, cancellariam, ac de Lokynetone, de Astone, et de Stoke cum hujusmodi capellis ipsius, ecclesias predictas insimul retinere licite valeas; quodque, ipsius Regis insistens obsequiis, ad residendum in eis, vel usque ad septennium ad recipiendos superiores ordines minime tenearis, neque ad hoc a quoquam compelli possis invitus; auctoritate Apostolica, de speciali gracia dispensamus; remittentes ac donantes tibi fructus, redditus, et proventus omnes a te ex eisdem thesauraria, cancellaria, et ecclesiis invito juste perceptos, omnemque inhabilitatem, infamie maculam sive notam vite, premissorum occasione obortas, penitus abolentes, de uberiori gracia et Apostolice plenitudine potestatis. Proviso quod cancellaria, ecclesie de Lykyntone (sic), de Astone, et de Stoke ac capelle hujusmodi, debitis obsequiis non fraudentur, et animarum cura in eis nullatenus negligatur. Nulli, ergo, omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostre dispensacionis, remissionis, donacionis, et abolicionis infringere, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Si quis, autem, hoc attemptare presumpserit, indignacionem Omnipotentis Dei et Beatorum Petri et Pauli, Apostolorum Ejus, se noverit incursurum. Data Lugduni, xviij Kalendas Februarii, Pontificatus nostri anno primo.

Providencia Sedis Apostolice circumspecta personarum probitatem considerans, illas favore sue gracie libenter attollit, que, per semitas incedentes virtutum ac sublimium personarum obsequiis laudabiliter inherentes, se fore dignas gracia presentant. Oblata, siquidem, nobis ex parte tua peticio continebat, quod olim tecum, ut cancellariam ecclesie Dublinensis, ac de Stoke, Astone, et Lokintone ecclesias, curam animarum habentes, Coventrensis et Lychfeldensis, et Eboracensis diocesium, quas absque dispensacione Apostolica, alias, tamen, canonice, fueras assecutus, licite insimul retinere valeres, nec tenereris extunc infra septennium ad ulteriores ordines promoveri vel ad residendum personaliter in eisdem, fuit, auctoritate Apostolica, dispensatum. Proviso quod cancellaria et ecclesie curate predicte, necnon hujusmodi beneficia cum ea fueris assecutus, debitis obsequiis non fraudentur, et animarum cura, in eis quibus illa [imminet], nullatenus negligatur. Nulli, ergo, omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostre dispensacionis infringere, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Littera directa Priori et Capitulo Wyntoniensi, quod admittant Commissarios domini ad visitandum,— cionem, et graciam Salvatoris. Mirantes cordis angustia non modicum conturbamur, ex eo quod contra nos, qui, in omni pacis dulcedine, solaciis presidii, gracie, et favoris, ex quadam affeccione speciali quam ad ecclesiam vestram diu gessimus, que nos, eciam, ad id pungit, personas vestras proni efficimur recreare, rebellionis cervices, sicut didicimus, erexistis, dum vestrum aliqui Commissarios nostros ad actum visitacionis, nostro nomine faciende, vos predicant nullatenus admissuros; cujus rei exemplo nonnulli Religiosi Wyntoniensis diocesis conspiraciones et conventiculas illicitas inierunt, resistanciam similem faciendi occasione assumpta; quod visitacionis officium subire, prout falso asserunt, non tenentur, nisi apud vos precesserit actus ille; que tamen occasio sic pretensa vana penitus est et nulla, quia auctoritate diocesana, non Metropolitica, fungimur in hac parte; sicque, vobis causam prestantibus, nostre jurisdiccionis exercicium impeditur, in animarum periculum et nostre auctoritatis prejudicium et contemptum. Unde, ne honori nostro taliter detrahatur, vos, et vestrum Monasterium disponimus, monitis omnibus, in persona propria visitare, prout super hoc jam pridem ad vos nostre littere emanarunt, nisi negociis arduis domini nostri Regis, qui contra Scotos, illos hostes suos perfidos, ipsum populumque suum multorum patrata strage horribili undique prosequentes, ad eorundem furoris audaciam cum Dei adjutorio conterendam noviter se direxit, et interim nobis et aliis commisit regni sui gubernacula, fuerimus necessario occupati; adeo quod a cura negociorum hujusmodi, absque gravi incommodo et periculo eorundem, videamur divertere nos non posse. In quo eventu intendimus ad vos speciales Commissarios destinare, qui vobiscum in hoc omnem mansuetudinem exercebunt. Verum si, contrariis ducti motibus, destinandis ad hujusmodi visitacionis officium subeundum nolueritis seu neglexeritis inclinari, illuc ad vos in die assignato, relictis regni Regisque negociis, qualicumque contingant discrimini subjacere, ne a vobis nostra vilipendatur dignitas, personaliter accedemus. Nobis, igitur, petimus, super hiis rescribite velle vestrum per presencium portitorem. Valeat, etc. Data apud Lambethe, in vigilia Sancti Bartholomei, sub sigillo privato.—Ibid. fol. 118*b*.

[4 Dec., 1338.] Edwardus [III], Dei gracia Rex Anglie, Dominus Hibernie, et Dux Aquitannie, Venerabili in Christo patri, Ade, eadem gracia Episcopo Wyntoniensi, salutem. Quia Johannes de Heydene, Executor testamenti Johannis de Sandale, nuper Episcopi Wyntoniensis, clericus, vestre diocesis, non habet laicum feodum unde debita que nobis debet levari possunt, prout coram Baronibus de Scaccario nostro sufficienter est testatum; vobis mandamus quod de bonis ecclesiasticis ejusdem Johannis, tam apud Rectoriam suam de Alresforde, vestre diocesis, quam alibi; ac, eciam, de bonis ecclesiasticis Johannis de Cokermouthe, Coexecutoris predicti Johannis de Heydene testamenti predicti, in eadem diocesi vestra, levari faciatis cccc. iiij^{xx} xiiij*li.* ix*s.* xj*d. ob. qua.*, quos iidem Executores nobis debent de remanente compoti sui, de bonis et catallis que fuerunt predicti Episcopi, secundo die Novembris, anno regni domini E[dwardi], nuper Regis Anglie, patris nostri, xiij° [1319]; ita quod denarios illos habeatis ad Scaccarium nostrum, apud Westmonasterium, in crastino Sancti Hillarii, nobis per aliquem de vestris solvendos. Johannes de Cokermuthe (sic) in dicta nostra diocesi beneficiatus non existit; et ideo hujusmodi peccuniam de bonis ipsius ecclesiasticis minime levare potuimus ut mandastis.—Register of Adam de Orletone, Vol. I, fol. 149 b.[1]

[6 July, 1339.] Edwardus, etc., Venerabili in Christo patri, Ade, eadem gracia Episcopo Wyntoniensi, salutem. Quia Johannes de Heydene, Executor testamenti Johannis de Sandale, nuper Episcopi Wyntoniensis, qui diem suum clausit extremum,[2] ut accepimus, tenebatur nobis, die quo obiit, in cccc iiij^{xx} xj*li.* ix*s.* xj*d. ob. qua.* de remanente compoti sui, et Johannis de Cokermuthe, Coexecutoris predicti Johannis de Heydene testamenti predicti, de bonis et catallis que fuerunt predicti Episcopi secundo die Novembris, anno regni domini E[dwardi], nuper Regis Anglie, patris nostri, xiij° [1319], et in aliis debitis diversis; vobis mandamus quod bona ecclesiastica que idem Johannes de Heydene habuit, dicto die quo obiit, in diocesi vestra, tam apud Alresforde quam alibi in eadem diocesi vestra, in quorumcumque manibus nunc existant, capiatis in manum nostram ad valenciam predictorum cccc iiij^{xx} xj*li.* ix*s.* xj*d. ob. qua.*; ita quod inde nobis satisfieri possit. This was followed by another Writ on 8 July, 1339, and the Bishop states in his return that he had sent the aforesaid 60*s.* to the Exchequer; consequently, in the subsequent Writs, the debt is 60*s.* less.

[1] He was Master of the Rolls from 1 October, 1295, till the day of his death on 18 August, 1316.

[2] On 28 July, 1317, Bishop Sandale gave him dispensation to hold a benefice with cure of souls, notwithstanding his being only 22 years of age, by virtue of an Indult granted by Pope John XXII. (Regesta, Vol. LXV, fol. 170 b. See page 63.—Ordained acolite by Bishop Sandale, as of the Diocese of Lincoln, on 2 April, 1317. See page 180.

[3] Gilbert de Sandale appears to have died in December, 1335, and the Church of Simonburn being thus vacant, the right of presentation was claimed by the Crown, and by the Bishop of Durham. Legal proceedings ensued, which ended in an amicable arrangement, and the Crown ceded the right of patronage to the See of Durham.

ROBERT DE SANDALE,—

On 28 March, 1317, Pope John XXII granted to Robert de Sandale a canonry in the Collegiate Church of Southwell, with reservation of a prebend.—Regesta, Vol. LXVI. He was ordained acolite, as of the diocese of Lincoln, by Bishop Sandale, on 2 April, 1317 (page 180), and on 4 November, 1318, he presented him to the church of Downton, Wilts (page 278). This presentation, however, was not carried out, as an arrangement was made whereby Master Thomas de Cherleton (afterwards Bishop of Hereford) accepted it, resigning thereupon the deanery of the Royal Free Chapel of Stafford; and Robert de Sandale was presented to the vacant deanery.

De decanatu dato,—[27 Nov., 1318.] Rex omnibus ad quos, etc., salutem. Sciatis quod dedimus et concessimus dilecto clerico nostro, Roberto de Sandale, decanatum in libera capella Regia Beate Marie, Staffordie, vacantem per resignacionem dilecti clerici nostri, Magistri Thome de Cherletone, et ad nostram donacionem spectantem; habendum, cum suis juribus et pertinenciis quibuscumque. In cujus, etc. Teste Rege, apud Eboracum, xxvij die Novembris. Per ipsum Regem.

Et mandatum est militibus, liberis hominibus, et omnibus aliis tenentibus de decanatu capelle predicte, quod eidem Roberto, tanquam Decano et domino suo, in omnibus que ad decanatum illum pertinent intendentes sint et respondentes.[1] In cujus, etc. Teste, ut supra.—*Rot. PETER DE SANDALE,—

De custodia Hospitalis concessa,—[12 Oct., 1316]. Rex omnibus ad quos, etc., salutem. Sciatis quod dedimus et concessimus dilecto capellano nostro, Petro de Sandale, custodiam Hospitalis Beate Marie Magdalene extra Bautre (hodie Bawtry, co. York), vacantem, et in manu nostra existentem; habendam, cum omnibus ad custodiam illam qualitercumque spectantibus, ad totam vitam ipsius Petri. In cujus, etc. Teste Rege, apud Eboracum, xij die Octobris.—Rot. Pat. 10 Edw. II, p. 1, m. 13.

[1] Another Robert de Sandale is mentioned in page 134, who was instituted on 21 March, 1316–17, to the Vicarage of Micheldever, as "Robert de Sandale, priest;" on the presentation of the King by reason of the vacancy of the Abbacy of Hyde. On 2 December, 1317, he had licence of absence until Easter, that he might go on a pilgrimage to the Abbey of St. Denys in France (page 62). He resigned Micheldever Vicarage on 23 October, 1322, in exchange for the Rectory of St. Faith, near Winchester.—Register of Rigaud de Asserio, fol. 25 b. There is a presentation dated 15 May, 1307, worth noticing, as perchance, it may refer to this Robert de Sandale under an earlier designation. —De presentacione,—Robertus de Whetelay, clericus, habet litteras Regis de presentacione ad ecclesiam de Aldeberge, vacantem, et ad donacionem Regis spectantem. Et diriguntur littere J[ohanni], Episcopo Norwicensi. In cujus, etc. Teste Rege, apud Karliolum, xv die Maii.—Rot. Pat. 35 Edw. I, m. 11. (See pp. 303 and 307).

THE REGISTERS OF

JOHN DE SANDALE AND RIGAUD DE ASSERIO,

BISHOPS OF WINCHESTER, A.D. 1316—1323.

PREFACE.

THE Register of Rigaud de Asserio was bound at the same time as that of John de Sandale, and corresponds with it in form, except that it contains only about half the number of folios. It is in an excellent state of preservation, and, for the most part, was carefully written with better ink and the lines closer together than in the case of Sandale's Register, as may be seen by the fac-simile, which fairly represents the MS. The entries have rubricated headings throughout the volume, and also marginal references in a smaller hand. A strip of parchment, eight and a quarter inches in length and three in breadth, has been pasted on the paper fly-leaf at the commencement of the volume: it is, evidently, a cutting of part of the original cover, which did duty till the book received its present binding; and it is inscribed with the words—"Registrum dñi Rigaudi [de Asserio], Wyntoñ Eṗi.,"—the bracketed words are an interlineation of the time of Henry VIII. Above this title was written, at the top of the parchment slip, in the hand of the time of the Commonwealth,—"A registre off a bysshop of Wynchestre, 1300," and in an eighteenth century hand,—"Asser, 1320."[1] This leaf is followed by a title-page of the same date, and by the same hand, as those already referred to in the Preface to Bishop Sandale's Register,[2]—"Registrum Dñi Rigaudi de Asserio, Wyn-

[1] Below this strip of parchment, the late Rev. W. H. Gunner wrote in pencil,—"Consecrated Bishop, in the abbey church of S. Alban, Novemb. 16, 1320. He died at Avinion, April 12, 1323. He had been the Pope's Nuncio in England for many years, and was Canon of Orleans."

[2] The following particulars should have been included in that Preface,—On Sunday, the 26th of March, 1318, Lewis de Beaumont, the Elect of Durham, was consecrated by Bishop Sandale in Westminster Abbey, in the presence of the Cardinals, Gaucelin and Luke, and several Bishops. This is interesting, as it was the only occasion on which Sandale officiated as Consecrator. "Eodem anno (1318), die Dominica in crastino Annunciacionis, dominus Lodowicus, Electus Dunolmie, consecratus fuit apud Westmonasterium."—Annales Ade Murimuthe. And in the Annals of Robert de Redynge (1299—1325), the Bishop is thus referred to,—"qui in ecclesia Westmonasteriensi, ad magnum Altare, presentibus Cardinalibus et quibusdam ignotis Episcopis, de manibus Wyntoniensis Episcopi munus Consecracionis suscepit." Cottonian MS., Cleopatra A. xvi, fol. 109. The last named Annalist also records under the year 1316,—"Obierunt Episcopi Wyntoniensis et Elyensis, viri sacra professione insigniti; quorum prius successit in Episcopatum Johannes de Sandale, Cancellarius Anglie, vir cunctis affabilis et necessarius communitati." Ibid., fol. 104; and under the year 1319,—"Inter hujusmodi recursus tõñ Ep̃i, A.D. 1320, 1321, 1322, and 1323." And on the next leaf, which is also of paper, is written,—" *Synopsis of the Register Book of Rigaudus de Asserio, Bishop of Winchester. The Register commences, as indicated in the above Synopsis, with the Ordination entries, occupying five folios, which were subsequently marked A, B, C, D, and E by Mr. Alchin. These leaves formed the second quaternus of this part of the volume, and stood at the end of the book till it received its present binding; see page 529, where I have, also, given some particulars as to the lost quaternus and the Ordinations. On folios A and B*a* the names are arranged in three columns; but, with the exception of a portion of folio C, the remaining folios give them in two columns. These folios formed a quaternus of six leaves, of which folio E has been only partly utilized; the last folio of the quaternus, of which only the stump remains, was cut out by the binder. Commencing with the Register itself,—the folios were left unnumbered until the beginning of the seventeenth century, when they were marked with figures, 1 to 30. There are six quaterni in all: the first contains folios 1—4; the second, originally of six leaves, now contains folios 5—8; and within it is inserted another quaternus of four leaves, folios 9—12, containing Institutions and Collations by Rigaud de Asserio as the Elect-Confirmed. Folio 12 is followed by two leaves, both unused, excepting the front side of the first leaf, which is marked as 13. The folio which follows the blank leaf is marked 14, and commences the division containing the Institutions and Collations made by the Bishop after his Consecration,—a quaternus of six folios, partly left blank towards the end. The dorse of folio 18 has been utilized for entries relating to St. Cross Hospital.[1] Folio 19, and the succeeding pages to the end of the volume (fol. 30), contain a record of the proceedings during the Vicariate, extending from the time that the Bishop left England till the end of his Episcopate: it is composed of two quaterni, each of six folios. The upper part of the last folio is stained, and the front edges of folios 7—30, as well as the folios containing the Ordination entries, have been nibbled by rodents; whose depredations on the first quaternus of the Ordinations, probably, led to its being thrown aside by the binder, as not worth preserving.

The earliest date in the Register is the 8th of June, 1320 (fol. 9); the latest the 28th of April, 1323 (fol. 30 b). Of the divisions of the Register, the first extends from the 4th of January, 1320-1, to the 17th of January, 1321-2 (fol. 1–8);[2] the second—Institutions and Collations—from the 8th of June, 1320, to the 10th of November, and from the 29th of December to the 16th of February, 1321-2 (fol. 9–17);[3] the third—the Vicariate portion—from the 12th of January, 1321-2, to the 28th of April, 1323 (fol. 19–30).[4] The Ordination entries extend from the 31st of May, 1321, to the 23rd of March, 1322-3 (folios A—E).[5]

Unfortunately, several quaterni belonging to this Register have disappeared, including that which contained the Commissions, Mandates, and Licences issued between the reception of the spirituality in April, 1320, and the Bishop's Consecration, 16 November, a period of seven months. In this lost portion were, of course, recorded the appointments of proctors and other officials, and of his Brother, Gerald de Asserio, as Vicar-General, and of Andrew de Bruges as his Official-Principal. I have, however, met with two documents belonging to this period,—a commission directed to the Bishop of Bath and Wells, dated the 1st of May (see p. 446), and a presentation sent to the Bishop of Salisbury, dated the 4th of June (p. 428). There must, also, have been a few leaves containing entries of several transactions subsequent to his Consecration ; the earliest of such entries now extant being, with one exception, dated 13 February, 1320-1 ; and there may have been some Institutions and Collations earlier than the 10th of June, 1320, and, probably, a second quaternus, containing the Acts of Gerald de Asserio as Vicar-General from the 16th of November till the end of December, 1320, and from the 18th of February till the 10th of May, 1321. All the Royal Writs and other mandates received by the Bishop have been lost, as well as the records of the secular appointments and of many other similar transactions, as may be inferred from a casual reference (in the rubrick, page 466) to "Acts" not now extant.[1]

The table of contents gives, in chronological order, a brief statement of the purport of each entry of the Register ; and, as in the case of the previous Preface, it is only necessary to direct attention, here, to some of the more important. On page 389 will be found an order for the Bishop's Official of Winchester to collect the rate of a farthing in the pound, assessed upon the value of the ecclesiastical goods of the clergy, by the Archbishop and Bishops of the Province, towards payment of the stipend of a teacher of Hebrew and Greek, at Oxford. With respect to the diocese of Norwich, there is a commission for the restitution of the parish church of South Creake, in Norfolk, to the Prior and Convent of Castleacre,[2] the proceedings and decree thereupon, dated 17 June, 1321, being set out at length in the text.[4] The details are of interest ; reciting, as they do, the early charters and documents which were exhibited on the part of the Prior and Convent. With respect to marriages there is a complaint

of John de Mikelham against his father-in-law, who was ordered to allow his daughter Alice, whom the said John had lawfully married "in facie ecclesie," to dwell with her husband, or he would be cited to shew cause before the Bishop or his Commissary.[1] In another case, Alice atte Gate, of Battersea, wished to return to her husband, who was living at Stevenage, Herts; and, the Bishop's aid being invoked, he directed the Dean of Hitchin to admonish the culprit to submit, under pain of the sentence of the greater excommunication.[1] In another instance the Bishop granted a dispensation, under the authority of the Apostolic See, to Robert Bernard, of Morstede, and Agnes de Wyccherste, who had entered into wedlock within the forbidden degrees of affinity.[2] There is a commission issued to the Abbat of Whitby and the Prior of Bridlington, by virtue of a Bull of Pope John XXII, dated 25 August, 1319, to inquire as to the true value of the church of Scarborough, which resulted in the reduction of its taxation from 106*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to 40*l.*[3] Faculties were granted for certain Friars Preachers of the Convent of Guildford to hear confessions, and to preach, within the diocese.[4] The Carmelite Friars were licenced to preach in the Cathedral church, and in other churches of the diocese, and also to hear confessions.[5] Faculties were granted to Brother William de Corfe, a Friar Minor, to hear the confessions of various persons of position in the diocese, and of their families;[6] also for Brother Adam de Stokes, a Friar Preacher, to hear the confessions of Sir John de Insula and his wife and family.[7] I may note, also, a monition for the quarterly payment of the oblations due from the parishioners of all parish-churches of the diocese, in accordance with the Synodal decrees enacted by the Bishop's predecessors.[8] A commission for an inquiry as to the reported neglect of duties, and other irregularities, on the part of the Prior of Tanridge, who was accused of wasting the goods of the Priory and leading a dissolute life;[9] also for the investigation of the proceedings in the election of a new Prior.[10] Faculties for the Bishop of Salisbury to absolve Thomas de Brotherton, son of Edward I, Earl of Norfolk and of Suffolk and Marshal of having been destroyed by a fire at the vicarage-house which consumed the Vicar's goods. Although he was so unfortunate in this respect, his monumental effigy in the church is the only memorial of the mediæval Vicars of the parish.[1] The Ordination entries include several lists of those whom the Bishop admitted to the First Tonsure, and also a General Ordination held on the 13th of June, 1321.[2] The other Ordinations were held by Peter, Bishop of Corbavia.[3]

At the time of the Election of John de Sandale to the Bishoprick of Winchester the Holy See was vacant, and the Cardinals were in conclave at Lyons in the Convent of the Friars Preachers. On the second day after his presentation to the King at Lincoln, as the Elect of Winchester, James Duèse, Cardinal Bishop of Porto and St. Rufina's was elected Pope ; he assumed the name of John,—John XXII, and was crowned at Lyons on the 5th of September, 1316, in the Conventual church of the Friars Preachers. The newly elected Pontiff, who was about 72 years old, was born in the city of Cahors in the Duchy of Aquitaine, one of the suffragan Sees of Bourges, the Primatial See of Aquitaine. When he entered on the duties of his high Office, there was among the attendants of the Pontifical Court at Avignon a youthful ecclesiastic of great promise, who had been successful in the schools and had been promoted to a canonry in the Cathedral church of Orleans. This was Rigaud de Asserio, a native of the same diocese as the Pope, born at Assier, a village or hamlet a few miles north of Cahors. So he was in the way of early promotion ; and, in fact, he was forthwith appointed Auditor of the Sacred Palace, Before many months had passed, he was selected by the Pope for a still more important position, being sent to England as Nuncio of the Apostolic See, on the

This Bishop was a Friar Minor, who had been consecrated a few years before to act as Suffragan in the diocese of London ; and his services were also in requisition in the dioceses of Canterbury, Rochester, and Winchester. He died in the Convent of the Franciscan Friary, London, and was buried within an arch on the south side of the choir, his tomb being inscribed :—" Hic jacet venerabilis pater et frater Petrus Bononiensis, quondam Episcopus Corbaviensis in Hungaria, et suffraganeus Episcopi Londoniensis ; qui obiit xix° die mensis Januarii, anno Domini M°. 1st of May, 1317, to arrange and re-adjust the collection of St. Peter's penny, as well as that of certain other dues and procurations payable to the Roman Pontiff, which had fallen into arrear.[1] This was a matter that required considerable tact and diplomacy to bring to a successful issue; and the selection of Rigaud de Asserio is, in itself, sufficient to show that he must have been a man of great ability and fitness for such a task. On the 20th of May he received the requisite faculties to enable him to discharge his duties;[2] and a mandate was addressed to the Archbishops, Bishops, and all Prelates, secular and regular, of England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland, to assist him in collecting St. Peter's penny and to pay over to him what had already been collected; and a letter of request was sent to them to assist Rigaud in his mission, and to grant him a stipend of 7s. a day, with the intimation that the Nuncio had power to enforce his orders by ecclesiastical censures if necessary.[3] His predecessor in this office was Master William de Balaeto, Archdeacon of Fejus, appointed 8 March, 1312-13, and he, also, had been allowed 7s. a day for his expenses. On the 29th of May, 1317, a mandate was sent to him to render an account of his mission to Rigaud de Asserio, in order that, all letters and documents having been handed over to him, and security taken, he might present himself to the Pope.

On the 8th of June, 1317, Rigaud de Asserio had provision of the canonry and prebend of London void by the Consecration of Thomas de Cobeham as Bishop of Worcester.[4] On the 1st of August he was directed to pay over to the Society of the Perusii and Bardi of Florence, dwelling in England, 1000 marks at a time, or a less sum, of the moneys due to the Papal Camera which

[1] p. 555. There is in the Papal Regesta, among the Curial Letters (vol. 63, folio 374), a mandate assigned to the year 1316, and dated at Avignon on 8 December, directed to Rigaud de Asserio, D.C.L., Auditor of the Sacred Palace; to collect the first-fruits, rents, and proceeds of such benefices and offices, secular and regular, in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, as, on their avoidance within three years, are in the gift of the Pope. This may have been a preliminary step to his appointment as Nuncio.

[4] Regesta, Vol. 66, fol. 46. He held the prebend of Ealdstreet in the Cathedral church of St. Paul's, London, and was provided to this See, 31 March, 1317. That Rigaud de Asserio obtained possession of this preferment there can be little doubt, as he is designated Canon of London in a Papal Mandate dated 21 March, 1318–19, also 11 June, and again on 10 September, 1319.—Ibid., Vol. 69, fols. 168, 242; Vol. 70, fol. 460.

he had collected[1]; and on the 24th of September, King Edward II granted him letters of protection, as the special Nuncio of the Apostolic See to England, Ireland, and Wales, for himself and his sub-collectors, ministers, and deputies.[2] His proceedings seem to have given satisfaction, and, as his reward, he was promoted to the office of one of the Pope's chaplains. On the 29th of October, a Bull was sent to him, notifying that his commission to receive the past arrears and future instalments of the annual tribute due from the King was not to be exercised to the prejudice of the commissions of Gaucelin, Cardinal Priest of St. Marcellinus and St. Peter, and Luke, Cardinal Deacon of St. Mary in Via Lata, Nuncios of the Apostolic See in England.[3] On the same day a mandate was directed to him to pay the above named Cardinals 1000 florins apiece out of the moneys collected for the Papal Camera.[4] On the 18th of January, 1317-18, the Pope directed him to pay the amount of money necessary to enable Brother Nicholas Trevet, a Friar Preacher and Master of Theology, to meet his expenses in completing a certain literary work which he was engaged upon by the Pope's order.[5]

Some little friction seems to have been caused by the Nuncio's proceedings; for on the 6th of February, 1317-18, we have a letter from the King, prohibiting his adopting any unusual proceedings against Religious or other ecclesiastical persons or laymen of the realm, to the prejudice of the King or of his crown; complaints having been made of his exercising various novel, unusual, and inconvenient practices;[6] and on the 1st of March a similar prohibition was issued, with respect to his levying or collecting St. Peter's penny within the realm otherwise than in the customary manner, until order should be taken in Parliament as to what might be done without prejudice to the Crown and people. On the 12th of June, 1318, the King granted letters of protection to the Abbat of St. Thomas, the Martyr, near Dublin, Master William Nichols, and Reymond de Roseriis, clerks, deputies of Rigaud de Asserio, to collect the first-fruits in Ireland, and to do all that was necessary on his behalf.[1] On the 21st of May, 1319, he had provision and collation of the canonry and prebend of Bedwin in the Cathedral church of Salisbury, vacant by the death of Peter de Savoy, a Papal Chaplain,[2] and a mandate for his induction was addressed to the Prior of Ivychurch, Wilts, Master Reymund le Yonge, Scholastic of the church of Perigueux, and John de Turleria, Canon of the church of Mende.[3] This provision was supplemented on the 18th of October by a grant of the prebend by the King, in right of a previous vacancy of the See of Salisbury.[4] On the 8th of June the King sent a long instrument to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, instructing them how to proceed in the settlement of the debts of Anthony de Beke, late Bishop of Durham, and the claims of Rigaud de Asserio;[5] and on the same day the King wrote to the Pope, asking permission to delay the payment of the yearly tribute of a 1000 marks, due for that year, having already paid the amount for the two previous years to Rigaud de Asserio.[6] Soon after this a mandate was addressed to him as Master Rigaud de Asserio, Rector of St. Stephen's Toulouse (the Cathedral probably), with reference to his dealing with the balance of the tenth collected in England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland, by order of Nicholas IV, Boniface VIII, and Clement V.[7] About this time, and certainly before the 25th of August,[8] he was raised to the dignity of Scholastic, or Canon Theologian, of the Cathedral church of Orleans: here, however, in England, the term Chancellor was the usual designation of this dignitary.[9] His acceptance of this position seems to point to an intention of returning to France; but in the course of the next few months a different career opened before him.

[9] In the Salisbury Constitution entitled Altera Osmundi Constitucio, the Chancellor of the Cathedral church is designated "Scholarcha"—that is chief Schoolmaster and general director of the Schools. He was by office the Theological Professor of the College of Canons (at Orleans there were 46 canons), and was usually bound to hold a School and to give Lectures in Theology and Holy Scripture. In the Choir the "Scholasticus" stood at the side of the Dean, and he went before him in processions, so that he ranked as the first prelate after the Dean.

Bishop Sandale died on the 2nd of November in this year; and, as soon as the news reached York, Bartholomew de Badelesmere, Steward of the King's Household, made suit for the promotion of his nephew, Master Henry de Burghershe, who was doubtless a man of merit, but he was under thirty years of age. The King, however, wrote an urgent appeal to the Pope on his behalf, on the 7th of November, asking that the defect of age might be made good; but admitting, at the same time, that he knew that the Pope had already reserved the appointment to himself.[1] This was followed by another letter to the same effect on the 9th of November: corresponding letters were, also, sent to the Cardinals residing at the Roman Court; and Adam de Orletone, the King's Proctor there, was directed to support the application.[2] On the 5th of December the King wrote to the Pope again, and in urgent terms.[3] There was, of course, much diplomacy in all this, for it ended in an application for the Bishoprick of Lincoln, which the King solicited for Burghershe on the 15th of January following, and again on the 6th of March,[4] with the result that on the 27th of May, 1320, the Pope yielded to the King's request and appointed him to that See.[5]

When the news of Bishop Sandale's death reached Avignon, the Pope, after some consideration, resolved to promote Rigaud de Asserio to the vacant Bishoprick; not only because of his fitness, but in the expectation, probably, that he would exercise a wholesome influence over the King, to whom the Pope had written again and again, exhorting him to reform his household;[6] reducing his expenses, and no longer wasting the goods of the realm in gorgeous apparel, feastings, and lavish gifts;[7] and urging him to call to his side wise and prudent counsellors.[8]

[5] In 1322 and 1323, the King made urgent requests to the Pope not only to depose or banish by translation Henry de Burghershe, Bishop of Lincoln, but also John de Drokenesforde, Bishop of Bath and Wells; this the Pope refused to do; although both were indebted to the King for their promotion to those Sees.

[6] In the earliest of these letters, Pope John XXII exhorts him to venerate churches, honour priests, and hear divine offices with attention and reverence; and to maintain the cause of the orphan, the widow, and the helpless.—Papal Regesta, vol. 109, fol. 33 b.

On the 13th of November, 1319, the Archbishop commissioned Master Gilbert de Middeltone, his Official-Principal, to nominate an Official of the spiritualities of the vacant See of Winchester, and on the 23rd of November Master Robert de Wamberge, the late Bishop's Chancellor, was appointed to the office.[1] On the 13th of January following he received a special commission from the Archbishop to make inquisitions as to all vacant benefices of the diocese under the taxed value of thirty marks, and to admit thereto if all things were found in order.[2] Two of the Cathedral Monks, Brothers Richard de Merewelle, the Subprior, and John de Doneketone, were sent, in due course, to York, as bearers of the customary letter announcing the decease of Bishop Sandale, and asking for the usual congé d'élire; and the King granted it on the 24th of November,[3] his own direct applications to the Pope on behalf of Henry de Burghershe notwithstanding. The Prior and Convent thereupon proceeded to the election and presented, as their Elect, Brother Adam de Wyntone, one of the Monks of their Priory; and the King, on the 26th of December, signified his assent to the Archbishop,[3] knowing all the time that Rigaud de Asserio had been appointed. On the 26th of November the Pope issued his Bull of Provision[4]:—

John, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to his beloved son, Rigald, Elect of Winchester, health and Apostolic benediction. The charge of the pastoral office, committed to us, though unworthy, by the disposition of Providence, ever requires and urgently demands that we should devote our Apostolic solicitude to the happy and beneficial government and direction of all the churches. In particular, as far as it is given to us from above, we take thought with the more earnestness, as is our bounden duty, for those churches which we know are exposed to the evils of widowhood, and take measures most promptly on their behalf, that by our forethought fitting men, having knowledge and power to rule them well and advance their interests, may be set over them. Since, therefore, the church of Winchester has been deprived of its Pastor's care by the death of John, Bishop of that See, of happy memory, who has gone the way of all flesh; we, having knowledge of the vacancy by trustworthy information, and desiring to appoint a proper person, a man after our own heart, to the governance of the said church, by whose industry and care it may be beneficially directed and prosperously governed, have determined on this occasion to reserve the provision of the aforesaid church and See to our own disposition; declaring null and void anything that may in this matter be attempted, knowingly or in ignorance, by whomsoever and under whatsoever authority. Furthermore, after diligently contemplating such provision, to the intent that the said church might not incur detriment through a prolonged vacancy, after earnest deliberation with our Brethren as to appointing thereto a profitable man and one of approved character, we directed our mind to you, Scholasticus of the church of Orleans and one of our Chaplains, whose virtues and deserts both we and our said Brethren know by experience. Bearing in mind, then, your knowledge of letters, purity of life, refinement of manners, and diligent circumspection in dealing with difficulties, as well as your unswerving fidelity, and other conspicuous gifts and graces bestowed on you by God; and also your profitable and faithful service done to us and to the Roman Church, which make you acceptable both to us and to our said Brethren; we, by our Apostolical authority, do provide in your person for the See of Winchester, and appoint you to be its Bishop and Pastor; fully committing to you the care and administration of the same, both in spirituals and temporals; and having full confidence that, with the favouring right hand of the Lord upon you, the aforesaid church, by means of your diligent ministry, will increase in grace and prosperity. Taking, therefore, upon you, with ready submission, the yoke of the Lord, which is light and pleasant to the necks of the lowly, and bearing it humbly and devoutly, so watch, and so busy yourself and labour to increase the honour and secure the advantage of the said church (deriving profit for yourself by the merits of your life, and for others by your good example), that the said church may rejoice in that it is joined to a worthy spouse, and may know by experience that it has been committed to a fruitful administrator; and that you, yourself, may have just claim to our blessing and that of the Holy See, and to our more abundant favour; and that, after the exile of this life, you may, as a true and faithful servant, (having rendered, in the most strict judgement, a worthy account of your stewardship), deserve to enter with glory into the beloved and everlasting tabernacles of the Lord of Hosts. Given at Avignon on the sixth of the Kalends of December, the fourth year of our Pontificate.

On the same day the usual letters were sent to the Prior and Chapter, announcing this provision; to the clergy and the people of the city and diocese of Winchester; and, also, to the Archbishop and the King.[1] On the 12th of December, wishing to spare the Elect the expense and inconvenience of leaving England, the Pope issued a brief, relieving him from the obligation to proceed to the Apostolic See for Ordination and Consecration ;[2] and on the same day the requisite faculty was granted for his Ordination and Consecration by any Bishop of his choice[3] :—

JOHN, Bishop, Servant of the servants of God, to his beloved son, Rigald, Elect of Winchester, health and Apostolic benediction. Forasmuch as, lately, we determined to provide in your person, by our Apostolic authority, for the church of Winchester, then without a Pastor, promoting you to be its Bishop and Pastor ; we, desiring to spare both you and the said church both labour and expense, do, by these presents, grant you full faculty to be advanced, at the lawful times, to all the Sacred Orders to which you may require to be advanced, and to receive the rite of Consecration from any Bishop you may prefer, who enjoys the favour and communion of the Apostolic See ; two or three other Bishops, enjoying the like favour and communion, being summoned to assist him herein. We will, however, that the said Bishop, after he shall have bestowed upon you the said rite, receive from you, in our name and in that of the Roman Church, the usual oath of fidelity, according to the form which we send you enclosed herewith under our seal,[4] and that he take care to despatch to us, as soon as possible, by his own proper messenger the form of the said oath you are to take, set forth in your letters patent, sealed with your own seal. Do you, therefore, study so to govern healthfully the said church, your spouse, and the flock of our Lord therein committed to you, that you may be able to render to God a worthy account thereof.

[4] The form of Oath, translated, reads,—" I Rigaud, Bishop of Winchester, will be, from this hour henceforth, faithful and obedient to the Blessed Peter and to the Holy Roman and Universal Church, and to my lord Pope, John XXII, and to his canonical successors. Neither in counsel, nor in consent, nor in deed will I take part in anything by reason of which they might suffer loss of life or limb, or have violent hands laid upon them. The counsel which they may confide to me, whether by their Nuncios or their letters, I will to their injury knowingly disclose to no man. The Roman Papacy and the Royalty of St. Peter I will help to maintain and to defend, saving the right of my Order, against all men. I will treat with honour the Legate of the Apostolic See both in his coming and going, and I will assist him in his needs. When summoned to a Synod I will attend the same, unless I am canonically hindered. I will visit the Threshold of the Apostles, either personally or by proxy, every second year when the Roman Court is on this side of the Alps, and every third year when it is on the other side, unless I am dispensed therefrom by Apostolic licence. The possessions which pertain to the support of my Bishoprick I will neither sell nor give away, nor mortgage, nor re-enfeoff, nor alienate in any way, without consulting the Roman Pontiff. So help me God and these God's Holy Gospels."

Given at Avignon, on the second of the Ides of December, in the fourth year of our Pontificate.

Not long after the reception of the Apostolic letters announcing this provision, the King expressed his approbation of the choice that had been made; and, on this coming to the knowledge of the Pope, he wrote to the King as follows[1]:—

Trustworthy report has reached us, most beloved son, that the provision of our dear son, Master Rigaud de Asserio, Elect of Winchester, made, by the watchful providence of the Apostolic See, to the church of Winchester, then vacant, has so entirely approved itself to your royal wishes, that, admitting the said Elect and his church to share more fully in your kindness, you will hereafter bestow on both your most gracious favours, even as the said Elect, in his letters, exalts your royal Highness with expressions of abundant praise. Wherefore we, commending with thankfulness your high-mindedness, do beg, entreat, and exhort you with all fatherly regard so to continue, out of reverence for us and the Apostolic See, this your benevolent and gracious disposition toward them, that the said Elect and his church, relying on your protection, may flourish continually in the fulness of peace and quietude, and that this may be an addition to your crown of Salvation before God, and an increased title to illustrious fame amongst men.

A similar letter was sent to the Archbishop, commending to him the Elect and his church; and, also, to the Bishops of Norwich, Exeter, and London, the Earls of Pembroke and Lancaster, and Hugh le Despenser.[2] On the 19th of January, 1319-20, a Papal mandate was sent for the Elect to appropriate to the Archbishop the church of Cranbrook, Kent, which was of his patronage and of the taxed value of 40 marks; a Vicar's portion to be reserved.[3]

It appears that the spiritualities of the diocese were not delivered to him by the Archbishop till after the 10th of April, as there is a letter of that date addressed to the Guardian thereof.[4] But he must have received them only a few days later; for on the 16th of April, the King and the Elect, accompanied by the Bishops of Norwich, Exeter, and London, and several other dignitaries and magnates of the realm, met at the Archbishop's Palace at Lambeth; where Master Robert de Baldoke read, on the King's behalf, a formal protest with respect to the royal prerogative, as to the King's full right to bestow the temporalities of the Episcopal Sees of the realm, declaring that the phrase in the Bull of Provision referring to the granting of the spiritualities and temporalities was not to be considered as an admission of any such claim or right. The Elect, thereupon, made the usual declaration that he received the temporalities solely from the hands of the King, and renounced all words in the Apostolic letters that could be regarded as prejudicial to the rights of the Crown. And the King, then, granted the temporalities to the Elect and received his oath of fealty; the usual Notarial instrument being drawn up, setting forth these particulars.[1] On the next day the King's mandate was sent[2] to John de Foxele and John Stonore, Keepers of the Bishoprick, to deliver the temporalities to the Elect, who forthwith directed the Bailiffs of the Bishoprick to collect the Recognition money, and ordered Thomas de Saunforde to receive the fealty of all the tenants in Hampshire, Surrey, and Somerset; William de Aykeheved those of the bailiwick of Downton; Roger de la Bere those of the bailiwick of Wargrave; and Thomas de Golafre (who had been Bailiff there in the time of Bishop Wodeloke), those of the bailiwick of Wintney; and Sir John de Dittone[3] and Thomas de Saunforde were appointed Keepers of the Bishoprick and receivers of the live and dead stock on all the manors.

On the 23rd of May the Elect obtained an indult for the extension till the feast of All Saints of the time within which he was to be consecrated;[4] and on the 12th of July he obtained a further extension till Christmas.[5] A letter of request was sent to him from Avignon, on the 23rd of July, to proceed to the Papal Court as soon as possible, on business relating to England; and on the same day a letter was sent to the King desiring him to give licence accordingly.[6] On the 5th of August he was summoned by Writ to attend the Parliament to be held at Westminster on the 6th of October ;[1] and, on its assembling, he presented a petition of complaint that the Sub-escheators and Bailiffs, during the vacancy of the Bishoprick, had cut down in his woods 1500 large trees. He asked for redress; and it was ordered that he was to have a Writ of trespass in Chancery. He, also, complained that, although he, and all his predecessors, had received the fines and amercements of all who were convicted of using false measures at St. Giles' Fair, near Winchester, Richard de Cornubia, clerk, had taken the said fines and amercements ; and for this trespass, also, he asked redress. It was answered that the Elect should exhibit the charter of his liberties on this behalf in Chancery, and that Richard de Cornubia should be called on to give his reasons for what he had done.[2]

[3] He was Surveyor of the King's works at Westminster Palace and at the Tower of London. There is an entry in the Bishop's accounts from 17 April to 29 Sept., 1320, that only 2*s*. had been received as rent for the Bishop's Hall at Kingston, because the Sheriff of Surrey had used it in the King's service, by storing therein the shingles for the Great Hall at Westminster.

Bishop Rigaud began to exercise his Episcopal Office in April, 1320. Unfortunately, the record of all his Acts as the Elect-Confirmed have been lost, with the exception of the institutions and collations from the 8th of June till the 10th of November.[3] The greater part of the time intervening between his obtaining possession of the Bishoprick and his Consecration he spent at Mortlake, in Surrey, one of the residences of the Archbishop ; and this gave him the advantage of being with the Archbishop's chaplains, who were learned churchmen, and other officials, who could assist him in his preparation for Ordination to the Priesthood and for Consecration ; and it appears likely that Ember Saturday, 20 September, was the day of his Ordination as priest.[4] We learn from the Papal Regesta[5] that in July, 1320, the Pope wrote to the King, urging him to foster peace and concord with Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, and to lend attentive ears to the counsel and advice of the Bishop of London and Rigaud, the Elect of Winchester. He wrote, also, to the

Earl himself, entreating him to avoid provoking the King, and to both the Bishops, exhorting them to do all that was in their power in the interests of peace. On the 13th of October it was ordained, in the aforesaid Parliament, that the two Bishops were to go as mediators to the Earl of Lancaster, taking the Pope's letter with them. On their way, they halted at St. Albans, where the Elect was consecrated.[1]

The Abbey Annalist, Brother John de Trokelowe, gives us, some years afterwards, in his record of the Consecration, certain introductory particulars respecting this appointment,[2] which are not altogether correct, as may be seen by a comparison of the authentic dates of the different occurrences already alluded to.[3] He was consecrated, however, before the High Altar of St. Alban's Abbey on Sunday, the 17th of November, 1320, the Feast of St. Edmund, Archbishop of Canterbury,[4] by the Bishop of London (Stephen de Gravesende); who must have been suffering under some impediment of speech or other infirmity, for it was deemed requisite that he should have the aid

[3] As soon as the Pope heard of the death of John de Sandale, says Trokelowe, he immediately reserved the appointment to himself. Nevertheless, the Monks obtained the King's licence to elect, and chose a Monk of their Monastery, a man eminent in literature and endowed with many virtues. The rumour of this election reaching the Pope, he quashed it, and conferred the Bishoprick upon Rigaud, his special clerk, who after many delays obtained the King's favour. This version is disproved by the dates of the events and accompanying circumstances. Bishop Sandale died 2 November, 1319, and on 7 and 9 November the King wrote to the Pope, stating that he was aware, that, in the life-time of the late Bishop, his Holiness had reserved this appointment to the Apostolic See. On 24 November the King granted the usual congé d'élire; the election took place on 30 November; and the royal assent was given on 26 December. The final Bulls appointing Rigaud to the Bishoprick were issued on 26 November, and on 12 December the faculties for his Consecration in England, by any Bishop of his choice.

[4] In the list of Bishops contained in the Cartulary of Hyde Abbey occurs,—Rigaudus de Asserio, Nuncius Pape in Angliam: anno Domini M°. of his Suffragan, Brother Peter, Bishop of Corbavia,[1] in order that the Office should be duly executed. The assistant Bishops were John de Hothum, Bishop of Ely, and Haymo de Hythe, Bishop of Rochester. After the ceremony the newly consecrated Bishop gave assurance to the Abbat and Convent, by letters patent under his seal, that his Consecration in their Abbey church was not to be regarded as a precedent, or to affect, in any way, the rights and privileges of their Monastery.[2] The Bishop of London was taken ill at Northampton, after the Consecration, when, with the Bishop of Winchester, he was on his journey to the Earl of Lancaster at Kenilworth ; and the mission had to be abandoned.

On the 21st of December the Pope, at the request of the King, authorised the Bishop to confer the Office of Notary-Publick on six persons nominated by the Crown ;[3] and on the 28th of January he received a similar faculty to confer the same Office on William de Carletone of the diocese of York.[4] On the 25th of December he obtained a Writ of exoneration from the demand for the military service of five Knights' fees, of the aid levied on account of the war with Scotland, his predecessor having already made a fine for exemption.[5] On the 16th of February, 1320-1, he granted a licence to Walter de Stapeldone, Bishop of Exeter, to hold Ordinations for a year, within the diocese of Winchester;[1] and on the following day he exercised his right to nominate a Nun to Romsey Abbey, and another to St. Mary's Abbey, Winchester,[2] deferring his privilege with respect to Wherwell Abbey till the 23rd of June.[3] Of his other Episcopal acts may be noted the appointments of Penitentiaries, —on the 10th of June, 1321, of Brother Ralph de Caune, Precentor of the Cathedral church, for the diocese;[4] on the 16th of September, of Brother Thomas de Leddrede, a Friar Preacher, for the Archdeaconry of Surrey,[5] and Brother Nicholas de Mortone, an Augustinian Friar, for the diocese at large:[6] the last named had a renewal of his commission from the Vicar-General on the 4th of December, 1322.[7] On the 21st of June the Bishop granted a dispensation on account of irregularity to John le Litherere, of Andover, who in his boyhood had received the First Tonsure at the hands of Simon de Gandavo, Bishop of Salisbury, without letters dimissory, and was afterwards ordained Acolyte, Subdeacon, and Deacon by his own Diocesan without this requisite dispensation or making known the impediment.[8] On the 12th of September licence was granted to the Bishop of Corbavia to hold the Ember Day Ordination, on the 19th of that month, in the church of St. Mary's, Southwark:[9] the record of this Ordination was, doubtless, entered on the lost quaternus. And on the 26th of November he had a special commission to hold Ordinations, dedicate churches, and exercise all other Episcopal acts within the diocese, with the exception of institutions, removals, and presentations to churches.[10] On the 11th of December the Bishop granted an annual pension of 12 marks to Eudo Mahe, chaplain to the Earl of Richmond, till he could provide him with a suitable benefice;[11] and a similar

The following letter of Attorney no doubt refers to the same transaction,—Reverendis et discretis viris, dominis Thesaurario et Baronibus de Scaccario domini Regis Anglie illustris, Frater Henricus, permissione divina Wintoniensis Episcopus, salutem in Auctore Salutis. pension of 10 marks was granted to John Paynel, clerk of the Earl of Chester.[1] There is also a release, by reason of his presentation to Rimpton rectory, Somerset, of an annual pension of 10*l.* which had been granted to John de Cotesforde:[2] he was, probably, the clerk whom the King had nominated; as every Bishop of the Province, on his promotion or Consecration, had to assign a pension to a clerk nominated by the King, till he could provide him with a benefice of suitable value.

On the 19th of January, 1320-1, the Bishop was appointed by the King one of the Commissioners to treat for peace with Robert de Brus;[3] and in the following month he proceeded to the Marches of Scotland for this purpose; having obtained, on the 18th of February, letters of protection and attorney.[4] He started from Southwark on his journey towards Scotland on the 20th or 21st of February; and, being at Ivinghoe, Bucks, on the 23rd, he issued a commission appointing his brother, Gerald de Asserio, Prior of Peyrusse in the diocese of Rodez, as his Vicar-General: a similar commission was directed to the Archdeacon of Winchester and to William de Staunforde, Treasurer of Wolveseye, during his absence from the diocese.[5] These negotiations not only kept the Bishop away from his diocese till about the first week in May,[6] but they led to no result; and, consequently, the Commissioners did not use their credentials; they were cancelled, and the Papal letters which they had taken with them were rendered unavailable. During this interval a commission was issued by the Bishop, at York, on the 4th of March, deputing the Abbat of Whitby and the Prior of Bridlington to inquire as to the true value of the church of Scarborough.[7] And on the same day, at Westminster, the King wrote to the Pope complaining of the excesses of Robert de Brus, and representing that there ought to be no relaxation of the censures that had been issued against him.[1]

On the 21st of April, 1321, the Bishop was directed to employ ecclesiastical censures for the purpose of silencing certain persons who were spreading slanderous reports about the King.[2] On the 15th of May he was summoned to the Parliament to be held at Westminster on the 15th of July.[3] And at the end of that month he left Southwark for the purpose of being enthroned: we find him at Esher on the 28th, and at Farnham on the 31st, from whence he proceeded to Bishop's Sutton, arriving at Winchester on Saturday, the 6th of June. On the following day, being Whit Sunday, he was duly enthroned, and sang his first Pontifical Mass in his Cathedral church. On the 8th he went to Bishop's Waltham, where he remained till the 5th of July; and then, after a few days' stay at Farnham, he returned to Southwark. On the 18th of July the Pope granted him permission to exact a moderate subsidy from all prelates and beneficed clergy of his diocese, secular and regular, to meet his expenses, losses, and debts, incurred in his service to the Papal Camera; and similar faculties were granted to the Archbishop of Canterbury and to the Bishops of London and Hereford.[4] On the 20th of September the Bishop issued a mandate for the payment of the salary of Master Nicholas de Middeltone, Rector of Dummer, as Proctor in Convocation for the clergy of the Archdeaconry of Winchester[5]; and on the 28th of October the following mandate was sent to the Prior and Convent of his Cathedral church, for a solemn procession, with devout prayers, to be made through the city for the peace and prosperity of the King and the realm,—[6]

RIGAUD, by the Divine mercy, Bishop of Winchester, to his beloved sons, the Prior and Convent of our Cathedral church of St. Swithun of Winchester, health, grace, and benediction. Whereas dissensions amongst the English people, as we sorrowfully admit, are, in these days, more than ever rife and abound, it is all the more incumbent on our pastoral office to stir up the minds of the faithful the more fervently to the salutary practice of spiritual prayers in God's Church, offered with due devotion, for the peace and tranquillity of our lord the King and the realm of England. We are moved, therefore, to enjoin on you in virtue of holy obedience, and through you we desire to enjoin, and hereby do enjoin, upon the Religious men, the Abbat and Convent of Hyde, as also upon the Religious dames, the Abbess and Convent of the Blessed Mary of Winchester, and on all other Religious of whatsoever Order, and, also, upon the Rectors, Vicars, and parish Chaplains of the said city, that they assemble this coming Friday [30 October], in the great church of Winchester, and, walking together with you through the aforesaid city, do make a solemn procession, for the peace and prosperous state of our lord the King and the said realm; and that, with all devotion they humbly petition the Creator of all, that He will enlighten the heart of our said King and of the other rulers of his kingdom; giving strength to their hands and directing their actions, so that they may aim at and perform, with all their power, such things as are pleasing to God; and that, all hatred and contention being cast on one side, the din of arms may cease, and the joyful calm of the peace which all desire may be restored. And what you shall have done in this matter you are to certify to us without delay by your letters patent, containing a copy of the above. Given at Farnham, on the fifth of the Kalends of November, in the year of our Lord, 1321, being the first year of our Consecration.

On the 8th of December the King wrote to the Pope to say that he had deputed the Bishop of Winchester, John de Stratforde, Archdeacon of Lincoln, and William de Westone, Professors of Civil Law; Sir William de Dene, knight, and the Pope's Penitentiary, Brother John de Wrotham, a Friar Preacher, to go to the Roman Court, to transact certain affairs specially touching himself and the state of his kingdom, which they would explain to his Holiness viva voce; and, therefore, he humbly supplicates his clemency to hear them graciously; with respect, also, to the affairs of Scotland and the King's lands there: and similar letters of credence were directed to all the Cardinals.[1] Consequently, the Bishop had to make arrangements for his journey to Avignon and for a prolonged absence from his diocese. On the 3rd of January, 1321-2, he obtained letters of protection from the King for the more important members of his suite; namely, James Sinobaldi, of Florence, Archdeacon of Winchester, Bertrand de Asserio, Rector of Freshwater, John de Malmesbury, Rector of Yelling, Thomas de Londone, Rector of Michelmersh, and Thomas de Bisshopestone.[1] On the same day a royal mandate was issued to the Warden of the port of Dover, to provide a safe and speedy passage for the Bishop and his attendants;[2] and on the following day a mandate was directed to the Officials of the Exchequer, to give him respite for all debts due to the Crown until the quinzaine of Easter next.[3] Also, a commendatory letter was sent by the King to the Pope on his behalf.[4] On the next day (January the 5th) similar commendatory letters were sent to Philip V, King of France and Navarre, and to Charles, Count of Valois, the King's brother, for letters of safe-conduct to the Bishop and his suite, whilst passing through their dominions, going and returning.[5]

The Bishop left Southwark on the 13th of January, 1321-2,[6] and was at Canterbury on the 16th, where he renewed his profession of obedience to Archbishop Reynolds. On the next day (Sunday), he left Canterbury for Dover, and on the following day he crossed to Wissant. His own letters of protection were issued on the 22nd of January, and those of attorney, under the names of William de Staunforde and Thomas de Folquardeby, on the 30th.[7] The Pope, evidently, was not aware that he had started so early; for on the 19th of January he wrote to the Bishop, directing him to report on the state of affairs between the King and his barons, and as to the remedies which he thought the Pope might adopt, touching the same.[8] Soon after this, as an entry on the Close Roll certifies, the Bishop, being in the King's service beyond the seas, had exemption from furnishing the King with men-at-arms or other aid against the Scots, or the rebellious adherents of the Earl of Lancaster.[9] On the 25th of February the King wrote again to the Pope, as to the rebellion of certain magnates of England, headed by the Earl of Lancaster, Sir Bartholomew de Badelesmere, and others; informing him, also, that the Scots had invaded the north, and were plundering in all directions, sparing neither age nor sex, or even sacred and religious places; and that he had sent to his Holiness, as his special Messengers, for counsel and advice, the Bishop of Winchester, the Archdeacon of Lincoln,[1] William de Westone, and others.[2] On the 14th of March he was summoned to attend, in person or by proxy, the Parliament that was to meet at York on the 2nd of May[3]; and on the 18th of September, 1322, the Parliament at Ripon, which was afterwards, by Writ of Proclamation, appointed to meet at York on the 14th of November.[4] On the 7th of July the Bishop wrote, from Avignon, to the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun's, informing them that their Brother-Monk, Adam de Wyntone, whom they had postulated through their Prior, on the 30th of November, 1319, to the Bishoprick of Winchester, was still at the Roman Court, and that he was in want of money to meet his expenses whilst remaining there in expectation of promotion. The Prior and Convent received this letter on the 10th of August; and on the 19th they wrote to say that they had recently sent him £40, and could make no promise as to future remittances, owing to the many exactions and the diminution of income which they had had to meet; and they entreated the Bishop to do what he could to expedite Adam's promotion.[5] And it was, probably, by the direct influence of the Bishop that Adam obtained from the Pope, on the 10th of September, at the request of Philip, late King of France and Navarre, and of King Edward and Queen Isabella of England, the reservation of any dignity or office in the Benedictine Order, within the city or province of Canterbury, or in any Cathedral church of the province, which might become vacant, if accepted by the said Adam within a month.[6] Unfortunately, he selected the priorship of the Cluniac Monastery of Lewes, Sussex ; for, having held this dignity for three or four years, he was turned out by Peter de Jocellis, Prior of Castle Acre, on the ground that the Papal reservation did not extend to Cluniac Houses. He appealed, unsuccessfully, against this proceeding, and his subsequent career we have not been able to trace.[1] At Avignon, on the 24th of September, 1322, the Bishop received a Papal commission to effect an exchange of benefices between Vitalis de Testa, Dean of St. Paul's and Canon and Prebendary of Newington, and John de Everdone, Canon of Salisbury and Rector of Hanny,[2] in Berkshire.

On the 23rd of February, 1322-3, his Vicar-General was summoned to send service on his behalf against the Scots, to the muster at Newcastle-on-Tyne on the 1st of July ;[3] but this order was discharged on the 2nd of June following.[4] On the 5th of April, 1323, letters of protection were granted to the Bishop, as being beyond the seas, to last until Christmas day ; and on the day following he had letters of attorney under the names of John de Dorsete and Peter de Capite Carerii.[5] These were, probably, the last documents issued on his behalf ; for on Tuesday, the 12th of April, he closed his earthly career, at Avignon, and was there buried. Nearly two years and five months had elapsed since his Consecration, and close upon three years since the day on which he received the temporalities of the See ; and he had been absent from his diocese for fifteen months at the time of his death. No impression of his seal, or of the seal of his Vicar-General, is known to be extant. He could not have been much over thirty years of age, for the St. Alban's chronicler says that he died before the age of maturity.[6]

[1] On the 28th of June, 1327, Adam de Wyncestre, Prior of Lewes, had letters of protection for a year,—Rot. Pat. 1 Edw. III, p. 2, m. 9. Peter de Jocellis (Joceaux) occurs as Prior of Lewes 23 February, 1328-9 : he was removed by the Pope, 27 December, 1329, and the priorship was assigned to John de Courtenaye, a Monk of Tavistock Abbey. This appointment was not admitted, and Peter retained possession. He had letters of protection, as Prior of Lewes, for a year from 17 March, 1330-1.—Rot. Pat. 5 Edw. III, p. 1, m. 31. Probably he was of delicate constitution, and the climate of the South of France suited him better than that of England. His death is thus noticed in the Cartulary of Southwark Priory,—Memorandum, that on the twelfth day of April, in the year of our Lord, 1323, the lord Rigald, Bishop of Winchester, of good memory, died at Avignon and was buried there.[1] The news of the Bishop's death appears to have reached England about the 24th or 25th of April; for at Mortlake, on the 26th of April, the Archbishop issued a commission, appointing John de Badesley to be Keeper of the spiritualities of the vacant See.[2] On the same day the King, at Finedon, Northamptonshire, appointed Sir Robert de Welle, knight, and Richard de Ayremynne, clerk, to be Keepers of the temporalities;[3] and on the following day he issued his mandate for them to take into the King's hands all the goods and chattels which belonged to the deceased Bishop, on account of debts due to the Crown.[4] On the 21st of May, the Pope wrote to the King, asking him to show favour to Gerald de Asserio, Prior of Peyrusse, in the diocese of Rodez, and to Raymond de Asserio, brothers of the late Bishop, who were going to England to recover his goods;[5] and on the 29th of July he deputed Hugh de Engolisma, Sacristan of Narbonne, Papal Nuncio, in place of the late Bishop, as collector of dues and of St. Peter's penny.[6] On the 22nd of August the King appointed William de Cusancia to audit the accounts of the late Bishop with respect to the debts due to the Exchequer, under the supervision of his Executors and of the Keepers of the temporalities.[7] We have a statement of the sums due to the Crown, as set forth by Gerald de Asserio, the Bishop's Executor,[8]

On his appointment to the Bishoprick Rigaud sought the assistance of his brother, Gerald de Asserio, Doctor of Decrees, and Prior of Peyrusse, in the Diocese of Rodez and Duchy of Aquitaine. This priory was a cell of the well-known Benedictine Abbey of Figeac, in the adjoining diocese of Cahors, founded by King Pepin in the year 755; and, like many French and other foreign priories, it was ruled by a secular clerk, a usage not known in this country.[3] Gerald was appointed Vicar General at [2] pp. 585–587. There are, also, extant, among the Exchequer Miscellanea, 145 rotulets, containing the particulars of the stock and the accounts of the Bailiffs and Reeves of all the Episcopal manors from 26 April, 1323, till 28 June, 1324, when the temporalities were delivered to Bishop Stratforde. The Memoranda Roll of 19 Edw. II has no fewer than 16 skins, occupied on both sides with the inquisitions and accounts of Robert de Welle, Richard de Ayremynne, and William de Pillaunde, Keepers of the temporalities during the vacancy of the Bishoprick.

[3] He is invariably styled Dominus in our Register; but in some other English Diocesan Registers he is occasionally styled Frater. One of these Secular priories is mentioned on page 96; and in a Papal Indult, issued in 1264, it is stated that Master Peter de Sancto Mario, Archdeacon of Surrey (whose tomb still exists in the church of St. Cross Hospital), held the Priory of Nartiac in the diocese of Angoulême, which was given to him by the Prior of Leziniac in the diocese of Poitiers, acting for Ademar, late Bishop of Winchester, who had a faculty from the Pope to bestow on four of his clerks Benefices in the Province of Bordeaux, or Priories usually ruled by Secular clerks, which had lapsed to the Pope. The collation of the Priory of Nartiac belonged to the Abbat of St. Eparchius, in the diocese of Angoulême. Certain Abbeys, also, on the Continent were governed by the time of his brother's Consecration, and it redounds to his credit that he accepted no ecclesiastical preferment in England. His earliest commission as Vicar-General has not been preserved, but he, apparently, held the position from ahout the 16th of November to the end of December, 1320: there is incidental mention of a collation made by him, at Wolveseye, on the 5th of the latter month.[1] His second commission was dated at Ivinghoe, Bucks, 23 February,[2] 1320-1; under which he acted till 10 May. Another commission was directed, on the same day, to James de Florencia, Archdeacon of Winchester, and William de Staunforde, Treasurer of Wolveseye, for acting as Vicars-General in the Bishop's absence; but, probably, only for the management of the temporalities. He again held the office from 13 January, 1321-2, till about 25 April, 1323,[3] when the news of the Bishop's death reached England. On this occasion Gilbert de Middeltone, Archdeacon of Northampton, and his Official, Andrew de Bruges were associated with him as Vicars of the spirituality of the See;[4] and on the day of the Bishop's departure for Avignon he was specially commissioned to act alone, with full power to present, collate, and institute to all vacant Benefices and to sanction exchanges; to confirm or annul elections of Abbats and Priors; to visit the Religious Houses and the clergy of the diocese; to grant licences to study; and, generally, to execute all other Diocesan business.[5] From this date commences the portion of the Register relating to the Vicariate,[6] which lasted until the receipt of the news of the Bishop's death.[7] For a few weeks the Vicars acted jointly; but Seculars; for instance, Berengar Fredoli, Cardinal Bishop of Tusculum (mentioned on pages 4, 283, 407, and 491), before his elevation to the Cardinalate in 1305, was Secular Abbat of St. Aphrodosius, in the diocese of Bourges.

[3] The latest entry in which he is mentioned as Vicar-General is dated 4 April, 1323 (p. 527). It is not unlikely that the news of his Brother's illness may have induced him to leave for Avignon soon after this date; for he was there soon after the Bishop's death.

[6] The folios of this portion are headed,—de tempore Vicariatus.

[7] pp. 463–527 (folios 19–30 b). In a few of the entries his seal is mentioned; on the 23rd, 24th, and 25th of January, and on the 2nd of February, 1321-2, it is his Priory Seal; on the 2nd of June, the 14th of July, the 23rd of August and the 23rd of September, 1322, his own Seal,—sigillum nostrum, more fully described on page 525 as the seal, "quo utimur in officio Vicariatus predicti."

the management of the diocese was soon left entirely in the hands of the Prior of Peyrusse. This portion of the Register comprises all manner of documents, grouped together promiscuously, without the careful arrangement and subdivision which we find in the earlier folios. Amongst the transactions recorded we find (2 February, 1321-2), a monition directing the parochial clergy not to permit questors to preach or solicit alms in the churches of the diocese or in other places, unless they can produce the Bishop's licence;[1] and, on the 12th of the same month, a monition to the Master of St. Thomas' Hospital, Southwark, not to allow any of the Brothers or Sisters of his Hospital to keep late hours, or associate with suspicious persons.[2] On the 13th of June, 1322, commissions were issued appointing the Prior of St. Swithun's, Winchester, and the Abbat of Chertsey to collect the 5*d.* in the mark, granted to the King for the defence of the realm by the clergy of the Province of Canterbury, and to pay the amount collected by the 1st of August.[3]

On the 25th of April, 1322, the Vicar-General collated his familiar clerk and fellow countryman, Reymund Pelegrini, of the diocese of Cahors, to the rectory of Exton;[4] and on the 31st of August he collated Bertrand de Asserio, also of the diocese of Cahors, to the Mastership of St. Cross Hospital.[5] This Bertrand was, probably, a son of the Bishop's brother, Raymond, and the earliest notice we have of him is on the 26th of September, 1319, when he received Apostolic letters of provision to the church of Freshwater, in the Isle of Wight, vacant by the removal of Richard Wodeloke, in consequence of the Pope's New Constitution against pluralists.[6] The letters of provision contain a clause that this promotion should not bar his provision to a suitable ecclesiastical benefice in the diocese of Rodez.[7] The mandate for his induction was addressed to James Sinobaldi, Archdeacon of Winchester, Reymund le Yonge, Scholastic of the church of Perigueux, and John de Pinibus, Canon of Agen.

When Rigaud received the news of his promotion to the Bishoprick he resigned the Prebend of Bedwin in the Cathedral church of Salisbury; and it was, no doubt, at his request that the King, on the 8th of December, 1319, bestowed it upon Bertrand de Asserio.[1] There appears, however, to have been some difficulty in the matter; for the prebend was claimed by Nicholas de Tyngewyke, and the dispute was only ended by the Pope's issuing, on the 9th of July, 1322, a Bull of provision in favour of Bertrand and ordering the removal of Tyngewyke. It refers to the fact that Bertrand was already Rector of Freshwater, and was expecting preferment in the diocese of Rodez; and it was accompanied by a mandate for his induction, directed to the Archdeacons of Orleans, Clermont, and Winchester, and the Scholastic of the church of Perigueux.[2] On the 3rd of January, 1321-2, as Rector of Freshwater, he obtained letters of protection, being about to accompany Bishop Rigaud to the Roman Court;[3] and he was there on the 31st of August, 1322, when the Vicar-General collated him to the Mastership of St. Cross Hospital, vacant by the death of Geoffrey de Welleforde. He was inducted by the Official of Winchester on the 6th of September, in the person of his Proctor, William de Savenake, Rector of Winterbourne-St. Martin,[4] Dorset. On the 8th of March, 1322-3, the King granted him letters of protection, and letters of attorney on the 1st of July, 1323, being still in parts beyond the seas.[5] Two days later the King granted him letters patent, ratifying his appointment as Master of St. Cross, so that the recent vacancy of the See might not imperil his right thereto;[6] and on the 17th of November, 1323, he had letters of protection as Rector of Freshwater.[7] In February, 1324-5, he was included in the Certificate of Bishop John de Stratforde as one of the aliens beneficed within the diocese, and he is described as living abroad, his rectory of Freshwater being farmed by Nicholas de Middeltone, Rector of Dummer.[8] He returned, after a time, to England, and on the 1st of August, 1330, being about to go abroad again by the King's permission, he had letters of attorney as Master of St. Cross Hospital and Rector of Freshwater;[9] and on the 10th of May, 1331, he obtained an exemplification of the letters-patent of King Edward II, presenting him to the prebend of Bedwin.[10] On the 13th of November, 1332, Peter de Galliciano was provided by the Pope to the Mastership of St. Cross, which Bertrand had resigned, having exchanged it for other benefices out of England.[1] On the 28th of December, 1334, Adam de Orletone, then Bishop of Winchester, granted him licence of absence from his church of Freshwater, to be in attendance on the Abbat of Tournus, in the diocese of Chalons-sur-Soane;[2] and on the 13th of November, 1335, he obtained a ratification of his possession of the prebend of Bedwin, as holding it both by Papal provision and by collation of the late King.[3] His death must have occurred before the 18th of July, 1337; for on that day the rectory of Freshwater was filled up,[4] and on the 24th of July his prebend of Bedwin,[5] both vacant by his decease.

The second division of the Appendix contains a series of documents supplementary to the Register,—Letters of protection for the Master and Brethren of the Lepers' Hospital near South-wark, with permission to collect alms owing to the insufficiency of their income.[6] The Royal licence, issued at the request of the Burgesses of Southampton, for the removal of the ruined church of the Holy Rood, which stood in the middle of the High Street, and the erection of another on a vacant piece of land given by one of the Burgesses of the town.[7] A Royal mandate (dated 16 June, 1321), for the Bishop to induct Geoffrey de Welleforde as Master of St. Cross Hospital, his induction having been delayed on account of the claim of Robert de Maydenstane.[8] A Writ directed to the Sheriff of the County, requiring him to go in person to the Hospital and see that Welleforde had peaceable possession thereof.[9] On the next day (13 July) a Writ issued to the Archbishop, prohibiting his doing anything prejudicial to the King's rights therein.[10] Other proceedings followed; and on the 14th of September a commission of Oyer and Terminer was issued on the new Master's complaint that Maydenstane and his brother Nicholas, Simon Potyn, and divers other persons had carried away not only the live stock, goods, and chattels to the value of £200, but the writings and other muniments belonging to the Hospital.[11] Notwithstanding all these acts of resistance and disturbance Welleforde obtained possession; and on the 9th of February the Vicar-General issued a mandate for an Inquisition to be held as to the dilapidations of the buildings of the Hospital during Maydenstane's occupation.[1] On the 11th of March, 1321-2, in the Bishop's Hall at Waltham, William de Neubury, Welleforde's proctor, took the oath of canonical obedience before the Vicar-General, and that he would faithfully administer the alms of the said House, maintain its rights, and remove therefrom all incompetent and unnecessary servants.[2] He did not, however, hold the office long; for his death occurred in August, 1322, and, thereupon, the Vicar-General collated Bertrand de Asserio to the Mastership, as already stated. Another commission of Oyer and Terminer was issued, 16 November, 1323, to settle some high-handed proceedings in the Isle of Wight, on the complaint of Thomas de Folquardby, Rector of Calborne, who had been seized and imprisoned, at Knighton, by John de Gorges, Nicholas de Aka, Rector of Brightestone, and others, who detained him till he had agreed to pay £100 for his release on the bond of Sir Theobald Russel, knight.[3]

The next division of the Appendix contains transactions during the vacancy of the Bishoprick, after the death of Bishop Rigaud,—The appointment of John de Badesle as Official and Guardian of the spiritualities of the vacant See:[4] a certificate of Archbishop Reynolds, that, on his Visitation, he had examined the privileges and muniments of the Prior and Chapter relating to the appropriation of the churches of Wootton-St. Laurence and Littleton, and of the pensions and portions of tithes assigned to the Priory, and that he had found their titles sufficient:[5] the licence for the election of a Prior at Selborne; and a mandate to Walter de Stapeldone, Bishop of Exeter, to give the royal assent to the election and to receive the fealty of the Elect should his election be confirmed:[6] a commission for the Official of Winchester to examine the proceedings in the election of Brother Walter de Walhop as Prior of Mottisfont, and to annul or confirm the same as justice should demand. This is followed by the entries of the royal presentations made to various benefices, thirteen in number, during the vacancy of the See; and letters of protection granted to the Rectors of Arreton and Freshwater.[1] The remaining pages of the Appendix are occupied by documents relating to Bermondsey Priory, which, in consequence of mismanagement, was heavily in debt. A new Prior was appointed; but this only led to fresh troubles, for within a few months he was accused of harbouring certain rebels, and the King ordered him to be arrested and imprisoned in the Tower of London; the Priory being again placed in commission.[2] The volume concludes with certain addenda to the Appendix to Bishop Sandale's Register which have been noticed above.[3]

Quia que gesta sunt futuris temporibus non possunt absque scripturarum testimonio de facili comprobari, infrascripta scripture duximus commendanda. Omnibus, igitur, quorum interest seu interesse poterit in hac parte quomodolibet in futurum notum esse volumus, per presentes, quod peticio Religiosorum virorum, .. Abbatis et Conventus de Certeseye, et Petri de Columbariis, Rectoris ecclesie de Chipstede, nostre diocesis, nobis nuper exhibita, continebat quod, occasione duarum parcium decimarum majorum et minorum proveniencium de terris et tenementis de Pirbright et Lovelane juxta Chipstede constitutis; quas, quidem, decimas iidem Religiosi, ut dicebatur, canonice sunt adepti, ipsasque pacifice possederunt et perceperunt a tempore cujus contrarii memoria non existebat, et tunc possidebant; inter familiares dictorum Religiosorum, ex parte una, et Rectoris antedicti, ex altera, fines et limites ejusdem terrarum plerumque ignorantes; necnon, propter earundem terrarum difficilem divisionem, rixe et contenciones quamplurime hactenus sunt exorte, unde multa pericula partibus obvenerunt et obvenire posse verisimiliter presumebatur in futurum; propter quod dicte partes, ecclesiis suis et earum indempnitati imposterum prospicere cupientes, dictasque decimas annuatim, deductis expensis, usque ad summam quindecim solidorum bona fide taxantes et estimantes, inter se concordarunt quod prefati Religiosi hujusmodi decimas pro firma annua quindecim solidorum sterlingorum, certis terminis inter eosdem statuendis solvendorum, pro se et successoribus suis, dicto Rectori de Chepstede (sic), et successoribus ejusdem ecclesie Rectoribus, imperpetuum dimitterent; et quod idem Rector, temporibus suis, suique successores ecclesie memorate Rectores, temporibus eorundem, hujusmodi firmam, terminis hujusmodi assignandis, plenarie annuatim persolvant, nostram auctoritatem super hiis adhibere postulantes; nolentes in hac parte procedere premissis in forma juris legittime non discussis, ejusdem ecclesie patronum, ac tenentes dictarum terrarum, nominatim, et generaliter omnes quorum interest, proposito publice citacionis edicto in ecclesia de Chipstede memorata, ad certos diem et locum citari fecimus coram nobis, ad proponendum et ostendendum quod, juxta juris exigenciam, eis visum foret expedire. Ipsisque dictis die et loco coram nobis nullatenus comparentibus, licet legittime preconizatis et sufficienter expectatis; nichilominus, tam super jure quam super possessione dictarum decimarum, et an hujusmodi convencio ecclesie parochiali predicte esset utilis, per viros fidedignos nulli parti suspectos, super hoc legittime juratos, vocatis primitus patrono et aliis, generaliter et publice, in ecclesia predicta, quorum interest, ad certos diem et locum, mandavimus fieri inquisicionem. Qua legittime facta, et coram nobis certis die et loco exhibita, partibus supradictis, videlicet ipsis Religiosis, per Fratrem Johannem de Henle, commonachum eorundem, Procuratorem suum in ea parte legittime constitutum, predicto vero Rectore personaliter, comparentibus; petitoque ab eisdem partibus si quicquam pro nostri informacione proponere vel exhibere vellent ulterius in negocio predicto, dicti Religiosi varia munimenta et instrumenta nobis exhibuerunt; quibus sic exhibitis, facta publicacione inquisicionis supradicte, copiaque omnium exhibitorum parti habere volenti decreta; quia, per hujusmodi exhibita et inquisicionem predictam, dictos Religiosos super jure et possessione duarum parcium decimarum predictarum proveniencium de terris et tenementis de Pirbright et Lovelane supradictis, invenimus sufficienter esse munitos, ipsosque earundem decimarum a tempore cujus contrarii memoria non existit canonicos fuisse et esse possessores; quodque dicta convencio super hujusmodi firma prelocuta, et inter partes memoratas concordata, utrisque ecclesiis et partibus, ex causis predictis et aliis, utilis et expediens existebat; ipsis partibus coram nobis postea constitutis, sic iterato et specialiter inter eosdem fuit concordatum, conventum, et concessum; videlicet, quod dicti Religiosi duas partes decimarum de predictis terris et tenementis de Pirbright et Lovelane prefatis Rectori de Chipstede, et suis successoribus ejusdem ecclesie Rectoribus, ad perpetuam firmam dimiserunt et concesserunt; ita quod, salvo jure et possessione eorundem de decimis antedictis, idem Petrus, Rector ecclesie predicte pro tempore suo, et sui successores ejusdem ecclesie Rectores pro temporibus eorundem, nomine annue firme, et tanquam firmarii dictorum Religiosorum, de decimis antedictis quindecim solidos persolverent annuatim imperpetuum; videlicet, medietatem in festo Purificacionis Beate Marie, et aliam medietatem in festo Sancte Margarete, Virginis et Martiris, proximo sequenti; de jurisperitorum consilio, Dei nomine invocato, dictam convencionem approbamus et auctoritate nostra pontificali confirmamus; et nichilominus, de consensu parcium predictarum expresso, ordinamus et statuimus quod pars utraque, per censuras ecclesiasticas, ex nunc in futurum per nos et successores nostros, ad observanciam dicte convencionis absque difficultate quacumque coherceri debeat et compelli, et nichilominus ad refusionem expensarum quas pars una earundem, ob contradiccionem seu contumaciam partis alterius, fecerit seu sustinuerit in hac parte, una cum dampnis et interesse arbitrio judicis taxandis et moderandis. Et renunciarunt partes predicte, hujusmodi renunciacionem admittentibus et approbantibus, omnibus excepcionibus et cavillacionibus ipsis competentibus et competituris, necnon beneficio restitucionis in integrum, et omnibus aliis juris auxiliis per que hujusmodi convencionis, et nostre confirmacionis, approbacionis, et ordinacionis effectus prepediri posset quomodolibet vel defferri. Nos, vero, premissa ex nunc in futurum nota, firma, et indubia fore, subsistere, ac permanere volentes, presens scriptum indentatum nostri sigilli, ac sigillorum parcium predictarum, hinc inde, impressione fecimus communiri. [13 June, 1322.] Geraldus de Asserio, Prior de Petrucia, reverendi in Christo patris, domini R[igaudi], Dei gracia Wyntoniensis Episcopi, in remotis agentis, Vicarius Generalis, dilecto nobis in Christo, domino .. Dei gracia Abbati Certeseie, Wyntoniensis diocesis, salutem in Auctore Salutis. Mandatum Venerabilis patris, domini S[tephani de Gravesende], Dei gracia Londoniensis Episcopi, pridie sub continencia recepimus infrascripta.—Venerabili in Christo patri, domino R[igaudo], Dei gracia Wintoniensi Episcopo, vel ejus in spiritualibus Vicario, Stephanus, ejusdem permissione Londoniensis Episcopus, salutem et sinceram dileccionis continuum incrementum. Litteras Venerabilis patris, domini W[alteri Reginaldi], Dei gracia Cantuariensis Archiepiscopi, tocius Anglie Primatis, una cum quadam cedula in eisdem inclusa, iij Idus Maii [13 May], apud Eboracum recepimus, continencie infrascripte.—Walterus, permissione divina Cantuariensis Archiepiscopus, tocius Anglie Primas, Venerabili fratri, domino S[tephano], Dei gracia Londoniensi Episcopo, salutem et fraternam in Domino caritatem. Mandato regio, litteris suis sub magno ipsius sigillo nobis super hoc directis excitati, clerum nostre Cantuariensis Provincie ad parliamentum domini Regis in Civitate

Eboracensi, a die Pasche proximo preterito ad tres septimanas celebrandum, juxta ipsius mandati exigenciam fecimus convocari, ad tractandum super quibusdam arduis [negociis] dominum nostrum Regem et ipsius regnum contingentibus, necnon consenciendum hiis que super tractandis in ipso parliamento contigeret salubriter ordinari. Venerabilibus, itaque, fratribus nostris, dominis, Dei gracia, .. Norwicensi, .. Exoniensi, .. Cicestrensi, .. Bathoniensi et Wellensi, .. Bangorensi, .. Assavensi, .. Eliensi, .. Wygorniensi, .. Roffensi, et .. Lincolniensi Episcopis, personaliter se representantibus in eodem, ceteris fratribus et coepiscopis nostris tunc absentibus, ex causis sufficientibus legittime excusatis; cum negocia[1] ecclesiam et viros ecclesiasticos contingencia[2] intenderemus diligencius pertractanda, ex parte domini nostri Regis inter cetera nobis expositum extitit in communi, quod circa impugnacionem quorundam sibi rebellancium, et ecclesie pacem ac regni quietudinem perturbancium, errarium (sic) suum attenuasset in tantum quod contra Scotos, qui ad regni invasionem offerunt se paratos, pro defensione personarum et rerum regni ejusdem proprie non suppeterent facultates, viri ecclesiastici, quorum rem in hoc agi dinoscitur, de bonis suis ecclesiasticis subvencionem facerent competentem, sibique attento periculo invasionis hujusmodi quod jam instat, satisfacerent protinus de eadem. Cumque inter presentes tractatus super hoc habitus extitisset, ex parte cleri extitit allegatum quod, cum clerus quarundam diocesium tunc abesset, a quo presentes predicti discrepare minime intendebant, circa hoc responsum dare per se non valebant; presertim cum idem absentes reputari non potuissent in loco ipso aut dici de jure contumaces. Habita, itaque, super peticione et allegacione predictis inter nos et confratres nostros deliberacione diligenti, zelo quoque quo ad ecclesiam dominus Rex afficitur plenius attento, peticioni predicte, ob allegate necessitatis sarcinam nunc urgentem, taliter censuimus de consensu omnium presencium annuendum, ut quinque denarii de marca de bonis ecclesiasticis ex quibus decima dari consuevit, pro petito subsidio, concedantur eidem; cum summa celeritate, pro urgente necessitate, ut predicitur, que jam instat, colligendi ac levandi; ita ut citra festum Beati Petri ad Vincula, auctoritate loci diocesani sic levata et per .. Collectorem eadem auctoritate ad colligendum deputatum recepta, parata sint integre ad solvendum. Verum, quia magna pars cleri a loco tractatus tunc abfuit, ad quem venire, tanquam extra suum territorium, Provinciam videlicet Cantuariensem, compelli minime potuit de jure, mandataque Procuratoribus cleri tunc presentibus facta ad actum de quo agebatur sufficere minime videbantur, de fratrum consilio tunc presencium, ad certos

Vos, eciam, quantum ad vos et vestros subditos pertinere noscitur, hoc idem faciatis; nobis nichilominus, ad diem et locum predictos, vestris litteris, tam exemptorum quam non exemptorum vestre diocesis nomina per vos citatorum continentibus, plenius rescribentes quid feceritis in premissis; fratribus, eciam, coepiscopis injungatis ut et ipsi modo consimili premissa omnia faciant et diligencius exequantur, nobisque suis litteris, harum seriem et citatorum nomina continentibus, ad eosdem diem et locum significent quid fecerint de prescriptis. Nomina, vero, exemptorum hujusmodi, in eventum non paricionis eorundem, domino nostro Regi pro loco et tempore intimare oportebit. Datum apud Acum, juxta Eboracum, iiij Idus Maii [12 May], anno Domini millesimo CCC^{mo}. vicesimo secundo. Quarum auctoritate litterarum vos, tenore presencium, premunimus ut dicti Patris mandato, quatenus vos et clerum vestre diocesis contingit, juxta vim, formam, et effectum ejusdem ac cedule supradicte, cujus eciam copiam vobis transmittimus presentibus interclusam, effectualiter parere in omnibus studeatis. Et, si aliquos in solucione subsidii prenotati infra certum terminum, citra dictum festum, juxta discrecionis vestre arbitrium moderandum, inveneritis non parentes, ipsos per suspensionis, excommunicacionis majoris, et interdicti sentencias, dicta monicione premissa, vice et auctoritate nostra indies compellere cum exacta diligencia studeatis. Ad que omnia et singula facienda vobis vices nostras committimus per presentes; absolucione, tamen, et relaxacione censurarum predictarum, si qui eas—quod absit—per octo dies animo sustinuerint indurato occasione premissa, nobis specialiter reservatis. si paterne non est incontinencie imitator, set bone conversacionis et vite, super quibus vestram intendimus conscienciam onerare, aliaque sibi merita suffragantur ad hujusmodi dispensacionis graciam obtinendam, cum ipso super petitis, auctoritate predicta, misericorditer dispensetis; ita, tamen, quod idem clericus, prout requiret onus beneficii quod cum post dispensacionem obtinere contigerit, se faciat statutis a jure temporibus ad Ordines promoveri, et personaliter resideat in eodem; alioquin hujusmodi dispensacionis gracia quo ad ipsum beneficium nullius penitus sit momenti. Data Avinione, vj^to^ Kalendas Aprilis [27 Mar.], Pontificatus domini Johannis Pape XXII^di^ anno sexto. Cum, igitur, per inquisicionem legittimam, ad mandatum nostrum super vita, mori bus, et conversacione tuis nuper factam, nobis constat evidenter te de soluto genitum esse et soluta, nec paterne incontinencie imitatorem set bone conversacionis et vite existere, consideratisque diligenter circumstanciis universis que circa ydoneitatem persone tue fuerint attendende, ut, hujusmodi defectu natalium quem pateris non obstante, ad omnes sacros Ordines promoveri, et ecclesiasticum beneficium obtinere valeas, eciam si curam habeat animarum, juxta tenorem, vim, et effectum dictarum litterarum, tecum misericorditer dispensamus; ita, tamen, quod tu, prout requiret onus beneficii quod te post hujusmodi dispensacionem obtinere contigerit, te facias ad Ordines statutis temporibus promoveri, et personaliter resideas in eodem; alioquin hujusmodi gracia quo ad beneficium ipsum nullius penitus sit momenti. [1] These five folios, containing entries of Ordinations, are inserted at the beginning of the Register, having been removed from their original position at the end of the volume when it received its present binding. There was, formerly, a preceding quaternus of six folios, which contained apparently the Ordinations held by Peter, Bishop of Corbavia, in Dalmatia, on most of, if not on all, the Ember Saturdays from 24 May, 1320, till 18 September, 1322,—nine in number (excluding the Ordination of 13 June, 1321, held by Bishop Rigaud himself), and omitting the four other days, within the above time, on which Ordinations were occasionally held. An old index of the contents of the Register, compiled at the commencement of the seventeenth century, after giving,—"Commissio curatoris sive coadjutoris." as the last entry on folio 30, says,—"Postea in undecim foliis pergameni describuntur actus Ordinum celebratorum. Et sic finis." A quaternus of six folios would make up the required number, together with the five existing folios of the second quaternus: its sixth leaf, which was left blank, has been cut out, leaving only a narrow strip of it along the inner edge of the volume. This second quaternus was, evidently, intended for Bishop Rigaud de Asserio's own Ordinations, and was so used until the previous quaternus was filled up, when the Registrar utilized the portion which had been left vacant; and thus it happens that the entries of November, 1321, are followed by an Ordination held by the Bishop of Corbavia on 21 November, 1322, and the remaining Ordinations during the Episcopate of Rigaud de Asserio. The destroyed quaternus was, probably, in a damaged state, and not deemed worth preserving when the volume was bound, about the year 1760; and the folios of the preserved portion, being unnumbered, were marked—A, B, C, D, and E, about sixty years ago.

APPENDIX.

I.—DOCUMENTS RELATING TO RIGAUD DE ASSERIO, AND TO BERTRAND DE ASSERIO.

Bull of Pope John XXII, on the appointment of Rigaud de Asserio, Canon of Orleans, and Auditor of the causes of the Sacred Palace, his Nuncio in England, with instructions for the more efficient collection of St. Peter's penny.

Johannes Episcopus, Servus servorum Dei, dilecto filio, Rigaudo de Asserio, Canonico Aurelianensi, Sacri nostri Palacii Auditori causarum, ac nostro et Apostolice Sedis Nuncio, salutem et Apostolicam benediccionem. Ad nostrum pervenit auditum quod, licet denarius Sancti Petri per eos qui illum consueverunt colligere in regno Anglie colligatur, minus tamen fideliter Ecclesie Romane illius solucio exhibetur; et, licet quampluries predecessores nostri, Romani Pontifices, Venerabilibus fratribus nostris Archiepiscopis et Episcopis, necnon dilectis filiis, Electis, Abbatibus, Prioribus, Decanis, Archidiaconis, Prepositis, Officialibus, Rectoribus, Archipresbiteris, Plebanis, et aliis ecclesiarum Prelatis per regnum Anglie constitutis, suis injunxerint litteris ut pecuniam hujusmodi collectam, et nondum solutam, pluribus Nunciis Sedis Apostolice in Anglia integre solvere procurarent; ipsis, tamen, nonnullas execuciones pretendentibus, et appellantibus a processibus super hoc habitis per Nuncios memoratos, nondum pervenit condigna satisfaccio de premissis; de quo nobis eo pocius admiracionis causa suboritur, quo majoris devocionis fideique sinceritas in regno ipso anteactis consuevit temporibus inveniri. Unde, cum hujusmodi negocium ex eo magis cordi specialiter habeamus, quod per hujusmodi minus plene solucionis effectum prefata Ecclesia jure suo non modicum defraudatur, eosdem Archiepiscopos, Episcopos, Electos, Abbates, Priores, Decanos, Archidiaconos, Prepositos, Officiales, Rectores, Archipresbiteros, Plebanos, et alios ecclesiarum Prelatos, per alias nostras litteras rogandos attente duximus et hortandos; dantes eis nichilominus in mandatis, ut, pro nostra et dicte Apostolice Sedis reverencia, circa colleccionem denarii supradicti opem et operam, prout utilius expedire putaverint, impendentes, pecuniam ex denario ipso collectam, et nondum solutam, et eciam colligendam, tibi vel tuo certo Nuncio, et Ecclesie Romane nomine, integre et fideliter assignare procurent; sic se in hac parte sollicite et efficaciter habituri, ut jura ipsius Ecclesie sincere diligere, ac illesa et integra conservare per effectum operum demonstrent, ac illos aut aliquem eorundem non integre persolventes laqueo excommunicacionis involvi; sed nos devocionem ipsorum dignis exinde in Domino laudibus attollamus. Quocirca discrecioni tue per Apostolica scripta mandamus quatinus eosdem Archiepiscopos et Prelatos ex parte nostra moneas et inducas ut contenta in eisdem litteris studeant adimplere; alioquin per te, vel alium seu alios, secundum quod utilius et melius videris expedire, dictum denarium cum integritate colligere et recipere non postponas; contradictores et rebelles per censuras ecclesiasticas, appellacione postposita, compescendo, invocato ad hoc, si opus fuerit, auxilio brachii secularis. Ceterum volumus, et per Apostolica scripta decernimus, quod a data presencium in premissis omnibus et singulis sit tibi plena et perpetua potestas et jurisdiccio attributa, et in eo vigore illaque firmitate possis, Apostolice Sedis auctoritate, in predictis omnibus, et pro predictis, eciam Apostolica Sede vacante, procedere, ac si tua jurisdiccio in predictis omnibus et singulis per citacionem vel modum alium perpetuata legitimum extitisset; nobis quicquid in predictis inveneris, feceris, et receperis ab eisdem, plenarie rescripturus. Datum Avinione, Kalendas Maii, Pontificatus nostri anno primo [1317].—Register of Archbishop Reynolds, fol. 219.

The concurrent letter referred to, addressed to the Archbishops, Bishops, etc., of England, is also inserted in the Register; but, the greater portion of it being, word for word, identical, it is not necessary to print both.

Prohibicio Nuncii Pape in Anglia existentis,—[6 Feb., 1317–8]. Rex Magistro Rigaudo de Asserio, Canonico Aurelianensi, salutem. Clamosa et tumultuosa incolarum regni nostri insinuacione accepimus, quod vos tam contra Religiosos, aliasque personas Ecclesiasticas, quam laicos, varia excercetis incommoda, in eodem regno nova, inconsueta, et inaudita, in oppressionem et depauperacionem plurimorum, ac nostri et corone nostre lesionem et exheredacionem, ex quibus, si tollerarentur, majora processu temporis poterunt, quod absit, pericula evenire; unde non inmerito turbamur et movemur. Vobis, igitur, prohibemus ne contra Religiosos, seu alias quascumque personas Ecclesiasticas, vel laicos, quicquam in dicto regno nostro quod in nostri seu corone nostre prejudicium quoquo modo cedere poterit excerceatis, seu presumatis aliqualiter attemptare. [23 July, 1320.] Carissimo in Christo filio nostro, Edwardo, Regi Anglie illustri, etc. Cum nos dilectum filium, Rigaldum, et Electum Wintoniensem, ex certis causis ad nostram presenciam per litteras Apostolicas evocemus; Celsitudinem regiam paterno rogamus affectu quatinus eidem Electo, pro nostra et Apostolice Sedis reverencia, ad eandem

On the provision of Rigaud de Asserio to the See of Winchester, and his Consecration before the High Altar of the Abbey Church of St. Alban's; also, his letter of indemnity against the concession being used as a precedent, to the detriment of the privileges of the Abbat and Convent.

De Consecracione Episcopi Wintoniensis,—Anno Domini M°. CCC^mo^. xx°.—Cum ad aures Summi Pontificis pervenisset quod ecclesia Wintoniensis, per decessum domini Johannis de Sandale, Wintoniensis Episcopi, Pastore careret, ejusdem ecclesie Dignitatem sue collacioni protinus reservavit. Sed Monachi dicti loci, reservacione predicta non obstante, obtenta a Rege licencia, ad eleccionem procedentes, virum quidem eminentis litterature, multarumque virtutum insigniis redimitum, de suo Monasterio Monachum, unanimi consensu elegerunt. Sed, rumore super eleccione sic facta in aure domini Pape tinniente, eleccionem illam nullam esse pronuncians, cassato electo, domino Rigaudo, clerico suo speciali, Episcopatum conferebat antedictum; qui, tanto honore adepto, cum domini Regis graciam post longas reluctaciones obtinuisset, nec ab Archiepiscopo Cantuariensi consecrari voluisset, in Monasterio Sancti Albani, ad Romanam Ecclesiam pertinente, munus Consecracionis, juxta facultatem a domino Papa sibi concessam, accipere preelegit. Obtenta, igitur, ab ejusdem loci Abbate et Conventu licencia, per manus Episcopi Londoniensis, in presencia Eliensis [et] Roffensis Episcoporum, ad majus Altare Sancti Albani, in die Sancti Edmundi, Archipresulis [16 Nov.], anno Domini M°. CCC^mo^. xx°, dignitatem Episcopalem suscepit; et, ne ipsius Consecracio futuris temporibus privilegiis Sancti Albani aliquod prejudicium afferre posset, litteras super indempnitate privilegiorum sub hac forma confecit,— Littera Episcopi Wintoniensis,—[16 Nov., 1320.] Rigaudus, permissione divina Episcopus Wintoniensis, Venerabilibus et Religiosis viris, Abbati Monasterii de Sancto Albano, Sacrosancte Sedis Apostolice inmediate subjecti, et ejusdem loci Conventui, salutem in gracia Salvatoris. Cum nos, juxta facultatem nobis per Sanctissimum in Christo Patrem, dominum Johannem, divina providencia Papam vicesimum secundum, ad Consecracionis munus recipiendum a quocumque Episcopo Catholico, graciam Sedis Apostolice obtinente, ad idem munus nobis impendendum concessam, munus Consecracionis die Dominica Sancti Edmundi, Cantuariensis Archiepiscopi, anno Domini M°. CCC^mo^. xx°, in exempto Monasterio vestro de Sancto Albano recepissemus, vestra benivolencia speciali; nolentes quod in dubium posset revocari quod vos a vestrorum privilegiorum effectu, vobis a Sede Apostolica indultorum, dici valeat recessisse, tacite vel expresse; aut per hoc privilegiis vestris aliqualiter derogetur, vel derogari posset in futurum; protestamur et confitemur hec omnia acta et facta fuisse de voluntate vestra, privilegiis vestris et inmunitate vobis expresse salvis. In quorum omnium testimonium has litteras nostras, sigillo nostro signatas, fecimus fieri patentes. Royal Writ to the Sheriff of the County, to take with him a sufficient power of the County, and go in person to the Hospital of St. Cross, near Winchester, and to the Churches annexed to it; to remove all lay or armed force from the said Hospital and Churches, whereby the Bishop of Winchester was prevented from inducting Geoffrey de Welleforde, whom the King has presented to the Mastership of the said Hospital; and to see that he was put into possession.

Pro Galfrido de Welleforde, Magistro Domus Sancte Crucis, juxta Wyntoniam,—[12 July, 1321.] Rex Vicecomiti Suthamptonie salutem.

[1] See pages 287, 447–449 for his presentation and admission, and mandates for his induction dated 26 June and 2 July, 1321.

[2] On 28 June, the King issued another mandate for his induction. The Bishop was to certify, forthwith, if any resistance was made to its execution; as it had come to the King's knowledge that the Bishop had ordered his Official to induct, but that he could not execute the order owing to the presence of an armed force. A Royal Writ, dated 2 July, orders the Sheriff of the County to remove the lay force from the Hospital, and to arrest all persons resisting; and for this purpose he was to take a sufficient power of the County with him, and, moreover, certify to the King the names of the persons arrested.

Et si quid per vos in contrarium factum fuerit seu attemptatum, id absque dilacionis incommodo modo debito corrigi faciatis; ne ad vos, tanquam ad violatorem juris nostri regii, non inmerito graviter capere debeamus. The Priory being overwhelmed with debt, owing to mismanagement and defective rule, the King takes it under his protection, and commits it to the custody of Master Henry de Clife and Adam de Brom, who are to appropriate its income to the payment of its debts and the maintenance of the community.

De Prioratu de Bermundeseye commisso Magistro Henrico de Clife, etc.,—[17 June, 1320.] Rex omnibus ad quos, etc., salutem. Quia Prioratus de Bermundeseye, Cluniacensis Ordinis, qui de patronatu nostro ac de progenitorum nostrorum et nostris elemosinis fundatus est, et esse dinoscitur, in tantum ere alieno ad presens oneratur, et status ejusdem per defectum regiminis tam miserabiliter deprimitur hiis diebus, quod bona illa ad solucionem debitorum in quibus Prior et Et nolumus quod aliquis Vicecomes, ballivus, seu minister noster, aut alius quicumque, in Prioratu predicto aut grangiis ad illum spectantibus, quamdiu in custodia predictorum Henrici et Ade fuerit, hospitetur, seu de eodem Prioratu aut aliquibus ad illum spectantibus se intromittat quovismodo, sine ipsorum Henrici et Ade licencia speciali. Licet nuper vobis mandaverimus quod dilectis clericis nostris, Magistro Henrico de Clife et Ade de Brom, tanquam Custodibus nostris Prioratus predicti, in manu nostra tunc existentis, intendentes essetis et respondentes; pro eo, tamen, quod manum nostram de eodem Prioratu jam amoverimus, et illum Priori loci illius restituerimus, vobis mandamus quod prefato Priori tanquam domino vestro, de redditibus et aliis serviciis vestris intendatis, prout ante capcionem Prioratus predicti in manum nostram facere consuevistis. In cujus, etc. Teste Rege, apud Westmonasterium, xxvj die Octobris.—Rot. Pat. 14 Edw. II, p. 1, m. 13.

De custodia Prioratus de Bermundeseye commissa,—[20 Nov., 1320.] Rex omnibus ad quos, etc., salutem. Sciatis quod commisimus dilectis nobis in Christo, Roberto de Haselshawe, Preposito Wellensi, et Fratri Johanni de Lodelowe, Suppriori Domus de Bermundeseye, custodiam ejusdem Domus cum pertinenciis, in manu nostra quibusdam de causis existentis; habendam quamdiu placuerit, ita quod iidem Robertus et Johannes de bonis predicte Domus Priori et Conventui loci illius ac ministris et ceteris officialibus dicte domus racionabilem sustentacionem exhibeant, et quod residuum bonorum illorum in exoneracionem debitorum in quibus dicta Domus ad presens oneratur, et in relevacionem status ejusdem, que per minus sufficientem custodiam Domus illius maxime deprimitur hiis diebus, applicetur, quamdiu custodiam habuerint antedictam. Brother Walter de Lutz, Prior of Bermondsey, being detained for certain causes in the King's prison, the King commits the custody of the Priory to Master Henry de Clife and Robert de Swaleclyfe, who were to provide for the maintenance of the House, the ministers and servants, and to apply the residue to the payments of the debts of the Priory.

BISHOP SANDALE'S REGISTER.

ADDENDA TO APPENDIX.

NOTE to the entry on page 35,—Licence granted to Sir John de Westone, knight, to hear divine service in the Oratory of the manor del Mareis. There can be little, if any, doubt that the place here referred to is the manor of Mershe, now known as Marsh Court, in the parish of King's Somborne. Sir John de Westone held also the manor of Middleton, or Milton, in the Isle of Wight. He appears to have died in August, 1321, as on the 14th of that month Bishop Rigaud de Asserio issued a commission to prove the will of Sir John de Westone, knight, deceased (see page 410). Another Sir John de Westone, knight, apparently his son and heir, died in November, 1323, and his will was proved before Bishop John de Stratforde, at Southwark, on 8 January, 1323–4. The entry mentions Sir John de Westone, knight, and Thomas de Westone, sons of the deceased, as his executors. The eldest son, Sir John de Westone, was Constable of the Tower of London, and was forty years of age at the time of his father's death; he died on 7 October, 1343, and his eldest surviving brother, William de Westone, Prebendary of Exeter and of Wells, was certified to be his nearest heir. William was succeeded by his brother, Sir Thomas de Westone, knight, who died on 27 July, 1354, seized of the manor of Middleton and other property in the Isle of Wight, leaving as his coheirs, Alianora, his only surviving daughter, Alianora and Isabella, coheirs of his daughter Margaret de Lovayne, deceased, and Roger, son of his daughter Isabella, also deceased ; amongst whom the estates were divided. The two granddaughters inherited Mershe Court and the property in the Isle of Wight. Alianora, the elder, married Sir William Boughchier, knight, and was grandmother to Cardinal Boughchier, Archbishop of Canterbury. She died on 5 October, 1397, and the Inquisition post mortem records that she held inter alia, at the time of her death, a moiety both of the Isle of Wight property and of the manor of "la Mersshecourt," within the hundred of Somborne; the latter of the Duke of Lancaster, as of his manor of King's Somborne, by the service of fifteen pence, payable yearly on the feast of St. Michael, and suit of service at the hundred Court every third week ; and the said moiety was worth, yearly, beyond reprisals, 33*s.* 4*d.* She held, also, and in like manner a moiety of the manor of Deane Court with appurtenances (in the parish of Sparsholt), within the same hundred, and of the same yearly value as Mershe Court. Besides the manor of Mershe Sir John de Westone held, in the time of Bishop Sandale, a tenement in the adjoining parish of Sparsholt, of the Bishoprick of Winchester, at the quit rent of 3*s.* a year. In 1310, John de Foxele and John de Batesforde were appointed to take the assise of mort dancestor arraigned by Ralph Beaupel, de Hiwishe, against John de Westone, senior, concerning a messuage and ten marks of rent and a carucate of land (excepting 18 acres), in Sparsholt, County of Southampton.—Rot. Pat. 4 Edw. II, p. 1, m. 26*d.*

The Expenses incurred at Southwark from the day of Bishop Sandale's death until the dispersal of the household.

Among the records classed as "Exchequer Miscellanea" is a Roll of three consecutive skins, measuring eleven inches in width and seven feet in length. The foot of the lowest skin is endorsed,—Rotulus de particulis positis in respectu de compoto Johannis de Cokermuthe et Johannis de Heydene, Executorum Johannis de Sandale, de bonis que fuerunt ipsius Johannis.

The first skin is headed,—Expense hospicii post mortem J[ohannis] de Sandale.

The entries are all more or less faded, and in many parts illegible; and it is hardly possible to make a transcript of the contents. There are fourteen paragraphs, each, with the exception of the first two, comprising the expenditure of a day, from Friday the 2nd to Tuesday the 13th of November, 1319. In each is set forth the quantity of wheat used for making bread; under the heading of "Pantry," how many pounds of candles were used; under "Butlery," the quantity of wine and beer; under "Kitchen," the expenditure for meat, and for fresh and salt water fish, and the cost of boat-hire on fish-days; poultry, garden-stuff, plates and dishes, salt, etc.; the expenses of the Hall and Chamber, and lastly of the Stable. The entries under the last paragraph are the most interesting: they give the number of horses stabled there, day after day, with the names of their owners, and the number of attendants or grooms on the first day. We have copied as much of this portion of the MS. as is readable.

The first paragraph appears to be a general statement of the total quantity of wine purchased and the expense of measuring,—13*l.* 10*s.*

The second paragraph is not readable. It seems to refer to the purchase of corn, the sum total being 20*l.* 10*s.* 6½*d.*

The third paragraph is much faded and partly illegible. It begins,—Die Veneris, secundo die Novembris, apud Suthwerke, quo die dominus Johannes de Sandale, Wyntoniensis Episcopus, obiit. In baking one quarter and six bushels of wheat, priced.[1] Pantry,—eight pounds of candles, 20*d.* Wine, 32 gallons: 385 gallons of beer at 1½*d.*, and 221 gallons at 1*d.*; cost 66*s.* 6*d.*: carriage of the said beer 7*d.* (obliteration by stains and the action of wet prevents further copying of the entries of this day, with the exception of the Stable entries, which will be given in a continuous form below).—Total cost, 8*l.* 7*s.* 3½*d.*

The next paragraph begins,—Die Sabbati sequente, ibidem (Southwark); total amount expended, 68*s.* 9*d.*, and for the following days—Die Dominica, iiij^to^ die Novembris sequente, ibidem, 101*s.* 3½*d.* Monday, 4*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.* Tuesday, 7*l.* 3*s.* 2½*d.* Wednesday, 4*l.* 7*s.* 4½*d.* Thursday, 7*l.* 6*s.* 11¾*d.* Friday, 7*l.* 7*s.* 10½*d.* Saturday, 9*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.* Die Dominica, xj die Novembris sequente,[2] ibidem, 52*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.* Monday, 41*s.* 7½*d.*, and Tuesday, 5*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.* The total amount is given on the foot of the last skin as £151. 13*s.* 0¼*d.*

Friday, 2 Nov., 1319. His Lordship's four palfreys[3] and four grooms. [John de] Cokermuthe,[4] three horses and three grooms.

[1] No amount is given as to the wheat used, the cost being included in the second paragraph.

[2] There was a special reason for the large expenditure on this day. It was the day of the Bishop's funeral, the day of Requiem and distribution of alms to the poor of Southwark. The expenses of the kitchen amounted to 38*l.* 9*s.* 5*d.*, and for men hired to help in the kitchen, 20*d.*; there is also an item of 4*s.* for rushes bought for the Church, entered on this day.

[3] In the account of the stock at Southwark, p. 234, only three palfreys are mentioned, —the one claimed as a mortuary being omitted.
